FORE UNIONS AID CARMEN

COMPANY ABANDONS PLAN FOR NIGHT CARS

Cigarmakers Vote Financial Aid to the Street Railway Men-- Sixth Day of Trouble is Quiet.

More union organizations in Fort Wayne are getting behind the street railway employees in their fight with the traction company for recognition.

At a special meeting of the Cigarmakers' union, called for 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, it was certain the carmen would be given not only assurances of support, but a substantial financial contribution to aid their cause.

Although there has been no order issued, it is understood the members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen are in a mutual agreement not to ride cars, several of the local lodges having taken up the matter at their meetings and the members, as individuals, have promised not to ride.

It is said the trainmen will issue orders to their members that those who persist in riding the cars named by strike breakers will be thrown out of the organization. However, this move has not been made yet, according to some of the members.

On Monday Manager Oscar Wobrock will give benefit performances throughout the entire day at the Lyric theater. The cigarmakers' union have had printed and are distributing 10,000 badges on which is the following inscription: "We walk and smoke Fort Wayne made cigars."

Rumor of Settlement.
Both officials of the traction company and the union denied Saturday afternoon a rumor to the effect that a movement was on foot to take the question now in controversy relative to local arbitration of all grievances before the state utilities commission. J. C. Colgan, member of the executive committee of the Amalgamated Carmen's association, stated Saturday that in his opinion there would soon be a settlement of the differences existing between the men and the company.

No Cars Tonight.
Announcement was made Saturday afternoon that no cars would be operated Saturday night, as was contemplated earlier in the day. The notices containing the restraining order issued by the federal court, which were torn down on East Creighton avenue, near the Bowser plant, during the rioting there last Wednesday, were replaced Saturday.

No disturbance of any kind had been reported up to a late hour Saturday, notwithstanding the half holiday. There were not even the customary crowds along the tracks at several of the factories at the noon hour, as had been the case every day this week.

Attorneys Bryce and D. J. Colgan, of Chicago, representing the Amalgamated Carmen's organization, arrived in the city Saturday to assist and advise the local carmen.

People Still Walking.
The sixth day of the street car trouble found people walking and riding jitneys. Very few are riding the cars, although, according to officials of the company, the regular schedule is being maintained except at the rush hours when under normal conditions extra cars are always put into service. Members of the union, however, declare that the full quota of cars is not being operated. No attempt has been made to operate cars on any of the short lines.

According to Mr. Brennan ninety men have been imported to Fort Wayne from Logansport, Lafayette, Indianapolis and other cities and arrangements have been made for more men as soon as they are needed. Under normal conditions between 175 and 180 men are required to man the cars both day and night.

Taking Them Out.
Saturday morning found a smaller crowd than usual at the barns, hardly hundred lookers on being congregated at one time. A detail of police under Captain Richard Kelly searched every car as carefully as they had done on other mornings but didn't find as much as a cutting remark aboard any of

PLOWING ASSOCIATION ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

of Committee.

The Allen County Plowing association met in the county agent's office at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon with President George Meyers in charge and officers for the coming year were elected with the following results: President, Chris G. Vonderau, and secretary, County Agent C. Henry.

The time and place for the annual plowing contest and crop exhibit was left in the hands of a committee which is to make a report early next week. The committees and members that were appointed are as follows: On arrangements, George V. Kell, George Gillie, Charles Meyers and John H. Thrash; committee on field, George Gillie, Hon. Joseph Tonkel and Ernest Gallmeier; superintendents, Class A, George Thumm; class B, Andy Blum; class C and D, George Goeglein; on arrangements for corn show, J. A. Thrash and George Stolte; committee on potato exhibit, Henry Wetzel.

There were twenty members present and a very enthusiastic meeting was held. An appreciation of the association was expressed for the retiring president, George Meyers, by a rising vote of thanks for his service. It was decided that a judge for the plowing contest be secured from Purdue university and that Frank Kell be secured to judge the corn and potatoes.

Mr. Gillie announced that this would be the twenty-fifth annual plowing contest of this association and that a company which manufactures plows has offered three silver loving cups as prizes for this silver anniversary of the association. Plans are being made to make this the greatest exhibit ever held.

THOUGHT FIRE-ALARM MERE SIREN TEST; HOUSE BURNS BEFORE VOLUNTEERS COME

At 10:30 Friday night the members of the New Haven Alert volunteer fire department turned over in bed and remarked to themselves that they were testing that new screecher fire whistle too often and at blamed unearthly hours. But the "test" continued for some ten minutes and one after the other the members of the Alert volunteers climbed into their nether garments and peered from the window.

The house that was destroyed was an old one, and no one had lived in it for some time. The town marshal ventures the opinion that the blaze was of incendiary origin, as the odor of kerosene was strong even at the time of the belated arrival of the department. The loss is about $600.

NOTED REFORMER TO SPEAK HERE SUNDAY

Some Inside Facts on Recent Anti-Liquor War
Also Coming.

Clifford G. Roe, of Chicago, assistant district attorney and noted fighter of the white slave traffic, will speak at the First Baptist church, Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, on "The Price of Vice." He will speak to men only under the auspices of the Men's Christian League.

At the meeting Attorney William M. Ballou will give a report on the "inside information on the recent liquor fight in Fort Wayne." He will make public for the first time several interesting disclosures regarding discoveries made during the anti-liquor fight in this city.

Five years ago had Mr. Roe visited Fort Wayne it would have meant nothing. Today it means that the city will have as its guest the man who is giving this nation a new conscience. It was only seven years ago that Clifford Roe, just breaking into his profession, conceived the great idea. And that idea filled his heart. He is the first man in the history of all time who started a concrete, progressive, full-of-fight campaign against white slavery. And, being the first man, he is the first to succeed at it. Mr. Roe will tell his audience the story of the fight from the day he entered it. He will appeal to the members of his audience to take up the weapons of battle. He will tell them that vice must go. He believes that he is in one of the biggest fights—for men and women, for home, for body and soul—that has been started since the world began. He sees a newer, better world; a world wherein all men play square for the joy of playing square.

No Petty Thief; Real Goods Says Man Who Admits Holdup

Columbus, O., Oct. 2.—"I ain't no petty thief—I'm the real goods." This was the statement today of Edward Loftus, alias Joe Ryan, who confessed at police headquarters that single-handed and alone he held up and robbed a train near Indianapolis on the night of Sept. 14.

The hold-up netted the bandit $2,500 in money and some jewelry. Loftus surrendered to Police Officer Shaw, whom he had known for years.

"Shaw always has been on the square," Loftus said. "I know they'd get me in time so I concluded to give myself up to him and let him get the reward."

Loftus said he once worked with Shaw in an electrical shop in Cincinnati and remembered Shaw as a motor officer on the Columbus police force. He declared railroad detectives had cornered him and were about to arrest him. He telephoned for Shaw to meet him at a certain street corner and was there to fill the appointment when the motor officer arrived.

WHEN IT HAPPENED.

Indianapolis, Oct. 2.—A lone bandit entered the express car on a Lake Erie & Western passenger train on the night of Sept. 15 at Arcadia, twenty-eight miles north of Indianapolis, covered the messenger with a gun and looted the safe. He took several packages of money and jewelry. The loss was estimated at $3,000.

COURT TEST FOR NEW FLORIDA LIQUOR LAW

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 2.—Preparations were under way today to test the constitutionality of the new Florida law which prohibits the sale of liquor in less than half pints, and forbids liquor sellers to allow the liquor to be drunk on the premises where it is publicly sold. The law went into effect at midnight September 30.

Five saloonkeepers were arrested here yesterday charged with violating the law. They were released later on bonds of $500 each. The men announced they would carry their cases to the state supreme court, if they were convicted in the lower courts. A similar test case was begun in Jacksonville.

The new law also required saloons to remain closed from 6 p. m. to 7 a. m. This feature has not been attacked.

OVERALLS CAUGHT IN BELT ON PUMP

Harry E. Jackson Injured at Dudlo Manufacturing Plant.

Harry E. Jackson, aged thirty-five years, is at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from severe sprains and contusions about his hips and the small of his back as the result of having his overalls caught in a belt in the pump house of the Dudlo Manufacturing company at the end of Wall street, at 4:30 Saturday morning.

He went into the pump house to oil some machinery and got too close to a belt pulley on some of the pumping machinery. The overalls caught in the belt and he was picked off his feet and thrown with considerable force across another pump.

Jackson landed on the small of his back and was badly cut and bruised. Dr. F. J. Schulz was called and ordered the injured man removed to St. Joseph hospital, where he was taken in the Klamm and Melching ambulance. Although the injuries are of a painful and severe nature, Jackson will recover.

TO FAVOR SUFFRAGE IN HIS HOME STATE

Wilson is Expected to Vote
Jersey Women.

Washington, Oct. 2.—President Wilson is expected shortly to announce his intention of voting for the New Jersey state constitutional amendment granting suffrage to women. A special election on the amendment will be held Oct. 19, and the president will go to Princeton to vote. Secretary Tumulty, whose home is in Jersey City, said today he expected to vote for the woman suffrage amendment. He would make no announcement, however, regarding the intentions of the president. It was reported Secretary Garrison, who is also from New Jersey, has authorized the statement that he would vote for woman's suffrage.

The president on several occasions has refused to support an amendment to the federal constitution to give nationwide woman's suffrage. He has said he believed the question to be a state issue. He also said he would make known his position on woman's suffrage before the amendment to the New Jersey constitution was voted on.

HAULED SAME VOTERS TO 3 VOTING PLACES

Chauffeur Details Election Day Activity at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Oct. 2.—Clarence Perry, a chauffeur, testified today in the trial of Mayor Bell, charged with election conspiracy, that he hauled two loads of men to three southside polling places on election day last November.

"I cannot say if they voted but I saw four or five go to the polls," the witness said. He testified further that he reported election morning at democratic headquarters and was sent to the south side. He said he had not yet received any pay for his work.

Repeaters were voted in the last election, using names of legal voters, who later denied their right to suffrage, according to two witnesses. David Cooper testified that a man who was not Jack Hobbs, voted under that name and that Hobbs did not get to vote. Leon M. Reed, told of a man voting under the name of William Keegan, and the latter testified that he was not allowed to vote.

French Claim Further Ad-

BULGARIA MOVES TROOPS FORWARD

Honors About Even in the East Where Situation is Unchanged.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

New progress for the French in the offensive movement of the allies on the western front is reported today by the Paris war office. Advances from trench to trench on the heights of La Folie in the Artois district are claimed.

While the political situation in the Balkans is continuing to absorb attention Bulgaria is disposing her troops with a view to eventualities. She is reported in advances through Athens to be moving forces toward the Greek border as well as in the direction of the Serbian frontier. Bucharest dispatches received in Italy says that Bulgarian artillery is being massed along the Dobruja front of the Roumanian frontier.

The situation on the eastern front is little changed, according to the latest official reports. Teutonic gains near Dvinsk and Volynia seem well set off by the Russian gains in the central sectors where they are admittedly on the offensive. Contradicting the recent British announcement of successes in Mesopotamia the Turks declare the British offensive resumed on Sept. 27 was a failure, a violent attack being beaten off.

A Paris dispatch says that advances received there indicate that the number of German and Austrian troops concentrated along the Serbian frontier, which has been variously estimated at from 200,000 to 600,000, has been much exaggerated, the actual number being only about 60,000.

Paris, Oct. 2.—There has been a heavy bombardment in the Artois district, according to the announcement made by the French war office this afternoon. Nevertheless the French forces have made perceptible progress in this district on the heights of La Folie.

It is reported from Athens that Bulgarian troops from Sofia are moving in the direction of the Serbian frontier and that other forces are being dispatched toward the Greek border.

This information was forwarded today by the Athens correspondent of the Havas News Agency, who asserts it was obtained from a reliable source. It is

DOC COOK WAS LOCKED UP AS A GERMAN SPY

San Francisco, Oct. 2.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who left San Francisco in June to climb Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, was arrested in Rangoon, Burma, as a German spy and his motion picture outfit was confiscated, according to Curtis W. Allen, an American timber buyer, who has returned from an eleven months' trip in the far east. Allen said that Dr. Cook was released later but permission to climb Everest was withheld.

The timber man who was born in Anacortes, Washington, said he himself was arrested as a spy seven times in eleven months, and at Rangoon was in the same jail with the explorer.

DR. LOHMAN WEDS HUNTINGTON GIRL

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 2.—Miss Bernice Bippus, daughter of Fred Bippus, one of Huntington's best known and wealthiest citizens, was married this afternoon to Dr. Maurice R. the cars or the crews that manned them. Soon after the cars were taken out on the East Creighton line "went dead" and was returned to the barns, but the others continued their regular trips.

No Operation Necessary.
Thompson, the imported carman who is at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from injuries received when he was caught by a crowd of rioters at the Bowser plant several days ago, is recovering, and according to reports from the hospital Saturday morning an operation will not be necessary.

Although the attendants admitted that the injured man was in fit physical condition for an interview, newspaper reporters were refused admission to his room without a permit from the company surgeon.

Crowd Was Orderly.
The crowd that gathered about the barns at 5 o'clock Friday evening was as orderly as any that has gathered there since the men quit work last Sunday night. The several hundred people who lined the sidewalks could not refrain from jeering at the crowds, but there was no other disturbance.

One conductor attempted to back into a switch without getting out of his car, and was given a good round calling by Officer Harris and ordered out into the street. The crowd could hardly control itself until he reached the pavement and once he set foot on the street cheered him on with wise saws and pertinent suggestions.

When he wanted the car to stop and laid his hand against it and yelled "Whoa," it threw the watchful waiters into convulsions of merriment and they "whoa'd" him into the barns. However, there was no real trouble and the officers on duty were able to cope with the situation very well. The carmen were there as usual, a score or more of them.

Did Not See Governor.

James M. Barrett, president of the traction company, returned Friday evening from Indianapolis and immediately denied the rumor that he had been in consultation with the governor and members of the public utilities commission in reference to the street car situation in Fort Wayne. It was stated that Mr. Barrett's visit to Indianapolis had to do with the cases pending in the federal court and that during the entire day he was in consultation with Ferdinand Winters and other attorneys representing the United States Mortgage and Trust company, who secured the temporary restraining order against Joseph C. Colgan and others from interfering with the operation of the cars. The United States Mortgage and Trust company holds the bonds of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company.

Twenty-Seven Cars Out.

Twenty-seven cars were taken out of the barns Saturday morning for service during the day. One of these was soon brought back on account of the burning out of a fuse. It is understood that the same service will be maintained as on Friday. There was a heavy fog early Saturday morning, which made the operation of cars more difficult.

Knitters Vote Aid.
At a meeting of the Knitters' local union, No. 2, Friday evening, the members unanimously voted $100 to the carmen's union and $100 every meeting night until the men are taken back to work. As the Knitters meet twice a month $200 a month will be given to the carmen as long as the strike continues. Every member of the union will be fined $25 for the first time he is caught riding on a street car before the present trouble is over, $50 for the second offense and expulsion for the third offense. The penalty also applies to the wives and children and if sweethearts of the unmarried men fail to abide by the order then they must find another "steady" or quit the union. Another motion was carried classing business men who ride the cars as "not friendly to the Knitters."

A resolution was adopted endorsing the part Mayor Hoesy has taken in an effort to bring about the arbitration of the differences between the company and its former employees. Resolutions also were passed favoring a local board for the arbitration of all differences and against the state utilities commission acting in that capacity. The meeting was largely attended. A committee from the Knitters was scheduled to meet with the carmen Saturday afternoon.

Officers' Signals Ignored.
One of the imported motormen came very near being arrested Friday when he ignored the signals of Officer Lauer at Wayne and Calhoun streets. On two trips the motorman failed to heed the officer's signal to halt and when he came around the third time Lauer boarded the car and told him in language that could not be misunderstood, that another offense of the kind would result in his arrest for violation of the traffic rules.

Several Fort Wayne people wore badges Saturday bearing the inscription: "We walk and smoke Fort Wayne made cigars." One of the trainmen entered a local restaurant Friday to get lunch. He looked all around for a union card and failing to find one asked the proprietor if he conducted a union restaurant. When told that he did not he walked out in search of a union establishment.

Car Strikes Wagon.
Complaint was made Friday evening to the police by Clarence Heath, 1122 Birch street, employed by William Henderson, of East Columbia street, that while driving east on Lewis street, about 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, car No. 185 ran into the rear of the wagon at Hanna street, damaging the wheels and breaking the crossbar and shafts. He said the car did not stop.

A large piece of iron was found Friday on the tracks at the switch leading off to the Borglaff brewery. Alleged to be, it is believed, for the purpose of wrecking a car. The front trucks of a car were thrown off, but no serious damage was done.

What the Car Men Say.
The following statement was issued today by W. H. Didier, chairman of the press committee of the car men:

"In answer to a statement by James M. Barrett, president of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, that he and the company have a legal contract with the street car men we wish to make the following reply:
"Admit the contract was signed, but how and why it was signed is another question.
"It goes back as far as December, 1910, when the car men had a com-

MICHIGAN ALUMNI IS READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 2.—Alumni of the University of Michigan will hold meetings in practically all of the leading cities of America tonight to launch their campaign to raise $1,000,000 to erect and endow a home for the Michigan union, which is to be dedicated to President James Angel, of the university. The number of meetings scheduled totals 132. At 9 o'clock in each city a moving picture will be shown upon the screen showing former Judge William L. Day, of Cleveland, leading a Michigan yell. His cheer will be the official opening of the campaign, and has been called the "Million dollar college yell."

"So it looks to all the older men that we would have suffered the same way if we had not signed the so-called contract at this later date. If the company would fire two of the oldest men for refusing in 1910 it would do it again in 1915 as a corporation is no respecter of person, where there are money and union organization in dispute. It is only the question of settling our troubles at home instead of taking them to the state utility commission as the traction company wishes to do. There are men in our city just as capable of adjusting our troubles as the men who compose this board at Indianapolis and would be just as all concerned and maybe more so than the board that Mr. Barrett is so anxious to get this trouble before."

At the present time there is nothing to take before the board but the question of having a local board in the future to settle any and all disputes if any should arise.

PRESCRIPTIONS ARE FORGED BY DOPERS

Detective Sergeants William E. Papert and Walter H. Immel on Saturday took into custody Charles Moore, who keeps a shoe-shining parlor at 1509 Calhoun street, and Robert Jones, who runs a barber shop at the same place, for procuring narcotic drugs by unlawful means. Moore is a "doper" and after getting some prescriptions from Dr. Dean Metcalf, 1333 Calhoun street, later forged that physician's signature to similar prescriptions which he and later Jones had filled at the "Christian Brothers" drug store, corner Calhoun street and Douglas avenue. The Christian brothers themselves discovered the fraud and notified the police. The officers are after a third man concerned in the drug game.

TURKEY WILL ALLOW ARMENIANS TO LEAVE

Consents to Emigration of All Who Become American Citizens.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Turkey has consented to the emigration of all Armenians who actually will become naturalized American citizens on their arrival in this country. Ambassador Morgenthau, at Constantinople, has arranged with the Turkish government for the free departure of all Armenians for whose intention to become naturalized Americans he can vouch.

An appeal will be made public by the board of commissioners for foreign missions for money to make possible the transportation and change of allegiance of such Armenians. It is understood that Turkey will permit the Armenians to come to the United States, although it will not allow them to take up residence in Europe. A large number of former Turkish citizens are now under arms in the strip of Armenian Turkey, near Van, now held by the Russians and the Turks fear that if other Armenians are allowed to go to adjacent territory, they will also enlist with Turkey's enemies. The only restriction that the United States makes upon the proposed encouragement of Armenian immigration is that the new comers fulfill the immigration requirements and enter the United States as any other foreigner, sincerely applying for American citizenship.

FIRST TWO AT PHILADELPHIA

J. G. Spink as its representative among the official scorers and requested that the base ball writers' association appoint additional scorers from among its members for Philadelphia and Boston. All the rules that governed the play during the 1914 series will be in force again this season. The national commission announced that the umpires would have the complete backing of that body in preserving order and enforcing the rules among the players. They are to be particularly cautioned against permitting any disorder or loud comment by players on the benches of the rival clubs.

The or Postponement.

It was further decided that in case of a tie game or a postponement due to inclement weather the teams will remain in the city where such game was to have been played until the game is complete and dates of further games on the schedule will be advanced to meet any such emergency arising.

The eligible players for the series as announced by the national commission follow: Philadelphia National league team—Alexander, Adams, Bancroft, Burns, Baumgartner, Becker, Byrne, Cravath, Chalmers, Dugger, Demaree, Killifer, Luderus, Moran, Mayer, McQuillan, Nichol, Paskert, Rixey, Stock, Tinep, Whitford, Weiser.

Boston American league—Barry, Carrigan, Cady, Collins, Foster, Greig, Gardner, Gainer, Hobbitt, Hooper, Henrichsen, Janverin, Leonard, Lewis, Mays, McNally, Ruth, Shore, Scott, Speaker, Thomas, Wood, Wagner.

Scale of Prices.
These are prices of the seats announced by the presidents of each league to the national commission. Boston—box seats, $5 each; grand stand, reserved, $3 each; first base pavilion, reserved, $2 each; third base, pavilion, admission $1; bleachers, 50 cents.

Philadelphia—box seats upper pavilion, first four rows, $5 each; upper and lower grand stands, reserved, $3 each; right field pavilion, reserved, $2 each; bleachers, $1 admission.

Chairman Hermann announced that the inter-club post season series at Chicago would be held under the supervision of President E. G. Barrows, of the International league, assisted by Adrian C. Anson as representative of the National commission. The American league umpires for this series appointed by President Johnson are Connolly and Dineen and for the National league President Tener named Quigley and Orth.

Wrangle Over Reservations.

F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia Nationals, said today that he was determined to take care of Philadelphia fans before providing accommodations for out of town spectators at the world's series base ball games to be played at Philadelphia. This was a reply to President Lannin's statement that unless the "Royal Rooters" of Boston were permitted to purchase reserved seats in a block in the bleachers for the Philadelphia games, he would not allow his Boston American league team to compete in the world's series.

Baker said he thought Boston was too big a base ball town to have a body of 400 organized rooters upset a series for which more than 40,000 every day rooters were anxious to witness.
"I am convinced," said Baker, "that if it were left to a vote of the 400 'Royal Rooters' as to whether they should be cared for in Philadelphia to the exclusion of 400 men who have been waiting for 32 years to receive the Phillies in a world's series, I am sure the 'Royal Rooters' would vote to stay home and give their brother fans a chance to see the games."

No Official Action.

No official action has been taken as yet regarding seats in Philadelphia for the Boston "Royal Rooters" but it is understood that they will be given the 400 seats asked for from the allotment given the National commission by the Philadelphia club.

One of the matters discussed by the national committee was that the commission will request the owners of the clubs to send the teams or portions of the teams to take part in games at the Panama Pacific exposition.

Melville E. Webb, of the Boston Globe, and Joseph McCready, of the Sporting Writers' Association of Philadelphia, were selected by the commission to have charge of the distribution of press tickets.

PHILADELPHIA ELATED.

Pleased Over Early Start and Two First Games.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—Philadelphia baseball fans were elated when the news was flashed here that the first two games of the world's series between the Phillies and the Red Sox would be played in this city. There was also satisfaction expressed that the first game is scheduled for Oct. 8, as the town was eager, despite the fact that it has had five such series in the last six seasons, to have the games start at an early date. The downtown office of the Philadelphia ball club was bombarded all morning with inquiries about the starting of the games.

Now that the date and place have been fixed a swarm of orders to printing companies, contractors and others will go out for execution. The work of installing more than a half hundred telegraph wires will be speeded up. The contractor who is erecting the extra bleacher seats and boxes has his work well under way.

NEW NOTE ON ARABIC CASE

announced. It is understood that the secretary will take the note with him to Washington and after discussing it with President Wilson will indicate whether or not it is satisfactory.

It was learned reliably that the note furnishes a basis for further negotiations and from this it was inferred that, while admitting the principle that merchantmen would not be torpedoed without warning, Germany is anxious to submit to arbitration the question of facts as to whether or not the Arabic was engaged in a hostile act at the time she was torpedoed and how much indemnity must be paid as a consequence, if the verdict is against the German commander.

Secretary of State Lansing stopped here today while en route to Washington from his vacation, to confer with Count von Bernstorff relative to the submarine negotiations and particularly the case of the Arabic.

Will Govern Next Step.

It was the first conference between the representatives of the two governments for two weeks, during which time the German ambassador had been given an opportunity to communicate to his foreign office the evidence gathered by the United States tending to prove conclusively that the Arabic was torpedoed without warning and was not engaged in a hostile act, as Germany claims. The loss of American lives on board the Arabic under these circumstances brought the issue between the United States and Germany to a climax and upon word that the German ambassador was to communicate to Secretary Laning today depends the next step in the policy of the United States.

First Official Word.

Before the German ambassador talked with Mr. Lansing on the last occasion the American government was virtually ready to sever diplomatic relations. Assurances since then that Germany would give careful examination to the American evidence in the Arabic case and if it was found conclusive would probably arrange for an amicable settlement, has come through press dispatches from Berlin, but officially no word has passed between the two governments during the last two weeks to indicate what Germany's opinion of the evidence is.

Secretary Lansing will return to Washington tomorrow morning and probably will communicate the results of today's interview to President Wilson on Monday.

Secretary Lansing declined to disclose the details of his short conference with Count von Bernstorff or to intimate the nature of the report delivered by the German ambassador. Mr. Lansing said the matter was strictly confidential. He added that he probably would confer later with Count von Bernstorff in Washington. Mr. Lansing expects to leave for Washington tonight.

BULGARIA WORRIES ALLIES.

Situation Claims Interest Over New Drive in the West.

London, Oct. 2.—The situation on the eastern front is regarded in London as of the greatest immediate importance notwithstanding the new offensive in the west. To transfer the center of gravity of the war to the western front is the task now before the French and British.

The menacing attitude of Bulgaria doubtless is having a marked bearing on the activity of the allies in France and Belgium for increasing pressure on the German lines would exert a decided influence on plans of the Austrians and Germans to concentrate a heavy force on the Serbian frontier should they commit themselves to a fresh campaign in the Balkans with the assistance of Bulgaria. The nation now occupies, as the foreign secretary phrased it, the position Turkey held during those weeks of uncertainty before she cast her lot openly with the central powers.

Some sections of the British press are urging Greece and the allies to strike quickly the instant it is determined that diplomacy is no longer to avert a crisis.

Special dispatches from Petrograd all speak of the improvement of the Russian position, although there has been no noteworthy change on the eastern front for some days.

With the exception of some ground lost, the British are clinging tenaciously to the positions already taken from the Germans.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

If cross, feverish or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out-of-sorts, hilly, sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—this is a sure sign that his little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they all love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Advertisement.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

WETS WOEFULLY WALLOPED.

Receive Terrible Drubbing in South Whitley Election.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 2.—The wet and dry election in Cleveland township Thursday pretty effectually established the fact that the vast majority of the people in the town of South Whitley and Cleveland township feel that they can get along very well without the licensed saloon, for they returned a majority of 202 for the dry side. At the last election the dry majority was only 10, and the jump to 202 was rather astonishing to both the wets and drys.

The election officers came to this city by automobile through the rain Friday morning and canvassed the vote in the office of County Auditor McLaughlin.

South Whitley people say the result is received with favor, and it is probable that this will put an end to the holding of such elections, as it would be futile for the wets to attempt to carry the township. It is said that there is at the present time need for at least fifteen houses in South Whitley to accommodate people who would like to locate there if they could find a place in which to move.

FIGHT OVER HALF FOOT OF LAND

Portland, Ind., Oct. 2.—What is a strip of ground, six inches in width, across the right-of-way of a railroad company worth? This question is to be put to the circuit court here, since both interested parties have filed exceptions to the report of appraisers who made an award of $115 for the ground. The question arose when the Union Heat, Light and Power company and the Lake Erie & Western Railroad company could not agree on the amount of damages the former concern should pay to place a six-inch pipe beneath the railroad tracks. When the appraisers' report was made the heat, light and power company objected, claiming the amount was too large. The railroad company filed exceptions alleging the amount is too small and now the court must settle the dispute.

STORES TO CLOSE EARLY.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 2.—Wednesday night was the last that the union stores of this city will keep open until 9 o'clock on that day of the week. By the agreement which was made by the clerks and the proprietors, the stores close every night at six, with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday nights. On the former night the stores will close at nine o'clock during the months of April, May, June, July, August and September, and will remain open until ten o'clock on Saturday night. The agreement states that during the months of January, February, March, October, November and December that the stores will only remain open until eight o'clock on Wednesday evenings.

PAULDING SCHOOL CROWDED.

Paulding, Ohio, Oct. 2.—The public schools of Paulding are now showing the largest enrollment of any time in their history. The figures are: High school, 181; grades, 241. Total, 422. The increase this year is largely due to an influx of rural pupils, who have greatly increased the freshman class, which numbers 125 this year, as compared with 73 last year. The senior or graduating class is the largest in the history of the school, numbering 31, of whom 19 are girls and 12 boys. The entire upper floor of the high school building, four class rooms and assembly room, is devoted to the high school use, in compliance with this condition it became necessary to place all the seventh grade pupils in the west side building.

HUNTINGTON CORN CONTEST.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 2.—First judging on the five acre corn tracts entered in the county corn contests will begin on Tuesday, October 12. Judging will be done by a representative of the extension department of Purdue university and two Huntington county men, to be selected by the officers of the Rural Protective and Improvement association. Judging will be carried on under rules sent out by Purdue university. It is probable that the results of the contest will not be announced until several weeks after the field judging has been made, as moisture determination must be made in the Purdue laboratories in order to correctly gauge the number of pounds to the bushel.

CITY EDITOR FRANCE QUILTS.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 2.—Ex-District Prosecutor C. O. France, who cashed numerous checks from outside firms which had been sent here for Old Settlers day and then checked the money into his pocket, has resigned his position as city editor of the Commercial-Mail, the same to become effective this evening. He is going to move away from town and seek another field of endeavor. The amount of money that he misappropriated varies according to stories he told different people, telling some it was $47 and others that it was $27. However, he has attempted to make settlement with the Old Settlers association in the sum of $47.

HUNTINGTON FARMER DIES.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 2.—The funeral of Christ L. Dolby, who died at his home in Lancaster township, of paralysis, was held this morning at the Lancaster church. Burial was in the cemetery near by. The deceased was born April 11, 1847, in Wayne county, Indiana, and was the son of Isaac and Caroline Dolby. Mary Steward became the bride of Mr. Dolby at the wedding which took place in Polk township, of this county. Shortly after their marriage the couple moved to the farm where Mr. Dolby died. The five children surviving the death of their father are members of a family of ten children. The widow also is living.

KICK OF HORSE FATAL.

Plymouth, Ind., Oct. 2.—P. D. Berlin, a farmer residing one and a half miles east of Hibbard, was kicked on the head by the horse at 5:30 Thursday evening from the effects of which he died Friday afternoon. Just how the accident occurred is not known. He was in the barn attending to his team. It is presumed that he stooped to pick up something and was kicked on the top of the head by the horse. The skull was crushed in. Mrs. Berlin was attending the cows outside the barn, and hearing a noise, ran into the barn and found her husband lying by the horse with the brains oozing from the wound.

LIBERTY CENTER MAN HAS BOND.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 2.—Earl Davis, 30, a farmer living on his mother's farm near Liberty Center, and the father of two children, was arrested on a bench warrant issued by Special Judge Enos Cole, charged with an attempted criminal assault. The charge is made by Lottie Sprawl, 17, daughter of Henry Sprawl, a neighbor of Davis. According to her story she was passing the Davis farm Tuesday when Davis, who was entering, or was near a corn field, asked her to accompany him. She says she refused and he grabbed her and that a struggle ensued and she freed herself.

HEAVY DOCKETS IN COURT.

Albion, Ind., Oct. 2.—Noble circuit court for the October term will convene next Monday morning with Judge Wrigley on the bench. Monday will be devoted to probate business. The docket will be called Tuesday. The petit jury has been summoned but the prosecutor, H. F. Helwig, is still undecided as to whether the grand jury will be required. The work of the term promises to be heavy on both civil and criminal dockets. Of some twenty prisoners now confined in the county jail, over half of them are awaiting trial on various charges. The others are completing jail sentences.

CANNERY HELPS ASHLEY.

Ashley, Ind., Oct. 2.—Although this has not been a good year for tomatoes, the local canning factory is able to run about half force. There are about sixteen women working and four men, using but one canning machine. Had there been a full crop, Mortoff & Tennant were ready for it; the two machines being able to deliver seventy cans per minute. With the near failure of the onion crop in this vicinity, the work furnished by the canning factory has been a big help for folks depending on day labor for their livelihood.

Monroeville, Ind., Oct. 2.—William McClure, who has had charge of the local Ohio Electric station for the past year, has been tendered a better position in the Ohio Electric terminal office, at Lima, Ohio, and will leave for that place at once. SECRETS OF SUCCESS! "WORK WINS," SAYS LORD READING.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Lord Reading, chief justice of England, co-negotiator of the British war loan, told the secret of his code of success in two words—"Work wins."

Here is his advice to young men on success: Know what you want. Keep your mind always on it. Face facts, but remember there is always a bright side. Above all, keep the tightest control of yourself. Remember that work wins in the end. No success is won without it. No success is worth having unless honorably earned.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Exodus 9:27-35.

27 And Pharaoh sent, and called for Moses and Aaron, and said unto them, I have sinned this time; the Lord is righteous, and I and my people are wicked.

28 Intreat the Lord (for it is enough) that there be no more mighty thunders and hail; and I will let you go, and ye shall stay no longer. 29 And Moses said unto him, As soon as I am gone out of the city, I will spread abroad my hands unto the Lord; and the thunder shall cease, neither shall there be any more hail; that thou mayest know how that the earth is the Lord's.

30 But as for thee and thy servants, I know that ye will not yet fear the Lord God.

31 And the flax and the barley was smitten; for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was boiled.

32 But the wheat and the rye were not smitten; for they were not grown up.

33 And Moses went out of the city from Pharaoh, and spread abroad his hands unto the Lord, and the thunders and hail ceased, and the rain was not poured upon the earth.

34 And when Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders were ceased, he sinned yet more, and hardened his heart, he and his servants.

35 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, neither would he let the children of Israel go; as the Lord had spoken by Moses.

Making Dyes in America.

Because it is the home of a great institution, employing hundreds of operatives and using vast quantities of the product, Fort Wayne is more than ordinarily interested in the discussions regarding the manufacture of dye-stuffs in America, and some important light is now being shed upon the subject by Dr. Thomas H. Norton, the federal investigator of the dye-stuff situation.

Briefly, Dr. Norton explains that American capital is ready to embark on an adequate scale in the manufacture of dye-stuffs, heretofore an almost exclusively German industry, if it can be assured of protection against the dumping of foreign dye-stuffs and other chemicals upon the American market after the war shall end and trade gets back to a normal basis. Dr. Norton declares his belief that immediate action by congress is essential to the founding of an American chemical industry; that American manufacturers are unwilling to hazard the large sums necessary to embark in the enterprise unless they are assured that the attitude of the government will be such as to protect them against the sort of competition inspired by grievous business necessity that will follow when commercial readjustment begins as the war conflict ends. As the situation now stands, the business would be profitable. What would probably happen when the European markets seek to unload would be quite another matter.

It should not be forgotten that the dye industry in the United States is now comparatively nil, and that before it can be developed to high efficiency there must be long and perhaps expensive experiments. It must start as essentially an "infant industry," and it will need careful nurturing. It is so important that America be wholly independent of the remainder of the world as a producer that there can scarcely be valid objection to a proper degree of encouragement manifested in moderate protection that will safeguard the dye-stuff undertaking in this country.

Contrary to the old claim that the corporation is inherently devoid of soul, some of the big ones have recently been manifesting consideration of a highly gratifying sort. One instance is that of the Standard Oil company, which has given its men at Hammond and Whiting an eight-hour day instead of ten as formerly, and without any reduction in wages. Moreover, the change makes room for 400 additional men at these two points. It is difficult to question the genuineness of a voluntary concession that costs so much real money as that to the concern which makes it.

The boom of Senator Frederick Van Nuys, of Anderson, for the democratic nomination for governor next year, appears to have been launched in very auspicious style at the party barbecue at Elwood, and it is commanding considerable attention over the state. Within a short time, the prediction is made, friends of District Attorney Frank S. Dailey will shie the Bluffton man's hat into the ring, and doubtless still other are to follow. The race for place on both democratic and republican tickets next year promises to be invested with all the interest the most ardent lover of a political scramble could desire if he were staging the show himself.

Following the decision of the federal court that it is an unlawful combination in restraint of legitimate trade, the motion picture trust has announced that it will give up and make readjustments to conform to the law, but wails that it "means millions of expense and a big loss." It has always been observed that gains illegitimately gotten are fully as hard to surrender as are the dollars which come in cleanly fashion, and the wry face of the film barons is merely another illustration of that fact.

It requires a rather vivid sort of imagination to consider the average policeman enacting the role of aide to Cupid, but we're becoming accustomed to surprises these days. Anyhow, the police at Evansville extended their kindly offices in getting an orphan girl out of jail in order that she might be married to her waiting lover after over-zealous officers at St. Louis had sent her to the Indiana city by mistake. There is scarcely any avenue in which the policeman cannot make himself useful if he sets about to do it.

A Terre Haute man appears to be nursing a grievance against Italy and wants the United States to protest vigorously because he was arrested and forced to leave the Italian domain. Somehow it is difficult to work up any great degree of sympathy with the Terre Haute man's troubles. Why should he desire to remain there, anyway?

The street car trouble in Fort Wayne is now in its sixth day, and with the possible exception of the jitney drivers, we think a vote taken would show the unanimous opinion that it isn't in any sense an enjoyable sort of affair for either the car men, the company or the public. That being true, why not an adjustment of difficulties and a return of peace?

New Railroad in Alaska to Sound Knell of Horse and Dog Mail Carriers.

Winter Mail Trail From Chitina to Fairbanks, Alaska.

By F. M. Kerby.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Uncle Sam's new government railroad in Alaska is going to mean a lot more than mere cheap transportation of necessary supplies and quicker travel for citizens of the territory. All sorts of unexpected results are going to come from it.

Among other things, it will revolutionize methods of carrying the United States mail, especially the winter delivery. At present, mail delivery in the territory is difficult, especially in winter. This is due to lack of roads rather than to eliminate conditions. In summer the mail goes in not only by steamer to all the ports on the southern coast, but also up the western coast, and in the interior, steamers on all the navigable waterways aid in the distribution. But in winter, all mail for the interior must go to the southern coast ports and from there to the interior over snow trails, or by Fairbanks (from which point it is distributed to other interior points).

must go from Seattle to Cordova by steamer; from there it goes by rail to the Copper River and Northeastern railroad for a distance of 133 miles to Chitina. At Chitina the real journey starts. It is approximately 350 miles overland from Chitina to Fairbanks, and the mail goes by four-horse sled team, twice a week, weather permitting. The trip from Cordova to Fairbanks requires 7-12 days. The sled teams are changed at the road houses after each 30 miles of the journey, where the mail carrier can also procure a good meal at from $1.00 to $1.50.

When the government railroad is completed, mail for the interior will probably all go up to Fairbanks by rail, cheapening, quickening and improving the service. It will be very many years, however, before the horse, dog and reindeer will be displaced by the iron horse in interior Alaska.

THE PRESIDENT'S HEART.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch).

It was to be expected of President Wilson that, when he should address the veterans of the civil war as he did Tuesday in Washington, on the occasion of the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the republic, that he should praise their war-time patriotism and courage, and indicate the enduring value of their achievements. This has been a general perfunctory oratorical service for many years.

But the president did much more than this. He disclosed new angles of thought and sentiment touching our great civil conflict and its results, and he suggestively pointed out to these gray-haired veterans that many inspiring things of which they had not dreamed when battles were engaging their lives and their valor, have developed from their service for the spiritual and physical benefit and enrichment of the nation. He made these aged patriots feel, as probably never before, how very much they have done for their country and how profoundly the sentiment of popular gratitude therefore reaches throughout the nation. His generous words in behalf of the south will evoke no spirit of hostile criticism anywhere.

The striking note of the address was that of deep appreciation and sympathy, and it was therefore no wonder, when the president of the United States, yesterday, watched these worn and weary men in blue, the feeble and decrepit remnants of the vast Union armies of 55 years ago, marching along Pennsylvania avenue with proud mein but halting and hesitating steps, that the tears of affectionate compassion and regard should roll down his cheeks. Mr. Wilson has a great heart for the American people and especially for the old soldiers.

FINANCIAL PREPAREDNESS.

(Minneapolis Journal).

By the amazing good fortune of the new banking and currency law, the United States was prepared to meet the financial strain of the world war, though it torpedoed its shipping and hampered its export trade by restricting the economic business organization needed to meet foreign competition.

The problem of international exchange may be worked out in one way or another of the many under consideration. Credit may be put against the unprecedented excess of American exports by one form or another of bond transaction with our customers.

The details matter little to laymen, when worked out by the best financial wisdom and experience, organized into effective machinery with central direction under government supervision.

Five years ago this would have been impossible. When national credit had been undermined by unwise financial legislation 20 years ago the Cleveland administration had to use the imperfect and involuntary machinery of large private banking with foreign connection till the law-making power could be brought to its senses.

In the tremor of domestic finance caused by strained credit due to excessive speculation in 1907 the sound banks of the whole country had to form overnight a voluntary organization for uniform action.

Now the federal reserve law has put all the financial institutions of the country behind the district reserve banks. These under the leadership of the federal reserve board, furnish guidance and control for the finance of the whole country in a mission of civilization as delicate as it is urgent. The United States is ready in this way if it is no other.

WHEN WILSON LED CABINET IN PRAYER

Incident in Recent Crisis is Related by Bishop Anderson.

Indianapolis, Oct. 2.—How President Wilson went down on his knees and led his cabinet in prayer at a recent meeting was told here by Bishop William F. Anderson, of Cincinnati, at a session of the Indiana Methodist Episcopal conference. A United States senator told the bishop of the incident, he said. The senator had heard it from one of the cabinet members who prayed with the president.

"When the president arrived at the cabinet meeting," said Bishop Anderson, "his face wore a solemn look. It was evident that serious affairs of the nation were on his mind. He said to the cabinet members: 'I don't know whether you men believe in prayer or not. I do. Let us pray and ask the help of God.'"

"And right there the president of the United States fell upon his knees and the members of the cabinet did the same and the president offered a prayer to God. While the war rages in Europe, we in this country should thank God that in this crisis of the world we have a chief executive who is a servant of God and who stands with his hand in the hand of God. Every minister in the land should, every time he offers a prayer, take Woodrow Wilson by the hand and lead him into the presence of God, and ask that he be given strength to continue to be the great apostle of peace among men."

There was a cheer of "Amen" from the ministers. Later a telegram expressing the confidence of the delegates in him was sent to the president.

Mrs. Ellington did not learn of the accident until she reached Staunton, 20 miles away. She then fainted away.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 2.—America need have no fear of a dye famine, according to Thomas Edison, who says the United States can make all the principal dyes. I have developed a benzol-producing plant and that is the starting point of all dyes," he said in his laboratory here. "The making of dyes in this country will be successfully carried on if congress will pass a law to prevent dumping into this country at prices lower than they are sold in Germany."

LATEST FASHION FREAK IS FRIPPERY BORROWED FROM ANTE-BELLUM DAYS.

New York, Sept. 30.—Women are going to wear pantaloons!

Already they have been seen along Broadway and Fifth avenue, for this frillery borrowed by Dame Fashion from ante-bellum days is catching on fast.

But here's a secret. They're really only imitation pantaloons. Simply little lace effects that are fastened to the bottoms of the new dresses or in some cases attached to the stockings between ankle and knee.

The craze for fur has reached them, too, for some of the smartest pantaloons effects are lace affairs edged with fur.

league work. After the business matters presented by Mrs. Fauve were disposed of, Mrs. Fred McCulloch, chairman of the civics department, took charge of the program. Lee J. Nindge gave a live talk on "Women's Clubs and Civic Betterment." Members of the College club, the Y. W. C. A., in whose building the league meetings are held, and the Franchise league were hostesses.

Musie was furnished by Mrs. Eliza Hanna Elliott, soprano; Miss Jeannette Sunshine, pianist, and Mrs. Emil Verweire Williams, accompanist.

The most important changes in league work are the creating of a new department of work, that of music, and the appointment of several new committees, one on finance, one on music, one on membership and a house committee.

Another new plan is to have certain clubs assigned to act as hosts at every league meeting and to provide for entertainment. Assignments were given out at this meeting.

The Woman's league is also to give an entertainment during the season, probably a big ball in place of the charity ball given in recent years for the benefit of Hope hospital, as that organization has announced that it will not manage such social event this winter. No definite plans are yet formulated concerning the Woman's league form of entertainment, but the object in the distance is a club building, therefore all available money will be deposited towards such a fund.

The various departments and committees with their respective chairmen and members are: Civic department, Mrs. Fred McCulloch; art and music departments, Miss LaVon Sperry and Mrs. Clark Fairbanks; social hygiene department, Dr. Carrie Banning; home economics department, Mrs. Lee Nindge; educational department, Miss Flora Wilber; industrial department, Mrs. W. E. Davis; philanthropic department, Mrs. Mary G. Keel. The various committees are: Finance committee, Mrs. Austin Stults, chairman, and Mrs. Fred Urbahn, Mrs. B. H. Hudson, Miss Alice Knight and Miss Ruth Evans; house committee, Mrs. J. J. Ritter, chairman, and Mrs. John Moring, Mrs. Carver Wood, Miss Pixley and Miss Cole; music committee, Mrs. Carver Wood, chairman, and Mrs. S. L. Morris, jr., Miss Doud, Miss Hanna, Miss Vail, Miss Helen Jacobs and Miss Mabel Hiser; membership committee, Mrs. E. H. Moeller, Mrs. J. G. Schwarz, Mrs. Clark Fairbank, Miss Wilber.

Fred Hulburd has resigned his position with the Orpheum theater and will leave Sunday for Cleveland, where he has accepted a position as general solicitor with the S. Barker's Son's company. He also expects to continue his law studies. Mr. Hulburd is one of Fort Wayne's accomplished musicians, commencing his violin work at the age of seven and since then has been almost constantly before the public.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Benz, 1216 Barthold street, were called to Kendallville, Friday, on account of the death of their nephew, Robert Lemaster, who was accidentally choked to death in a fence.

Scene from "Don't Lie to Your Wife"—Majestic Wednesday.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Wednesday matinee and night, "Don't Lie to Your Wife."
Saturday matinee and night, Joseph Stanley in "All Over Town."
Coming soon, Walker Whiteside, Scheumann-Heink, Lyman Howe pictures, Frances Starr, "The Only Girl," "Twin Beds."

"DON'T LIE TO YOUR WIFE" COMING NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Does a wife like her husband to lie to her? Does this same wife overlook a lie when it is backed up with funny complications, during which the husband's love for her is always manifest? Does your wife fancy you going out with chorus girls, perchance she happens to be a suffragette? These are a few of the questions whose solutions supply much of the comedy in Campbell B. Casad's song farce, entitled "Don't Lie to Your Wife," which will be seen at the Majestic matinee and night, Wednesday.

Amos Doppelde, a New Yorker, who, like many husbands of today, is under the domination of a wife, who has suffragette weaknesses. Her "vote for women" enthusiasm brings her to Atlantic City, and opportunity for her husband to make a night of it with convivial friends. They meet three chorus girls, are arrested for speeding and are eventually landed at the husband's flat after many exciting experiences. Later the wife and her friends show up very unexpectedly, while the party is at its height, and the complications, the theatre-goer may feel assured, are many, but the man proves equal to the occasion and finally fixes it so that everything turns out admirably "for later happiness."

JOSEPH SANTLEY IN "ALL OVER TOWN" ON SATURDAY.

Joseph Santley, now firmly established

ed as one of the most popular musical comedy stars in America, comes to the Majestic theatre Saturday, October 9th, for matinee and evening performances, in "All Over Town," the latest musical entertainment to engage his varied talents. This piece, described as a "musical fantasy," in the announcements coming from the management, ran throughout the entire summer at the Garrick theatre in Chicago, the nesting place for the most important of the musical attractions visiting the middle west metropolis.

Emulating the versatile George M. Cohan, Mr. Santley appears in this newest venture in the triple capacity of star, author and producer. The book of "All Over Town" is his own composition. He is said to have blended romance and fantasy in equal proportions in the writing of it. The story which threads its way through the eight diversified scenes is presumed to be the warp and woof of a dream which a blase young man has when he falls asleep in a box during the performance of Gounod's "Faust." Mr. Santley appears as the figure which this young man dreams himself to be. At first he is shown for a few brief moments as an old man who makes a compact with a most humorous and original sort of a devil, and who is restored to his youth upon certain conditions. These conditions furnish much of the fun of the piece, inasmuch as they concern the requirement that the central figure shall make ardent love to and compromise the extremely unattractive mortal wife of the visitor from below.

It may be said in passing that there are more youthful characters who attract the youthful stars; that he is provided with abundant opportunities for the display of the graceful dancing and pleasant singing which have won him much of his present distinction; that the humorous personification of evil is played by the ubiquitous Frank Moulton and that the numerous company includes Miss Beatrice Allen, Miss Ruth Randall, Miss Sylvia Jason, Miss Jane Mac-

Arthur, Miss Lillian Lee, Frederick Santley, Johnny Boyle, Saranoff, Arthur Hohl and Miss Marie Callahan. The array of charming young ladies always associated with the pieces in which Mr. Santley appears will provide a pleasant background for the proceedings which transpire in the eight scenes.

AT THE TEMPLE.

A WHIRLWIND COMEDY.

"The Third Party" is the Whooping Laugh for Next Week at Temple.

Each successive farce comedy in which the Temple Theater Players are seen establishes itself as funnier than its predecessor. This was true with "Hello Bill," "The Girl in the Taxi" and is true according to the members of the company in even greater measure with the whirl wind of laughs, "The Third Party," in which the Temple Players will open a week's run Monday night. Frank Gallagher, a new member of the company will make his debut in this farce in one of the principal roles. Mr. Gallagher formerly was leading man for the Robert Slerman stock company and has been associated with other big stock organizations for several seasons, having been drafted into the work from the legitimate stage.

"The Third Party" is a fanciful farce built around the fact that in a certain London restaurant, frequented by the frivolous, it is a rule that couples shall be chaperoned by a male companion furnished by the restaurant. Mr. Cazaza is the official chaperon of the Royal restaurant, but his place is taken one night by a typical man about town when a member of parliament rejoining in the name Pottinger brings a pretty dancer to the place. Mrs. Pottinger turns up of course, and the pseudo chaperon proves his worth by adopting the dancer as his wife. The party then adjourns to the Pottingers' country estate where the fiancée of the fake chaperon appears and the sweetheart of the actress shows up. It is the biggest bundle of absurd situations ever gathered together in one evening's entertainment.

The company is now presenting "Elevating a Husband." This clever comedy drama has registered most emphatically with Fort Wayne amusement lovers, who have enjoyed it, for the action is rapid, the moral an obvious one and the comedy rich.

MANY APPLICANTS.

Fifty-six took the civil service examination Saturday, conducted in the federal court room of the postoffice building to fill vacancies in the carrier and clerical forces at the Fort Wayne postoffice.

sorts of things that Miss Gordon does just a bit better than she does anything else. As a matter of fact it was written expressly for her, as was her original sketch, "Tips on Tap," also from the pen of Mr. Woolf. Miss Gordon is considerably more than a mere beauty. She is an actress of splendid ability, as is evidenced by the fact that for several seasons she played the leading feminine roles for Otis Skinner.

The Alexander Kids are to be with us again. These clever children, whose natural talents have been developed to the extreme, are universal favorites in Fort Wayne, and this year they are en tour with a brand new assemblage of songs, dances and costume changes. Garnished with comedy trimmings, including a bit of straight fun, burlesque and a few minutes at the piano, Santley and Norton will present their singing specialty on this coming bill. The Gladiators, it is not given to know their real names, are a team of men of superhuman strength and grace, whose performances compels admiration, both because of their superb muscular development and because of their splendid agility. Sleight of hand, bright patter, good music and some clever balancing and juggling combine to make the offering of J. Warren Keane and Grace White a treat. Prevost and Brown will devote several minutes to artistic foolishness and the Meyer Sisters will do a clever novelty.

The current program includes Julia Blanc and company in the sketch of the south, "Mammy Lou;" Miss Vera Sabina and Cleveland Brunner in a beautiful dancing act; Ed Correlli and Charles

AT THE EMPRESS.

Comes to the Empress Next Week in "The Champagne Girls."

Patrons of burlesque will be provided with a most attractive offering at the Empress theater next week when a competent cast will present, "The Champagne Girls." This is a new production with Bert Saunders and Lew Golden, two of the best known stars of the burlesque stage as head liner comedians. These two men have headed their own separate shows for years and to have both of them in one production assures theater goers that the offering will be worth while seeing. There will be the usual big chorus and the fun will fly fast and thick. As an added attraction Lois Dacre, a lady with an engaging personality and a beautiful wardrobe will come to the Empress to give her selection of songs written especially for the burlesque stage. She is not only talented musically but goes through her work with a vim and interest that is very apparent and secures results.

Other stars with this company who are given a liberal hand wherever they appear include Al Warren, George Leon, Edith Graham, Ethel Hall and Gussie White.

This week's bill will come to an end tonight with the closing performance of the offering, "The Hurdy Gurdy Girls."

AT THE JEFFERSON.

Marguerite Fisher will be seen at the Jefferson today in the Mutual Master Picture "Infatuation," a stirring photoplay depicting the struggles endured by a woman for the man she loved. Miss Fisher as Phyllis Ladd is the pampered, but beautiful daughter of Robert Ladd, multimillionaire railroad man, who, since the death of her mother, has been the idol of her father. Phyllis, for months, has sought the ideal man of her dreams. But Carthage, the city in which she resides, has no man, so far as Phyllis could find, who measured up to her ideals.

The social season at Washington was at its height when Phyllis received an invitation to visit her aunt, Mrs. Fensham, who occupied an enviable position in capital society. Social duties and the attentions showered on her by the titled fortune hunters and others paled on Phyllis in time, and, immediately after receiving a proposal from a French duke, she hurried back to Carthage to forget him and incidentally to continue the search for her ideal.

Attending a matinee one afternoon, Phyllis met the man of her dreams in Cyril Adair, the leading man of the stock company. The following day she invited him to the Ladd home for tea. There she confessed her love for him. To tell more might spoil a perfectly good story, and the remainder should be seen in film action.

Neal of the Navy episode 4 and a comedy reel winds up today's bill.

INVENTOR OF NEW WIRELESS RECEIVES
THREAT OF DEATH.

R. J. McLean (left) and D. W. Lapp.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 2.—Randolph James McLean, electrical engineer, and his business partner, Dorsey W. Lapp, of this city, have secured a contract whereby the British war department has agreed to purchase outright a wireless telegraph invented by McLean, for $3,250,000.

A final demonstration was arranged for before a board of British army engineers at Montreal. As evidence of the good faith of the purchasing government, it has placed itself under $500,000 bond to close the deal at once if the inventor is able to prove his claims. The bond now reposes in a Seattle bank.

Although McLean and Lapp have kept their transactions with Great Britain closely guarded, they received a threatening letter last month, informing them that unless they ceased their negotiations McLean's invention would never be tested.

The letter, signed by "A Friend, and Yet an Enemy," threatened them both with death.

They are under agreement not to disclose the nature of the invention until it is either finally accepted or rejected. It is said, however, that the apparatus is not only an improvement on the present Marconi system, but entirely different in many respects.

They assert they believe it will greatly add to the advantages of the allies over the German armies, and possibly may be the means of shortening the war many months.

McLean tried his apparatus in Canada five years ago, at the home of his parents in Woodstock, N. B., and found it capable, he says, of doing everything he had hoped.

A somewhat indifferent financier, he made no effort to dispose of the invention until he met Lapp here a few months ago. Lapp furnished money for a model and succeeded in interesting the British war office.

The contract was signed July 18 by British representatives here, and arrangements were made whereby the model was sent to the war office at London.

Apparently war authorities there were well satisfied, as they at once opened negotiations for a demonstration by the inventor.

The whole apparatus, it is said, can be carried by two men, can be set up and taken down with little effort and in a short time, a fact which makes it particularly desirable in army field work. McLean is 29 years old, and Lapp is 22.

Dr. J. W. Thompson has moved to Gaunt Bldg.

JOHNSON, PINCHOT OR
MURDOCK MOST LIKELY

Progressives Are Certain to
Have Man in Race for President.

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Oct. 2.—At a meeting of 33 of the more prominent progressive party leaders from the middle west and east, at the Manhattan hotel, in New York, where Victor Murdock, national chairman of the party, was the principal speaker, it was decided that the progressive party should go on organizing and prepare to name a presidential candidate. This points to Hiram Johnson or Gifford Pinchot, or possibly Victor Murdock, as the progressive nominee.

Murdock takes the ground that the nomination of a man like John W. Weeks by the republican party would offer the progressives a chance of a lifetime, and that apparently the republicans are likely to nominate Weeks or some candidate equally lacking in popular appeal.

Owing to strong northeast winds the cotton boll weevil spread into several new states and counties not previously infested. The pest has travelled over 100 miles. Georgia now has the weevil. Eight counties in Florida have been added to those already weevil-plagued, and twenty additional counties in Alabama have been invaded. All this happened between the 15th and 31st of August. The insect which is the early stage of this cotton pest, rising into the air, was carried on the high winds much greater distances than it usually is able to fly. There has been a revival also, the agricultural department regrets to announce, of the weevil in Texas, where it was supposed to have died out. The experts recommend that the farmers vary their crops, growing less cotton and more of other crops.

Why the Turks massacre the Armenians is explained in an interesting letter written to a friend privately by one of the consultants in Asia Minor. He tells of going into the public square of the city where he is located and which was one of the scenes of massacre and hearing a Turkish exhorter of the Moslem faith addressing a crowd of Moslem Kurds. He was telling them in their native dialect that during his visit to Constantinople, Hadji William (Emperor William of Germany) had become converted to the faith of the prophet and on his return to Germany had proselytized his entire people. The Germans had become Moslems and in doing so had incurred the enmity of all Christians. The ferocity of the Christians in their attacks on the holy Germans was then illustrated to the crowd by the exhorter, who exhibited photographs of cathedrals destroyed by German artillery fire. The effect on the audience was marked, and the prejudice to the Christians found its vent in the massacre of Armenians, who are the Christian neighbors of the Moslems.

Democratic politics has been enlivened by the fact that James Hamilton Lewis, U. S. senator from Illinois, has started a boom for himself for the vice presidential nomination. At the white house there is said to be a flavor of annoyance mingling with the amusement, but the administration has nothing to say on the subject for publication.

The government public health service has taken note of the fact that flies carried in Pullman cars in interstate commerce are a menace to health as well as the comfort of passengers. As a result of the bureau's educational campaign in many sections of the country, now a fly swatter is a part of the regular Pullman equipment.

The bureau will welcome co-operation of the public, as well as the railroad managers, in eliminating flies from the railroad cars, and anyone noting the presence of flies in dining or sleeping cars is invited to write to the surgeon general of the public health service, treasury department, Washington, D. C., giving specifically the time and place, the number or name of the car, the railroad and all particulars.

Louis D. Brandeis, who was chiefly responsible for the creation of the federal trade commission, is not at all pleased with what the commissioners are doing; to wit, junking about 100 country eating diners furnished by chambers of commerce and listening to the gab of large corporation gentlemen who wish to evade the provisions of the Sherman law. Brandeis hopes that the presence of George Rublee and the fact that Raymond B. Stevens is counsel for the commission, will eventually lead to some different and more useful forms of activity.

BURT NEW FILES DEMURRER.

Answers Complaint Against Commission's Ruling in Logansport Case.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 2.—Burt New, legal adviser for the Indiana public service commission, has filed in the Cass circuit court a demurrer to the complaint of M. Winfield, recently filed here against the commission in regard to its action in raising the rates of the Logansport Home Telephone company. The demurrer alleges the complaint is insufficient for the reasons that it does not appear that the plaintiff has any right or authority to maintain the action; that no facts are averred tending to show that the provisions of the act creating a public service commission are in any way in contravention of the constitution of the state of Indiana or the United States; that it does not show that the order of the commission was in violation of the Act of 1913; that it does not show that the order is unlawful, or has not the right or authority to change or fix the rates.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Predictions of unsettled weather tended today to lift the price of wheat. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/4¢ off to 1/4¢ advance, with December at 94¢ to 95¢, and May at 97¢ to 98¢, were followed by a moderate upturn above last night's level all around.
The close was strong, 1 1/2 cts to 1 1/2 cts net higher, with December at 96 1/2¢ to 96 3/4¢ and May at 98 1/2¢.
Corn sagged owing to warmer temperatures. After opening 1/4¢ down to a shade up, prices underwent a slight general decline and then recovered to above yesterday's closing figures.
The close was steady at 1/4¢ to 1 cts net decline.
Oats sagged with corn.
Higher prices on hogs strengthened provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 2.—Speculative interest in today's market centered around war specialties, mainly those of the war contract variety. Westinghouse, which came forward with a bound in yesterday's late operations, claimed the bulk of attention, trading in that issue during the first hour amounting to one-third of the whole at its maximum of 13 1/2¢, the stock showing a gain of 6 1/2 points. Steel moved uncertainly, falling to equal yesterday's quotations, but sensational gains were recorded by General Motors, American Car and some more of the obscure industrials. Bethlehem Steel rose ten to the new high price of 57 1/2. Bonds were firm. The closing was strong.

Heavy trading in war shares was resumed today. Westinghouse again loomed into prominence. That stock opened with 6,000 shares at 13 1/2¢, against yesterday's final price of 12 1/2¢, later advancing to 13 1/2¢. General Motors, which recently disbursed a 50 per cent. dividend, rose ten to 35 and a miscellaneous group of specialties showed gains of one to three points. United States Steel made further fractional improvement at the outset but reacted. Similar tendencies were manifested by other industrials. Railways were again virtually eliminated from speculative consideration.

THIS MAMMOTH LIVED BEFORE ADAM.

The La Brea Imperial Mammoth, as it stands in the Los Angeles Museum of Natural History. Alongside, to show its size, stands the tallest traffic officer.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—Imagine a creature standing 15 feet high, measuring 30 feet in length and weighing eight tons, challenging a pigmy traffic-crossing officer to the right of way on a crowded city thoroughfare.

The advent of a "blue" moon could scarcely have caused more excitement than the recent appearance on the busy streets here of the mammoth here pictured.

This elephant roamed the region now called Los Angeles about 200,000 years ago!

It is the largest specimen of an elephant known to exist in the world. The unearthing and reconstruction of it is a unique event in the study of prehistoric animals.

The bones were found in the famous La Brea pits, located about seven miles from Los Angeles.

One tooth of this imperial mammoth weighs 20 pounds. Its tusks are 11 1/2 feet long. Its measurement from the tip of the tusk to the pelvic bone is 25 feet. The tail length gives it 30 feet.

It lived from 150,000 to 200,000 years ago and belongs to the Pleistocene period.

BUSINESS IMPROVES SAYS MONTHLY LETTER

Still Few Dull Sports, But
They Are Growing
Smaller.

General domestic business is improving steadily and surely and the improvement is being felt pretty well over the country, declares the regular monthly letter on business conditions just issued by the Old National bank. The letter says there are dull spots but that these dull spots are growing smaller.

"Taking the known unfilled orders in all lines as a basis, it is safe to conclude that business will continue its steady improvement through the remaining weeks of the year, at least," the letter predicts.

The following reference is made to dry stuffs in which Fort Wayne is particularly interested: "We are rapidly devising means for supplying ourselves with those articles which we have been accustomed to import and the importation of which has been shut off because of the war. In dye stuffs, fertilizers and the various chemicals the letter government reports show that we will soon be able to take care of ourselves and have those articles established on a manufacturing basis which will enable us to compete with the world after the close of the war."

How to Heal Skin Diseases

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but reliable and inexpensive, home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ring worm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable drugstore get a jar of resinol ointment and a cake of resinol soap. These are not at all expensive. With the resinol soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the resinol ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again. Sample free, Dept. R-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

WOMEN! HERE IS A MONEY SAVER

Use Gasoline to Dry Clean
Family's Clothes and
Save $5.

Dry cleaning at home is just as simple as laundering. Any woman can clean five dollars' worth in fifteen minutes at little cost by getting from the drug store two ounces of solvite and put this in two gallons of gasoline, where it quickly dissolves. Then immerse articles to be cleaned; rub a little and in a few moments the gasoline evaporates and the articles look bright and fresh as new.

You can dry clean silk waists, dresses, coats, ribbons, kid gloves, satin shoes, evening slippers, shawls, belts, yokes, furs, boas, muffs, neckties, lawns, dimity and chiffon dresses, draperies, fine lace, lace curtains, woolen garments, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined by soap and water as dry cleaning doesn't fade, shrink or wrinkle, making pressing unnecessary.

Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline and you can obtain two ounces of solvite at the drug store, which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a washbowl or large dishpan completes your dry cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

Master George, the 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch Cofflet, is some unfortunate kiddo. Some time in the latter part of August he had the misfortune to sustain a fall which broke his arm. Amy Ballard, a colored lady of Paulding, is often seen on the streets of that village carrying a gay little market basket in which reposes a very important document, a relic of a bygone barbaric time, this document being a bill of sale from her former owner in slavery to her husband, Preston Ballard, who was freed before the war by his owner, John Howard, who set all her slaves free and helped them reach Ohio. After purchasing the freedom of his wife, in 1865, Preston Ballard brought her with him to Paulding county and settled in Washington township, where they prospered until 1902, when they disposed of their farm and became residents of Paulding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lucas, among our prosperous north of the river folks, were visitors at Fort Wayne Friday at which place they spent the day with friends.

Doctors were summoned, but on their arrival they found life extinct.

WHY IRELAND'S HEART GOES OUT To The OPPRESSED BELGIANS

The harp that once through Tara's Halls
The soul of music shed,
Now hangs as mute on Tara's walls
As if that soul were fled.
So sleeps the pride of former days,
So glory's thrill is o'er,
And hearts, that once beat high with praise,
Now feel that pulse no more.

No more to chiefs and ladies bright
The harp of Tara swells;
The chord alone that breaks at night,
Its tale of ruin tells.
Thus freedom now so seldom wakes,
The only throb she gives,
Is when some heart indignant breaks,
To show that still she lives.

The above lines were written by Thomas Moore, the Irish poet, describing the lament of his wounded and abused land, yet how well does it describe conditions in Belgium today where the nation is again enduring bondage after centuries of oppression!

Even the plight of Ireland with her hundreds of years of British oppression and landlord aggrandizement can be no more pathetic and has been no more severe than the fate Belgium has suffered in past centuries.

Today she is a ruined nation, her fields destroyed, her ancient masterpieces of art and architecture either in ruins or partly destroyed by German shells and her people starving.

Hundreds have fled to England and just recently a number of her fatherless children have been shipped to New York in the hope they will be adopted and in their new homes and new country forget the ravishes and injustices to which they have been unjustly subjected, for whether Germany is to blame for the invasion of the war or whether France and England duped her into entering the war it cannot be doubted that she is the greatest sufferer of the whole affair.

THE SADDEST MONARCH.

Today King Albert of Belgium is the saddest monarch in the world. His throne has been shattered beneath him and his country has passed into the hands of the enemy.

His position and that of Belgium can well be compared with that of Ireland at the time that Roderick O'Connor and St. Laurence O'Toole were defeated by the Visigoths, their country overrun and their armies beaten back.

With Roderick O'Connor ended the monarch of Ireland, and history at its present writing seems to appoint to King Albert as the last monarch of the devastated country, for Belgium ever will remain as a sort of bumper between Germany and her foe—France, and indications are that the outrages of the years 1914 and 1915 and perhaps 1916 and 1917 will never be wiped out, and peace and brotherly love restored between the two nations until the end of time.

Belgium, even had it not maintained its rights of sovereignty with the arms and lives of its soldiers, would have been wrecked and ruined before the end of the war, for it was the logical battleground of the western theater of war.

The theory that Belgium was given aid by the allies before the outbreak of the great war seems to be the most tenable.

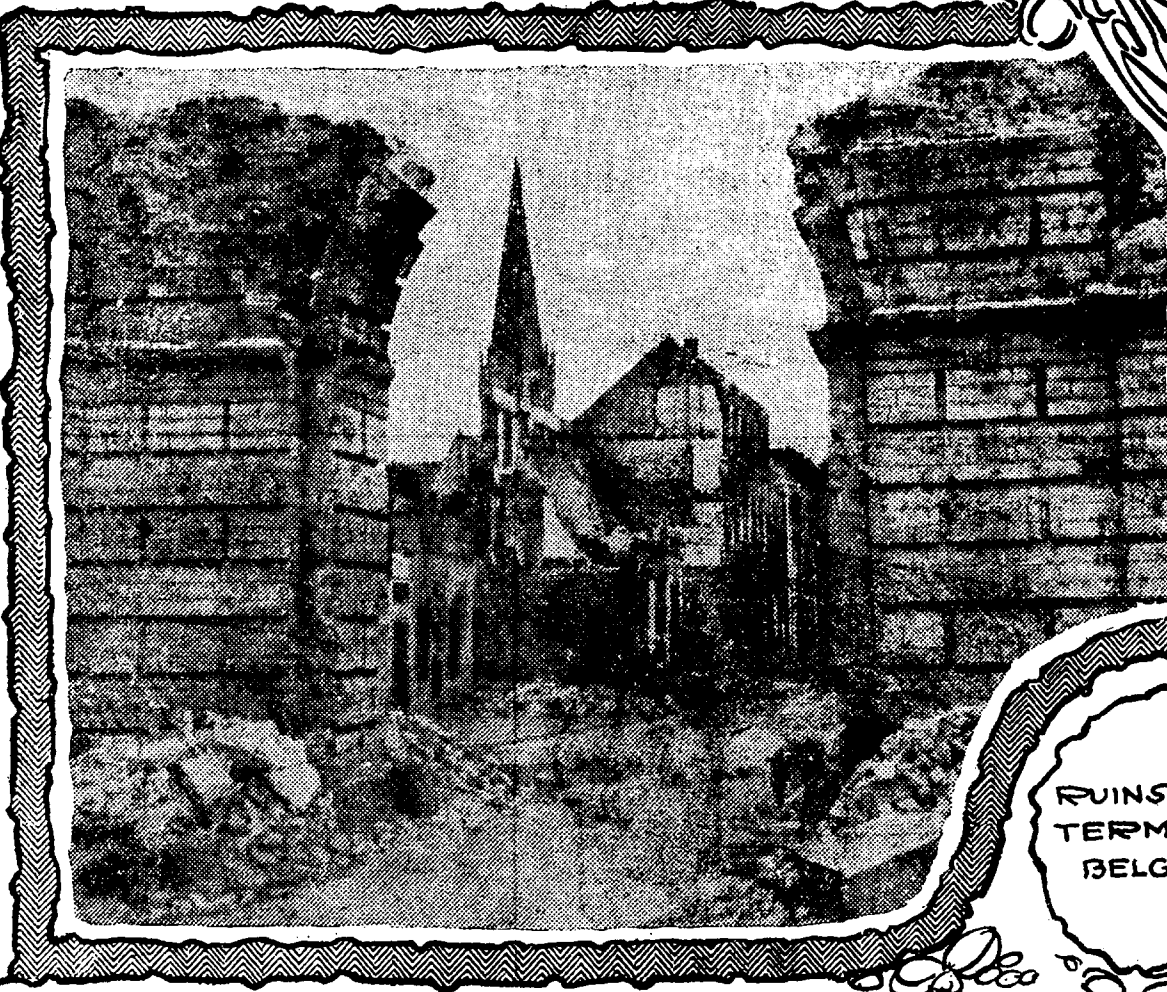

The little country realized for years that there eventually would be war and that it would be in the way when the great avalanches came from Germany. It felt that should it ally itself with Germany and permit it free passage of its troops that it might receive some measure of protection and indemnity, yet it never could hope for its permanent independence. It ever would remain the bumper, the battle ground on which France and Germany or England and Germany in the future would fight out their wars.

In casting its lot with the cause of the allies it had hope that were they victorious the independence of Belgium would forever be established, the Teutons would be dealt a blow from which they would not recover for many years, and the little kingdom would be given a long era of the peace for which it has been struggling many years in vain.

CHOICE WAS NECESSARY.

It therefore seems probable that Belgium did cast her lot with the allies long before the outbreak of hostilities, even accepted munitions and guns from them and put up its strong resistance with the hope that by temporizing the German advance the allies would be prepared to advance into the foe's country and conquer.

Such was the dream of Belgium—such is the dream this small country has had for many years, but just as before it has not been realized and the supremacy of the monarchy of Belgium now hangs in the balance with but two prospects in its future—that of becoming annexed to Germany and becoming a duchy should that nation be victor in the great struggle, and, on the other hand, of remaining for many years the seat of dissension and guerilla warfare.

Unhappy Belgium, just 100 years after one of her greatest periods of oppression she finds herself almost wiped off the map of the continent. In 1815 the Congress of Vienna in utter disregard of differences in language, religion and interests, united Belgium and Holland into one monarchy, designated the Kingdom of the Netherlands, under the government of a prince of the house of Orange, or Nassau. From the time of the Belgians with Holland the former suffered the most unmitigated oppression from the Dutch king; and the Hollanders endeavored to force their own language, laws and religion upon the Belgians, who also were obliged to share in the Dutch national debt and in the high taxes.

The Protestant courts were entrusted with the supervision of the education of the Catholic youth in Belgium. When the Belgian press demanded that the conduct of the Dutch government be changed, the writers were fined and jailed—a punishment and curtailment of liberty more severe than that meted out to the unfortunate country today. The alliance of the Belgian liberal party, which was struggling for political freedom and co-operated with the French liberal party, with the Catholic ultramontane party, which demanded freedom of education, was designated by the Dutch king as "infamous."

Thinking the opportunity favorable and encouraged by the success of the French revolution of July, 1830, the Belgians were seized with the revolutionary fever and on August 25, 1830, after the presentation of the opera, "The Mute of Portici," the mob destroyed the printing house of a pro-Dutch Journal, the palace of the minister of justice, the residence of the director of police and expelled the Dutch authorities after four days.

UNION EFFECTED.

To prevent any further outrages by the mob, a civic guard and a committee were organized to manage affairs until the radical and the Catholic ultramontane parties united themselves in a Belgian national congress under the leadership of Potter. The movement spread rapidly and in a short time the whole of Belgium was in revolt against the authority of the King of Holland. The Dutch were repulsed in an attack on Brussels, and the Belgian insurgents proceeded against Antwerp to drive the Dutch from that city. Thereupon the Dutch general, Chasse, retired into the citadel with his troops and cannonaded the town for several hours with 300 pieces of artillery, thus destroying an immense amount of valuable property just as Belgium lost millions of dollars of art and architectural triumphs when it resisted the German advance.

This proceeding caused much exasperation in Belgium and in November, 1830, the Belgian national congress declared the independence of Belgium and the exclusion of the house of Orange from the Belgian throne.

The great powers of Europe at a conference in London decided thereupon to separate Belgium from Holland. Prince Leopold of Saxe-Coburg was made king of the independent Belgian nation.

Thus did Belgium lose and regain its freedom only to part with it again in 1914-1915.

This is the sad misfortune of this disputed section of Europe, 11,373 square miles in area and with a population of 6,815,054 in the 1900 census. In the days of Julius Caesar, the country then the home or rather battleground of the Belgae, became the victim of the first conquests against it.

At the present day the population is partly Celtic and partly of Teutonic origin. The Flemings still are of as clearly a Teutonic origin as they were a thousand years ago, while Celtic characteristics are as unmistakable in the Walloons, who are descended from the original and ancient Belgae. Both sections are members of the same church and have other interests in common. Yet though subjects of one king and governed by the same code of laws, they have not become so thoroughly blended as to produce a distinct national type.

SPRIT UNCONQUERED.

Despite all the reverses that fate has allotted, the history of Belgium is thickly studded with episodes illustrating the bold, generous, freedom-loving spirit of its people.

They are justly proud of their past. The bravery, intelligence and energy by which they won distinction when the sword was the arbiter of fortune are as strong as ever in the Belgians, says history, but now are exercised under conditions widely different from those of the past. They excelled in the arts of peace before the present war resulted in the devastation of their country and the ruin of their great buildings and churches, such as in the destruction of the city of Termonde.

Education in Belgium is as neglected as it is in Denmark, only 73 per cent of its people being able to read and write. But Belgium is strong in its agricultural pursuits—that is, it was until the horde from Germany drove through it, burned its villages and wrecked its monuments of centuries.

Now Belgium is the saddest of European countries. Its king still reigns the crown of royalty and still has loyal subjects, but his power has vanished and his kingdom now is the battleground of the warring hosts. Germany is utilizing its captured fields for its own agricultural pursuits.

It is apparent that when the war ends Belgium will become one vast fortress and either France or Germany will occupy it as such. It is apparent that the throne of this small country has crumbled and the king's power is ended. His subjects have vanished to seek relief in England and the children of its dead heroes have been sent to the United States in the hope they may be adopted and raised to forget the sorrows and oppression that their parents underwent in the year 1914-1915, just 100 years after the country was subjected to the rule of Holland many hundred years after the terrible Caesar drove its original habits, the Belgae, back across the Rhine and subjected them to the greatest horrors. For even in Caesar's time the province of the Belgae was handy for it allowed him a foothold on the coast that led to his capture of Britannia.

So with the vanishing of Belgium's independence it may be remarked for the Belgian King Albert in the words of Thomas Moore:

I feel like one who treads alone some banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled, whose garlands dead, and all but he departed.

Thus in the still night are slumbers sleep has bound me,
Sad memory brings the light of other days around me.

Good Citizenship is Being Taught by Means of School Gardens in Ft. Wayne

In these days of office efficiency, schools of journalism, and intensive farming, there has been one institution of good citizenship that has been allowed to fall by the wayside. The whispering of sweet sentiments across a thousand miles of air waves, the rise to glory of Francis X. Bushman, the introduction of open field work in football, and the substitution of the melodious term "jittery" for the lowly outworn and dilapidated "nicked" all these may be forward leaps in the evolution of the human race—but.

That "but" means a lot of things. It means that some of the old standards, the gauges by which the men and women of several decades ago were judged, have been allowed to pass within the coming of the newer standards.

Early Proofs of Standing.
There was a time before man became elevated in politics, new thought, and electricity, when there were certain absolute and indisputable proofs of his standing among his fellowmen, both within and without his house. The number of geraniums in his windows, freedom from dust on the shelf on the corner what-not, the framed copy of his honorable discharge from the army of citizenship within the house that were prized and cherished by the owner. And then, any family of true distinction owned a hair wreath. You remember it, don't you, hung in the darkened parlor, the cherished and gossamer handiwork of some maiden aunt long departed. It usually hung between a moping "Evangeline" and "Mother's Darling," who bestowed an unending smile on the horse hair sofa across the way.

But these certificates of good standing in the community were only to be looked upon by guests within one's portals. The ledge that proclaimed him loudly to every passerby was his back garden. And wasn't that little old back garden a card of admittance to select circles or an affidavit signed and sworn to by the neighbors concerning him to the utmost regions of scorn? There was no half-way mark in a man's garden—or, rather, a woman's garden, for man usually took care of it. Either it stamped its owner as a good citizen or a bad fellow among fellows, it left no half-way course.

Has Also Passed.
But, like the hair wreath and the geraniums, the back garden has passed. In the colleges they have courses in scientific farming and the county is blessed with an agricultural agent. The railroads issue pamphlets on corn land, and the government advises fertilizing agencies that are spread on by the acre. But what's become of the man who bored all his fellow townsmen to extinction when he stood in front of the post office with a yard stick each evening and marked the height of his tomato plants on the door? The scientific farmer who wears garters may have evolved from something or other, but the backyard gardener seems to be lost beyond recall.

The School Garden.
In Fort Wayne there is a movement afoot to bring back the backyard garden. In the public schools the children of the city are taught to raise flowers and vegetables without the aid of the department of agriculture or the harvester trust. They are gardening in the old way, and what's more, they are enjoying it. Turnips and beets and carrots, and cabbage and tomatoes and cucumbers are there in profusion, while snapdragons and English daisies and a score of the other flowers of the old fashioned gardens are grouped in trim little beds around the edges.

Miss Braddock in Charge.
Miss Rhoda Braddock has been appointed official school gardener, and has charge of the work in all the public schools. At the Lakeside school the earth has a great deal of sand in its composition, and while the other gardens throughout the city were clay marishes during the wet summer, the Lakeside garden drained well and was in the best possible condition.

This fall when they returned to school the youngsters found their out-patches in the garden much more interesting than when they left, and they began work on them with renewed enthusiasm and vim. As the result no weed dare lift its head and the fellow who steps into a flower bed does so at the risk of his life.

In the photographs the youngsters are seen at work in their vegetable patches. In the upper left hand photograph a class of the Lakeside boys and girls are going to it with shovel, rake and hoe, while the center picture with a ragged edge is a basket of fruit and flowers planted and raised by hand by the Lakesiders. In the upper right corner Miss Braddock and one of her young garden pupils are lugging a basket of freshly picked, cut and pulled garden truck in from the center of operations.

In the lower left hand corner two of the best girl gardeners in the city are playing shovel and hoe in a carrot patch, and Miss Braddock and a group of her best young gardeners illuminate the lower right hand corner.

Proven a Success.
The school gardens were put in Fort Wayne as an experiment. They have proven themselves a success. They have brought back that love of gardening that was nearly gone in most Americans and they have brought it to the hearts of youngsters.

Will the garden again become an agency of good citizenship? Will it again be a barometer of the standing of men in the community? Will these child gardeners hold throughout their lives the interest in gardening that is born in them, but that for a generation has been allowed to die out all over the nation?

The Real Reason.
Here's hoping. For the garden—the old fashioned garden without a pergola and a garage, would be welcomed back as an institution in the American community.

There are few of the old ones left, and they are dying with the men and women who perpetuate them. So with a new generation of gardeners one may hope for the return of the old garden in its fine old state.

CAN SEND SEVEN LEFTHAND HITTERS IN

Brown Holmes Sees Great Slugging Bee in World Series.

(By Brown Holmes, Special Sport Writer who spent several weeks with the world series contenders of the American and National leagues to get the "inside" dope).

One of the things that gives the Boston Red Sox an edge on the Philadelphia Nationals in world series play is that the Phils will have to depend on right-hand pitching and the Red Sox can put a great left-handed ball club on the field.

The best way to combat right-hand pitching is to send left-hand batters against it. The Phils have two southpaws, Rixey and Baumgartner, but neither is worthy of world series work, so it will be up to Alexander, Mayer, Demaree, Chalmers and McQuillen, the right-handers.

Against these normal chuckers the Red Sox have seven left-hand batters, making the team unusually well fitted for attack without weakening the club in any sense for defensive play.

Dick Hoblitzel and Larry Gardner, of the infield, hit left-handed and Manager Carrigan could use a left-handed batter, sending Joe Thomas behind the bat and either Leonard, Ruth or Collins to the box. Leonard and Ruth, by the way, are two of the best hitting pitchers on the circuit.

The ability of the Sox to go into a game with seven of their nine players hitting from the left-hand side of the plate means for Grover Alexander, the main box hope of the Phils, the greatest test of his career.

There has not been a time this season when Alexander has had to face seven left-handers in one lineup and it is not often seven left-handers can be massed together with as much hitting power as Hooper, Speaker, Henriksen, Hobby, Gardner, Thomas and Leonard or Ruth give the Sox.

This arrangement would not weaken the defensive play of the Sox because six of the off-side hitters have been doing regular work for the Sox all season. The only extra man this shift would bring into the lineup is Henriksen, and the Sox would not suffer for the little Swede is a corking good fielder.

Henriksen is not in the game every day as a regular because he is a valuable man to have on the bench, where he can be put into the game when needed most. His biggest duty this season has been as pinch hitter.

Even the great Alexander would start at a handicap against such an array of left-hand batters. The other Philly right-handers are not nearly so good as Grover, so their task would be even greater.

When the Braves got into the world series last season Manager Stallings was able to shift his club against left and right-hand pitching, using a different set of outfielders against the different brands of hurling, but even he was unable to get seven left-hand batters into the game. He had three right-hand batters on the infield, Evers, Maranville and Deal, and with Gowdy and Whaling hitting right-handed, he was without a catcher batting left-handed.

Five left-hand batters was the most Stallings could send into a fray. Manager Carrigan, of the Red Sox, can go two better. John McGraw used to shift his players, too, against the different kinds of pitching, but he was never able to send seven left-hand batters into a world series game.

The Red Sox, then, have something no other club ever had in a world series, an array of left-hand hitters who would give any right-hand pitcher trouble.

HOW THE RED SOX EXPECT TO WIN WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

(By Brown Holmes).

The Boston Red Sox use a system of helping their base runners that is one of the finest bits of inside baseball ever pulled.

The play is one that has helped the Sox lead the American league nearly all season and one they will use in their efforts to tuck away the world series.

When a Sox runner is on first base and a steal is planned, the batter stands as far back as possible in the batter's box. That forces the opposing catcher back away from the plate and lengthens the distance the ball has to travel from the catcher to second base.

The batter's box is six feet in length, and it is three feet from the center of the plate to the back end of the box. The batter then, by standing away back forces the catcher to throw three feet farther than if the batter stood even with the middle of the plate.

Three feet does not sound like a great deal, but it means ball games in these days of split-second baseball.

There are more close plays at second base than any other base except first, and in many the runner or baseman gets the umpire's decision by a fraction of a second. In these fractional second plays the decision goes to the runner under the Red Sox system.

Hobby is in a good place to make this inside play count as he bats after Tris Speaker and Speaker, one of the best of hitters, is on the bases a lot.

Dick Hoblitzel, Sox first baseman, is especially good at driving catchers back from the plate as he has trained himself to hit from that position. Hobby takes a big swing and holds his bat at arm's length. Opposing catchers make sure to pull back beyond the reach of his war club.

Hobby is in a good place to make this inside play count as he bats after Tris Speaker and Speaker, one of the best of hitters, is on the bases a lot.

NIX ON ALL THIS "ONE MAN TEAM" STUFF

(Jack Murphy).

Sporting writers the country over pick Boston to win the world series. Their contention is that Philadelphia is represented by one player, namely Alexander, and that there is a whole team full of them there things working out of the burg of beans.

But has it been Alexander alone who pulled the Phil crew to the top of the National heap? Hasn't it been some heady management to say nothing of a lot of steady, although not sensational play, throughout all nine of the positions? It wasn't Alexander alone and unaided who put the Phils into the world series, and it will not be him alone who will give the Sox a healthy fight for the series.

But whether the Sox are easy winners or not, they are not going in to heat one man but a pretty good team, with one sensation and a gang of steady pluggers.

GAINOR BREAKS INTO LEADING TEN HITTERS

Of Course Our Little Friend from Georgia is Away Ahead.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Tyrus Cobb, of Detroit, continues to lead the American league batters. Averages published today show the Georgian hitting .368, while Eddie Collins, of Chicago, is the runner-up, .35 points behind. Fournier, teammate of Collins, is next with .325. Others who have played in at least half of the games are:

Speaker, Boston, .330; McNish, Philadelphia, .316; Jackson, Chicago, .313; Veach, Detroit, .311; Kirke, Cleveland, .302; Crawford, Detroit, .298; Strunk, Philadelphia, .297; Gainer, Boston, .296. Cobb continues as the leading run-getter with 142, five behind the American league record he made in 1911. In total bases he leads with 255, Sam Crawford, also of Detroit, being a close second with 261.

In stolen bases Cobb, who set a new record for the American league this week, promises to run his total into the century mark. He now has 93 thefts to his credit.

SOME NICKEL PLATE IMPROVEMENTS

New Tracks at Oil Tank Works and Subway at Osage Street Begins.

The maintenance of way department of the Nickel Plate will soon be "doing things" in the line of improvements at Fort Wayne. This morning the first car load of piling for the Osage street subway arrived at the scene and was unloaded and as rapidly as they can be handled other carloads will arrive until the 270 pieces of piling necessary for the work has been received. The pile driver, which is now in the city, will commence work Monday or the following day setting the piling at the passenger track, which runs south of the yard office. It will be some weeks later before excavation can be carried on to any great extent. The company is also engaged in putting in a new service track at the plant of the Wayne Oil Tank and Pump company, on Canal street. It will connect with the main line east of the oil tank factory, run north some distance and then turn west, touching the north side of the factory grounds. Grading is now in progress on this track, which will be about 1,500 feet long. Track elevation work at Grand Crossing is moving along at a satisfactory pace now. The grade work is finished and most of the track has been laid. The erection of the steel bridge over Seventy-ninth street and the Illinois Central tracks is now in progress and trains will be running over it before the expiration of two months. The work at the proposed Osage street subway was delayed by difficulty in getting the piling, which has at last been overcome.

Jacob Alter, a resident of Fort Wayne for the past sixty years, and one of the best known painting contractors of the city, died at midnight Friday at his home, 802 Wilt street, at the advanced age of 85 years, following a short illness of but one week in duration. Death was due to infirmities of old age.

JACOB ALTER.

Mr. Alter was born in Fehrmheim, Grand Duchy of Hessen, Darmstadt, Germany, near Heidelberg, April 22, 1830, and was the only one of seven children who immigrated to America.

He arrived in New York, May 1, 1854, and resided temporarily in Toledo where he was employed with the company which at that time was operating the Wabash and Erie canal. He came to Fort Wayne in October, 1855, and had resided here ever since.

He was united in marriage to Miss Salome Girardin, on August 27, 1857, and on August 27, 1907, they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. She died just one month later. The deceased was a charter member of the St. Carolus Borromeus society, a Catholic organization of this city, and was also a devout member of St. Paul's Catholic church and an active worker in the affairs of the congregation ever since he resided here.

Mr. Alter was the senior member of the firm of Jacob Alter & Sons, which was one of the leading painting firms in the city for many years. He retired from active work in 1904.

Besides a host of friends he is survived by the following children: John H. Alter, of Chicago; and Henry A. Alter, Mrs. Henry J. Miller, Mrs. John G. Kramer and Mrs. Carl J. Weber, all of this city. Thirty grandchildren and three great grandchildren also survive him.

COLEMAN.

George G. Coleman, aged 82 years and for three-quarters of a century a resident of Allen county, died at 11:40 o'clock Saturday morning at his home in Abbot township, of the infirmities of age. He had been ill for some time and death was not unexpected.

Mr. Coleman came to this county seventy-five years ago when he was a boy of but seven years, and lived in St. Joseph, Mo., for forty years ago when he moved to Abbot. He was one of the county's most widely known and prosperous farmers, and had been retired for several years.

Surviving are the following sons and daughters: A. C. Charles, Jacob, Hiram, John, Andrew J. and George W. Coleman, and Mrs. Anna McDonald and Mrs. Belle Miller.

JONES.

Nathan E. Jones, aged 33 years, died Saturday morning at Richmond following an illness of two years. He was injured in a wreck at Melbourne, O., two years ago and since that time has been ailing. He was formerly employed as a conductor on the Nickel Plate railroad. Mr. Jones was born in Grafton, W. Va., but resided in this city for eleven years. He is survived by his wife and two children, Birdell and Kenneth, the parents and eight brothers.

The remains will be brought to this city.

WILL GET BIDS FOR BOULEVARD PAVING

Park Board Expects Lively Contest on Monday for Job.

The board of park commissioners will receive bids Monday afternoon for the paving of Rudisill boulevard, from Calhoun street to Broadway, and the outlook is that the competition for this work will be spirited. Several bids are indicated and it is believed the figures will be satisfactory.

The boulevard is to be paved with asphaltic macadam and constructed by the penetration process on a foundation of broken stone well rolled. This type of pavement is moderate in cost, but makes a good roadway and is said to be of a sort that will endure well under automobile traffic. The city council has appropriated $4,268 to the park board account to pay for the cost of street intersections, and if an acceptable bid is received Monday, it is expected that with favorable weather some of the pavement will be completed this fall.

WILL DEMAND ACTION.

Councilman Herman Korte, of the Tenth ward, has announced to the board of works that if the Pennsylvania and Wabash railroads do not submit plans for track elevation east of Calhoun street by the day last set—October 22—he will ask the council to direct the track elevation committee to meet with the board of works to demand action.

FURIOUS SPEED IN NEW DASH OF ALLIES

Paris, Oct. 2.—From the accounts given by wounded soldiers and others who have returned from the front the story of the French charge which marked the critical point in the new offensive movement is being gradually pieced together. One point on which there is a general agreement is the great speed with which the movement was executed.

A colonial infantryman who was wounded in the fighting between Souain and Suippes, in the Champagne, says: "Our captain said to us at the moment of the charge: 'You'll have to run hard, for we are in the first wave of men, and we did run. When we came to the first trench we leaped over it with a stab at the occupants. You could hear nothing but the hoarse breathing of your neighbors and the roar of the guns. Bullets whistled about everybody's ears from one side, evidently from machine guns.

"Our captain shouted: 'Stop at that

STORM HORROR GROWS WORSE

Dead, Reported Dead and Missing Now Reach a Total of 549.

WHILE LOSS GOES TO $12,000,000

Destruction in Southland is Complete at Many Points.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 2.—A number of known dead, reported dead, persons missing in Louisiana and Mississippi as a result of Wednesday's tropical storm was put at 549 in a total compiled here today from reports that came in from many points on the Gulf coast and in the interior. Property damage was estimated at $12,000,000.

It was considered certain early today that the total dead in the storm would number at least 350.

The known death list already stands at 181, with 208 reported dead. In addition there are 117 known missing.

While undoubtedly there has been some duplication in tabulation of reports of bodies found, it was said there were indications that the dead would not be fewer than 350.

Destruction Complete.

Property damage throughout the storm swept territory has been enormous and in many places the destruction complete. Relief parties returning today from the Delta section said that the rich plantations in that section had been wiped out, crops ruined, orange trees destroyed, buildings demolished and washed out to sea and that the country for miles was under water four to fifteen feet deep.

The levees in many places have been destroyed, adding new menace to the inhabitants and rendering more difficult the work of rehabilitation. River pilots expressed the opinion that it would be impossible to construct the levees in many places.

Still Marooned on Roofs.

Many people today still were reported marooned on the tops of undamaged levees, where they waited when the full fury of the storm broke.

While no official estimate has been obtainable of the storm damage in this state and along the Mississippi coast persons familiar with the territory believe it will approach $12,000,000. This estimate is considered conservative.

Relief work is progressing rapidly due in great part to the great recovery made here in large cities from the effects of the hurricane. Vessels left yesterday from practically every point along the coast to visit isolated villages, settlements and companies which were in the path of the hurricane.

Toledo Time Hit BY $30,000 FIRE

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 2.—Fire early today damaged the Toledo Time building and contents to the extent of $30,000.

The fire originated in the engraving plant on the third floor and spread to the linotype and stereotype rooms on the fourth floor.

The roof collapsed and ruined much of the machinery in these departments. The business office on the main floor and basement and press room were flooded. The Times will be printed in another newspaper office for the present.

TOURIST PENITENT AND MUCH SUBDUED

Man Who Drove the Three Strike Busters from Car is Given Fine.

Tom Mitchell, one-legged hobo, who made a truncheon of his stout cane and drove a crew of three strike breakers from their street car at the end of the Broadway line Friday morning, was arraigned in the city court Saturday morning on a plain charge of drunkenness, to which he pleaded guilty. Warrior Mitchell was penitent and much subdued as he appeared in court. He had nothing to say and seemed to be nursing his head and his feelings with much tenderness. He looked the relief he felt when he was let off with a fine of $1 and costs and later acknowledged the leniency shown him. He has taken on the heavy contract of keeping sober until after he has cleared the city limits when his eleven-day term in jail expires.

Jitney Driver Fined for Assault.

The case of Frank E. Oddou, a jitney driver residing at 116 Huffman street, and charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Ethel Fisher, wife of Lloyd Fisher, 1414 Winter street, was submitted to Judge Kerr in the city court Saturday morning without further testimony, and Oddou was fined $10 and costs, which he paid. Mrs. Fisher testified that she was brought home from Churchusco by Oddou the night of September 4 and that he took her against her will out to the Four Mile house, on the Lincoln highway, east of the city, made insulting proposals and laid hands on her. She had discussed with Oddou some personal matters of a very private nature. Oddou denied he had touched the woman in any manner that could be construed as an assault, but the court decided that he was technically guilty and imposed a fine.

The Jones Boys They Come to Town.

Frank and William Jones, young men who are related as cousins and reside several miles south of the city, were arraigned on drunk charges, were proved guilty and fined $1 and costs. The two were arrested by Chief of Police Lenz on Columbia street, after he had seen them a few minutes earlier drive past headquarters trying to chase their nag loose from its tail. One of them had traded horses in the city and was trying the mettle and speed of his new steed. Both declared they had never before been drunk and they were let off easy. Their fines were paid.

Other City Court Cases.

Tom Shaffer, an old-timer, who made his first reappearance for many months Saturday morning, was continued until Tuesday to become perfectly sober and went to jail to put in the time.

Cliff Morsag, arrested on Calhoun street Friday by Detective Sergeant W. F. Pappert and found to be armed with a blackjack, was arraigned on a loitering charge and fined $5 and costs, going to jail. William Fairwell, Morsag's companion, was turned loose.

Charles "Wing" Frazier, a colored man, arrested Friday afternoon as he was about to leave town, was arraigned on a charge of associating with prostitutes, on an affidavit filed some days ago, when the police raided a colored den on Holman street, and pleaded guilty. Judge Kerr fined him $15 and costs and added twenty-five days in jail, which will hold him for quite a spell. He made his escape from the house the night it was raided.

John Ethel, better known as Ed Etchey, was continued to Oct. 4 on a loitering charge. By that time an officer will arrive from Jeffersonville reformatory to take Etchey back as a parole violator. He was arrested early in the morning of September 17 following burglaries at the Loos grocery, on South Calhoun street, and at a barber shop on Woodland avenue, and a hold-up on West Creighton avenue, in all of which he is believed to have been concerned. James King, who was found drunk in a box car in the Wabash yards at the same time Etchey was taken from another car, was turned loose.

John Dairy, who has been drunk for a year and clogging on the streets to get money to keep so, was continued until Wednesday under $100 bond.

WHY "NUTS" ARE AMONG THE GREATEST BALL PLAYERS

Single-track Mind a Peculiar Equipment Of Some Of the Best Of Diamond Stars—"Rube" Waddell, Now Dead, Set An Example That Has Found Many Imitators In the Big Leagues—Eccentricity a Big Drawing Card

John McGraw, Clark Griffith and other managers have a saying that they like their ball players a little "queer."

It is a peculiar fact that in a business which pays tremendous salaries some of the biggest stars of baseball are "nuts."

There were "Rube" Waddell and "Bugs" Raymond, two of the greatest pitchers who ever flung a ball across a plate. They were "nuts" of the most pronounced type.

A "nut" when it comes to analysis, at least in baseball, is a gentleman who esteems himself highly.

It is this sort of ball player who makes the best player.

The player who thinks he can beat the other fellow at anything, who never is out in his own mind no matter what the umpire may say, who thinks he is better than any pitcher and consequently can hit anything that ever was tossed across a plate, is withal a better player than one whose intelligence may tell him that he cannot do or is not all these things.

THE LATEST "NUT"

Benny Kauff, who is dashing across the Federal league as cutcheon this season, and who is said to be the best young ball player that has been developed since Ty Cobb broke in, is said to be a "nut."

Benny loads himself down with some $3,000 worth of diamonds everytime he dons his street clothes.

He is a fighter of the Zimmerman order, wholly without temperament but with plenty of temper, and not at all given to introspection.

He has what novelists call, a single-track mind. These single-track mind ball players are the best.

J. Franklin Baker was a conspicuous example of the ball player with the single track mind.

If he hadn't been he never could have made a home run in a world's series—four of them in fact.

When Baker faced "Rube" Marquard in that famous series he concentrated entirely upon the matter at hand which was to hit the baseball.

He was not thwarted in his design by the multitudinous extraneous detail of a world's series—the fact that 30,000 fans were yelling at him and wondering if he could sustain the record he had made as a slugger.

It is these players who are constantly wondering what the other fellows are thinking of them that fail miserably in the "big leagues."

A man may burn up a minor league and yet when he reaches the major leagues his imagination runs riot, he is unable to concentrate—and he fails.

"Nuts" as a rule are unimaginative players. They have single-track minds and they can concentrate. Combined with a Vaulting egotism which is the thirty-third degree of pure conceit, the average baseball "nut" has precisely the correct state of mind to do things under stress—when the imaginative fellow, less sure of himself and too much aware of his responsibility cracks wide open and goes down in baseball history as another "bloomer."

THE COLLEGIAN.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Browns, favors a ball team of ex-collegiate players. He maintains they are mentally more active and consequently able to play more and better baseball than the man agitation that ran riot. They were impervious to the pit-falls built by this one quality that has taken many men out of the big leagues who mechanically were able to play big league baseball could they have done it under stress.

Lajoie is of the phlegmatic type. His confidence in himself is illimitable.

There never was a pitcher that Lajoie secretly did not believe he could hit safely anytime he wished.

Cobb is of the more dynamic type, gifted with an imagination, but with an aggression which completely offsets any deleterious effect common to mental introspection.

Cobb must have imagination else he could not devise and execute the base running plays he continually plays on catchers. He is naturally smart and congenitally aggressive. His aggression is greater than his imagination for what his brain devises his body fights for with the most vicious vitality extant on the diamond.

UNIMAGINATIVE PLAYERS.

Jackson, Zimmerman and Kauff are unimaginative fellows with precisely the right state of mind to do things on the baseball field, for they are bothered only by one thing at a time, minds perfectly single tracked!

Such players are more apt to do things in the pinch that the smarter ball player, given to moods that are influenced by immaterial detail, cannot do.

For example, when Cobb steps to the plate he goes there to get a hit because Cobb can get a hit when Cobb wants to, or so he thinks. The imaginative player goes to the plate to get a hit because it will help his team to win and vindicate him in the eye of certain carping critics, etc. Perceive the distinction in the difference! Cobb is concerned only with getting a hit—concentration—as against the other fellow who is concerned with getting a hit because it means, etc.;—imagination. Concentration against imagination. The single-track mind against the mind trained to operate a dozen tracks.

Baseballically the victory always will be on the side of the single-track mind, though usually they are as John McGraw says, "a trifle queer."

FRANK BAKER

NAPOLÉON LAJOIE

what the newspapers are saying of him, caring less what they think of him and concentrating entirely on the matter at hand which is to hit the ball, field it and run the bases.

It is a fact that only one great star before the public today is a college man and whatever damaging imagination his mind training gave him he offsets by the most beautiful concentration ever seen on a baseball field.

That man is Edward Trowbridge Collins, a graduate of the University of Columbia, and accounted one of the swiftest thinkers in baseball. A NOTABLE EXCEPTION.

Lacking physical ruggedness to stand the grueling strain of a championship race, one after another, Collins substitutes for this a remarkable concentration. He can put more life into a single play than any man on any infield in baseball today.

But Lajoie, Jackson, Zimmerman, Bresnahan, Kauff and dozens of other first-water players came into the league relatively illiterate. They were unhampered by any im-whose mind had not been trained to think.

Clarke Griffith, "Foxy Grif," as he is known to baseball fans of a nation, widely disagrees with Rickey and declares that for the very reason college men have minds trained to think they cannot fail to be more imaginative and hence more susceptible to the extraneous detail of the game. For that reason he counts them of less value than the single-track mind that comes off the sand-lots, reads scarcely well enough to know

RICH OR POOR EDDTORIAL

Night after night our most respected citizens of Bingville has set around in Hen Weathersby's store and wishd they was rich beyond the fondest dreams of averice. Of course if wishing would make a person rich everybody in Bingville would be a millionaire—our back subscriptions would all be paid up and we would boost the price of the Bugle from $2 per annum to about $10 per annum.

It don't do no good for people to set around a stove in the winter or in the shade in the summer and wishd they was rich, and we shall endeavor to prove by this editorial that if they was rich they wouldn't be no happier than they are now.

Without incriminating ourself, we will admit that money comes in turrible convenient at times, and that a person can't pay debts without it, but after all money aint the only thing in this world, and them as has more of it than they knows what to do with aint no better off than them as has none.

Take Cy Hoskins, for instants, who is the most wealthiest citizen of Bingville—Cy has money in the Bank at the Co Seat, he owns 3 or 4 farms and some thinks he must be happy? Answer—No!

In order to accumulate all these riches Cy has had to scrimp and scratch and save and deny hisself almost the bare necessities of life—he has had to trod over the poor and the widder and the orfans, he has had to foreclose mortgages, and as a result the habit of saving has made him sich a tight-wad and so doggoned stingy that he's just perfectly miserable all the time for fear some person will get one cent's worth the best of him in a business deal.

Then take Hank Dewberry, for instants—Hank aint got one red cent to rub agin another mor'n half the time. He has to wear other people's shoes and clothes which is give to him and don't fit him, he has to beg the very tobacco he smokes and chews, but is Hank miserable? Answer, No! Hank is perfectly happy and full of joy all the day long—he never knows what a day will bring forth and he don't care—he don't know where his next meal's coming from, but it don't worry him a mite.

If Cy Hoskins could get as much happiness outen life as Hank Dewberry, we calkilate Cy would be willing to pay as much as 10 cts for it.

Domestic Trouble

Bill Hepburn, our artistic blacksmith, went to give hisself his regular weekly shave last Sunday only to discover that his wife Mehitabel had been using his razor to pare her corns with, and the edge was all nicked up.

Bill got turrible mad and stormed around and asked Mehitabel if she didn't have any more sense than to use his razor for a corn cutter. Mehitabel grabbed up a broom and hit Bill a whack over the head with same, and Bill fled from the house with his face all over lather and took refuge in his blacksmith shop, where he remained most of the day until Mehitabel's temper cooled off.

Bill Hepburn is a turrible strong man physically and aint afeard of nobody in this world except his wife, who makes him stand around jest as she's a mind to whether Bill's in licker or not.

Huskin Bee!

Give by Cy Hoskins in his Barn! —Lem Quigley got a Kiss and an Awful Slap! —Cy got his Corn all Husk! —More Work Than Pleashure

Cyrus Hoskins, one of our most respected and well-to-do citizens held his annual huskin bee in his barn last Tuesday eve'g. Cy has held a huskin bee in his barn every year for to these many years—that's the way Cy gets his corn husked for nothink as you might say, being as he's tighter with money than the bark to a tree and would rather do this than to pay anything for hiring his corn huskin did.

The festivities begin promptly at 6 p. m. and was attended by young and old alike, not only from Bingville, but from the surrounding country. Everybody fell to and nearly worked the skin off their fingers huskin Cy's corn for him, while Cy walked about among them smiling and urging them to work harder.

Considerable excitement was caused when Lem Quigley happened to find a red ear of corn, and follering out the custom hereabouts which entitles the finder of a red ear of corn to kiss enny girl present he pleases, Lem he up and chased after Sally Hoskins, and Sally run and screamed, but Lem he overtook her and kissed her right on the corn bin, to which she had clim for safety.

Sally blushed like everything and Lem stood there smilin and looking purty well satisfied with results until his wife who was present walked up and hit him a slap in the face that like to of broke his jaw, to say nothing of nearly knockin his head offen his shoulders.

Them as was present said they never saw Letitia Quigley any madder in all their born days. After she had slapped Lem, she grabbed holt of his arm and marched him right off home, and when they arrived there, there is no tellin what else she done to Lem. As Letitia passed out of the barn she turned around long enough to call Sally Hoskins a cat.

This little calamity naturally cast sort of a damper on the evening's proceedings. Several more ears of red corn was found, but them as found them, judging by what had happened to Lem, didn't appear to have the courage of their convictions, and as a result, no more promiscuous kissin was did.

About 9 p. m. Cy stopped the huskin bee long enough to pass around cider, apples, and doughnuts, and everybody present et fit to bust. Cy only allowed twenty minits for lunch, and then he put all his guests back to huskin again and finished up the job by midnight. Then the barn floor was cleared for a dance.

Pete Hines, the one-eyed fiddler from Sorrow Holler, furnished the music on his fiddle, but them as was present had worked so hard at huskin corn that they was too doggoned tired to dance much, and as a result the huskin bee broke about 1 a. m. and everybody went home conscious of a evening profitably spent for Cy.

Our Wife Is Sick

We hope our subscribers will hear with deep regret that our own personal edditorial wife is a purty sick woman as we go to press.

Last Thursday she done a lot of scrubbin around the house & slopt around in the wet so to speak, and as a result she ketchd a cold in her head & sinst then she has been feelink very misable. We git outen all pashients with our wife and have told her time & agin that she don't pear to use common sents cleanin and scrubbin so much until a person could eat a meal offen our kitchen floor its that clean, especially when she's liable to ketch her deth of cold.

It aint only bad for her, but its also bad fer us, being as sinst she's had that cold she sneezes all night long almost and as a result we're neerly wore out and used up fer lack of sleep. How can a husband git enny rest at nites, we ask, when his wife is layin alongside of him sneezin & whoopin every minnit or so? Answer—he can't. Onct we got up in disgust about 3 p. m. and went down stairs and slep on the floor with a tag carpet over ourself, but we diddnt sleep much being as the floor was so hard, and when we got up in the mornin we was so dinglamed stiff that we could scarcely walk, and not only that but now he have a cold in our head and at this writing have also begun to sneeze.

Well, there's one consolashon ennyhow—we may feel bad with sich a cold and it will interfere with our edditorial duties, but there's one thing shure, if our wife's cold gits better before ours dres then she'll be the one who'll be kep awake at nites and thus we'll be revenged on her so to speak.

Lafe Whittaker went to tap a barl of cider last week to see if it had worked enough. When he loosened the bung it flew out with a deffering report and just missed Lafe's head by two inches. Lafe said he heard it whistle as it went by. INSURE YOUR LIFE AGAINST FATILITY!

I desire to announce to the people of Bingville and vicinity and elsewhere that I am still in the Life insurance business, being the agent of several large Companies which insure people's lives through me. Did you ever stop to think how foolish it is to go on living in uncertainty without having your life insured? Did you ever stop to think how much benefit insurance money would be to your wife if you have one, or to your relatives, if you have not?

Statistics show that people whose lives is insured live long. That's why several well-known persons of Bingville who had life insurance with me for many years have recently dropped their policies, being as they said they couldn't see how life insurance would do them any good if they was to go on living always havin to pay premiums on them. There is something in this. In addition to all forms of life insurance, I am also the leading and only lawyer in Bingville, notary public, justice of the peace, and other things too numerous to mention.

EVEN ATLANTIC CITY PROPOSES A REFORM IN BATHING SUITS NEXT YEAR

Society's Famous Resort In the East Finally Is Shocked By Exhibitions At the Close Of the Season and Will Draw More Confining Lines On the Curves In 1916—Experts Consider That the Limit Of Exposure Has Been Reached

If Venus de Milo, Lady Godiva and the other unclothed celebrities of history and mythology last summer should have taken a walk along the beach some sunny afternoon, more than likely they would have blushed with shame and called loudly for Anthony Comstock or some other well known reformer. For the beach is much in need of reforming. Reformation is promised next summer.

That is not to say the beach, itself, for in winter it is one of the best behaved beaches on the Atlantic coast, but when summer comes and society maids and matrons journey to Atlantic City to display their curves and their abbreviated bathing suits the mercury hits the top of the thermometer and the lieguards blush beneath their tan. For the display of legs and shapes along the beach is something to shock even the New York rounders, who boast they have seen every form of wickedness along Broadway until they get a peek at the beach here. Then the New Yorker blushes and admits that at last there is something in the world that was not stolen from right off the White Way.

Speaking of bathing suits so small they may be tucked inside of a handbag and not take up much room, there are many so small that they seem to contain no greater amount of material than is in the ordinary lady's handkerchief.

It seems the fair ones vie with one another in trimming off unnecessary portions of their bathing costumes. Just recently the last word in shocking water apparel appeared on the beach upon the person of a very attractive New York maid, whose name is not mentioned for the very obvious reason that none learned it—nobody had time to think of such a detail while undergoing the shock that her appearance caused.

WITHOUT A BACK.

Not to go too deeply into the matter of feminine dress, (in this case feminine semi-nudity) the costume had little or no back. Kipling might describe it as he does in Gunga Din: "The uniform he wore was nothing much before or rather less than 'art of that behind.'" This costume was rather "less than 'art of that behind'" in that the V-cut ended far below the waist line, showing a broad expanse of pink flesh, the shoulder straps were a negligible quantity and the cut in front extended a little too low for it to be a costume accepted as proper in a girl's boarding school.

The police along the beach looked at the innovation with the same dazed appearance with which a man blinks at the sun, and then called a female member of the force. The latter borrowed a bathrobe, placed it over the outer bathing suit with about the same result as a person placing an extinguisher over the wick of a lighted candle, and then led the young maid back to her hotel where she gave her a matronly lecture about the forgotten grace known as propriety and warned her that her next informal appearance on the beach as "September Morn" would result in her arrest and appearance in police court.

Of course, the New York maid didn't appear again in that or any other costume for a fond mother and father, without whose knowledge the shocking costume was displayed, took their daughter home the very next day.

Of course, this girl's appearance was heralded in newspapers throughout the country and for fear some may doubt that such conditions exist at the Atlantic City beach, let it be said that such extreme costumes are seen daily and the shocks to those of Puritanical ideas are so rapid as to be almost continuous.

The matter has become of such great importance that the police department is considering severe action to prevent such displays. Atlantic City, until it was discovered to be the most fashionable resort in the United States and the Ostend of America, was a provincial town and the inhabitants were so far behind the times as to earn their living by the sweat of their brows. Then came the rich to Atlantic City and made it what it is today. The inhabitants turned from their rustic pursuits to the more attractive ones of making their living off the millionaire visitors. For all of which Atlantic City aborigines are more or less much obliged, but still they cannot live down their original domestic traits that required women to appear in the presence of their lords fully clothed.

OFFICIAL CONFERENCES.

So conferences are occasionally held behind closed doors in which Atlantic City lifts its hands in shame and calls upon its police force to accomplish certain reforms. The police force derives its support indirectly from the wealthy and therefore can occasionally voice its opinion and make regulations regarding the morals of the city.

It therefore has occasionally burst forth into regulating the kind of bathing suits to be worn. At time it decreed against the one-piece suit and established the proper nether extent of a bathing skirt as some place a few inches below the knees. But what can an honest maid venture forth in defiance of law and regulation in a daring creation that leaves but little to the imagination. No man wearing the star and brass buttons has the temerity to arrest her. Goodness no! Just think of an innocent policeman walking beside a veritable sea-nymph with his cheeks blazing, his eyes averted and the crowd of bathers laughing at him. With several thousand people along the board walk to look at the embarrassed patrolman do you think he would take a chance? Most policemen are brave men. They give up their lives readily, they fight burglars in the dark, they arrest murderers, they raid counterfeit dens and think nothing of it. But when it comes to arresting women, and especially a sea-nymph, whom he might have to lend his uniform coat before he could lead her to the police station, the patrolman is about ready to surrender his star and revolver and pick out some less violent pursuit.

So policemen were appointed and have done a great deal to tone up Atlantic City's morals. But even they are powerless at times to fully enforce the law.

Witness the case of Miss Walsh, a million-heiress, who recently assigned one of the lieguards to ferry punishment for upbraiding her violation of shore etiquette. Miss Walsh is a rather determined and almost frolicsome young lady. She is fond of canoeing and recently drove her canoe into a crowd of bathers here on the beach. She injured one woman. Whereupon Miss Walsh told him to go to h— and mind his own business.

COMING. REFORM IS

However, all the visitors to Atlantic City cannot be condemned for the errors of the few on the beach. There are staid mammas and papas who came there with their children with the sole object of having a certain amount of innocent pleasure. They, of course, deplore the costumes of those who make the beach a place for national comment and condemnation.

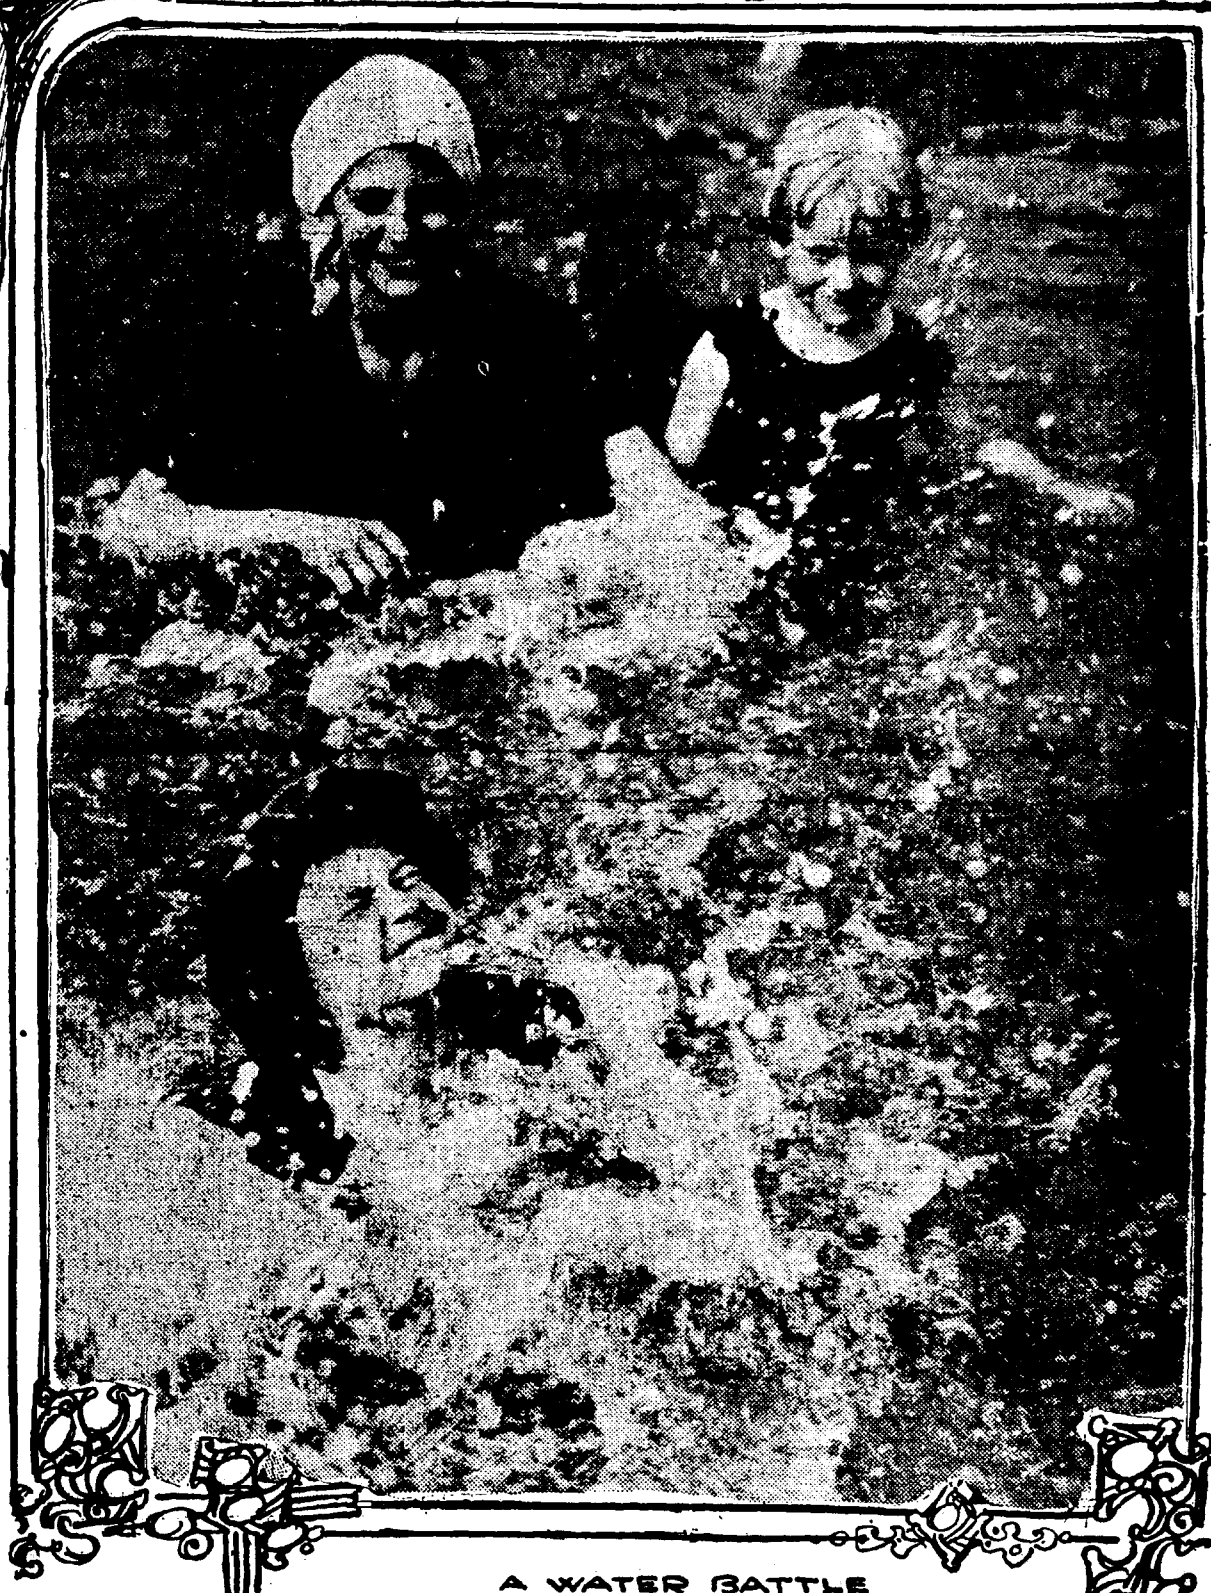

There are those who add a little to the dignity of the beach by appearing in costumes that are both moderate and chaste and at the same time beautiful. Some of these suits cost $100, and are made either of silk, crepe de chine or taffeta. The skirts extend far below the knees, the waists are full and with them is worn a brassiere. Green, blue and black predominate, novelty striped hose of different colors. Feiching little caps of rubberized taffeta and silks to match the bathing suits, are worn.

Mantles of gorgeous colors that contrast with the bathing suits are worn. The mantles usually hang to within nine inches of the ground. A maid holds the mantle and a sunshade while the fairer bathes.

Of course, the bathing beaches are not the worst places for fads and follies in Atlantic City. One must remember that the board walk really is the main attraction and the show place of Atlantic City. Thousands flock there on Easter Sunday to display the milliner and designer's greatest art. Creations from Paris are shown galore in that peacock strut of the country's fashionables along the boardwalk.

A FAKE RESCUE

The shops, hotels and dancing pavilions are scattered along this famous walk. The extremes as well as the conservatives come there at the great season of rejoicing to observe and be observed.

AND THEN COME THE DOGS.

The extremes wear the gaudiest costumes and employ the most unusual things to set off their own beauty. Mrs. Vernon Castle, of course, started a mild craze when she appeared there with her trained monkey in her muff. It was good advertising for Mrs. Vernon Castle, of course, and the Vernon Castles are said to be not averse to having their names and pictures in the newspapers for it really helps the dancing business, don't you know.

Then there is a fair ratio of women leading dogs of freakish appearance with their husbands somewhere in the background. First in importance in the fashion parade is the lady herself in her splendid costume, next is the freakish dog that trots before her as if it were an advertisement of her approach and behind is the mild-mannered man, who foots the bills. He is there as silent evidence of the fact that the dress was obtained honestly and is paid for. Other than that he is more or less worthless.

Being a husband in Atlantic City, by the way, is a position that ranks lower than that of the lowest meal in the place. The head waiter looks down upon the man of the party as if he were one not above suspicion of pouring his coffee into his saucer.

So, such is Atlantic City, the great show place of America where women vie with each other for leadership in oddities. When the Easter season is ended, when the monkey in a muff attraction of Mrs. Vernon Castle has lost its originality and power of advertising, then there is the bathing beach where shape counts for everything and abbreviated bathing suits are the chief aids of shape.

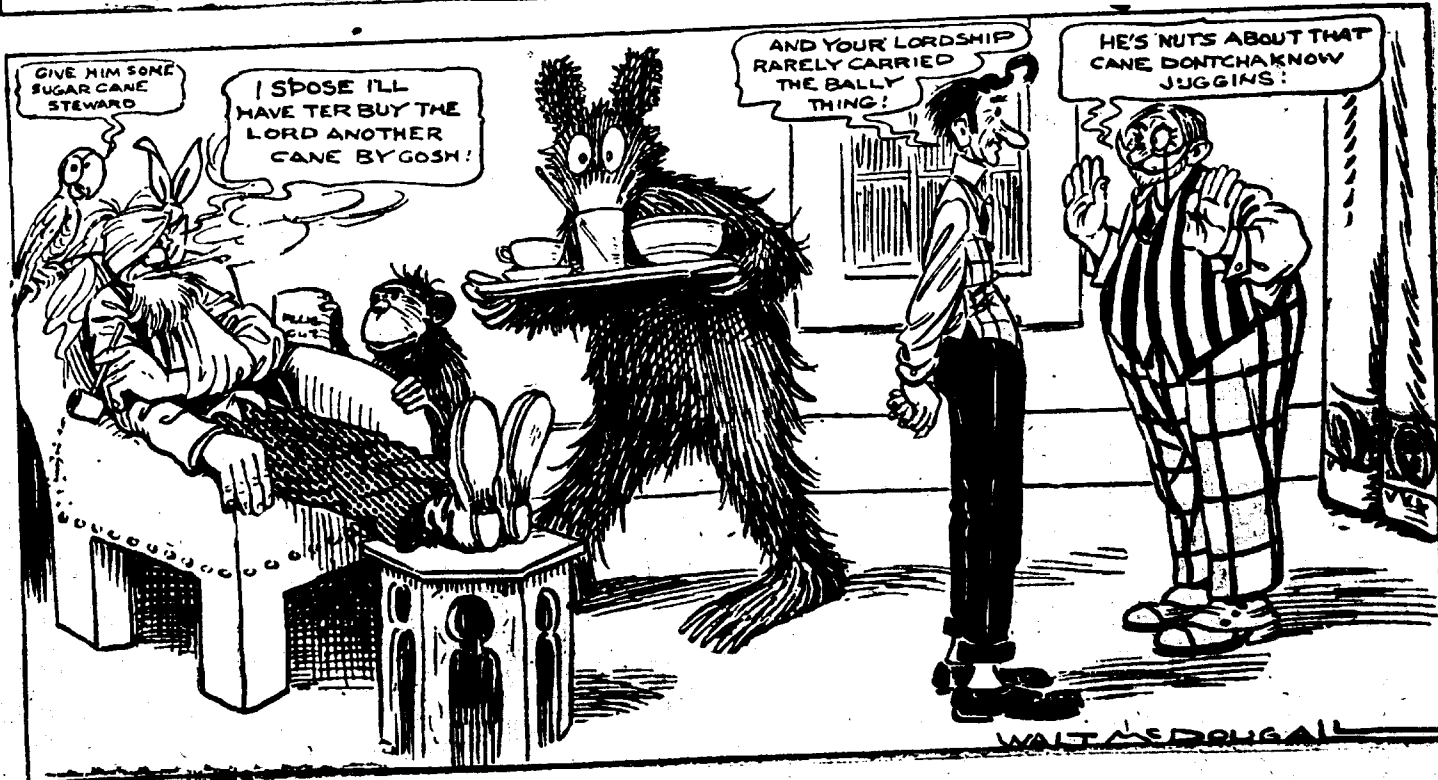

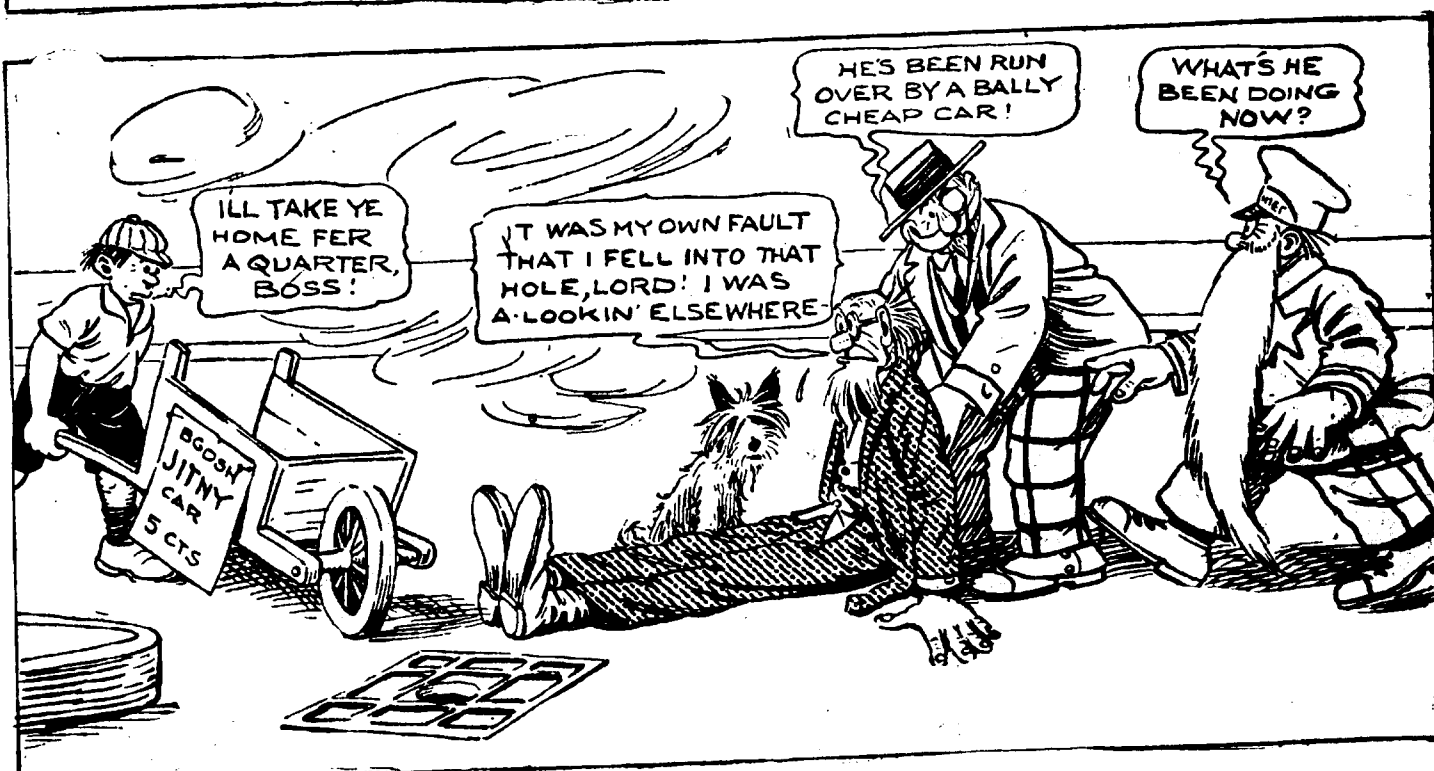

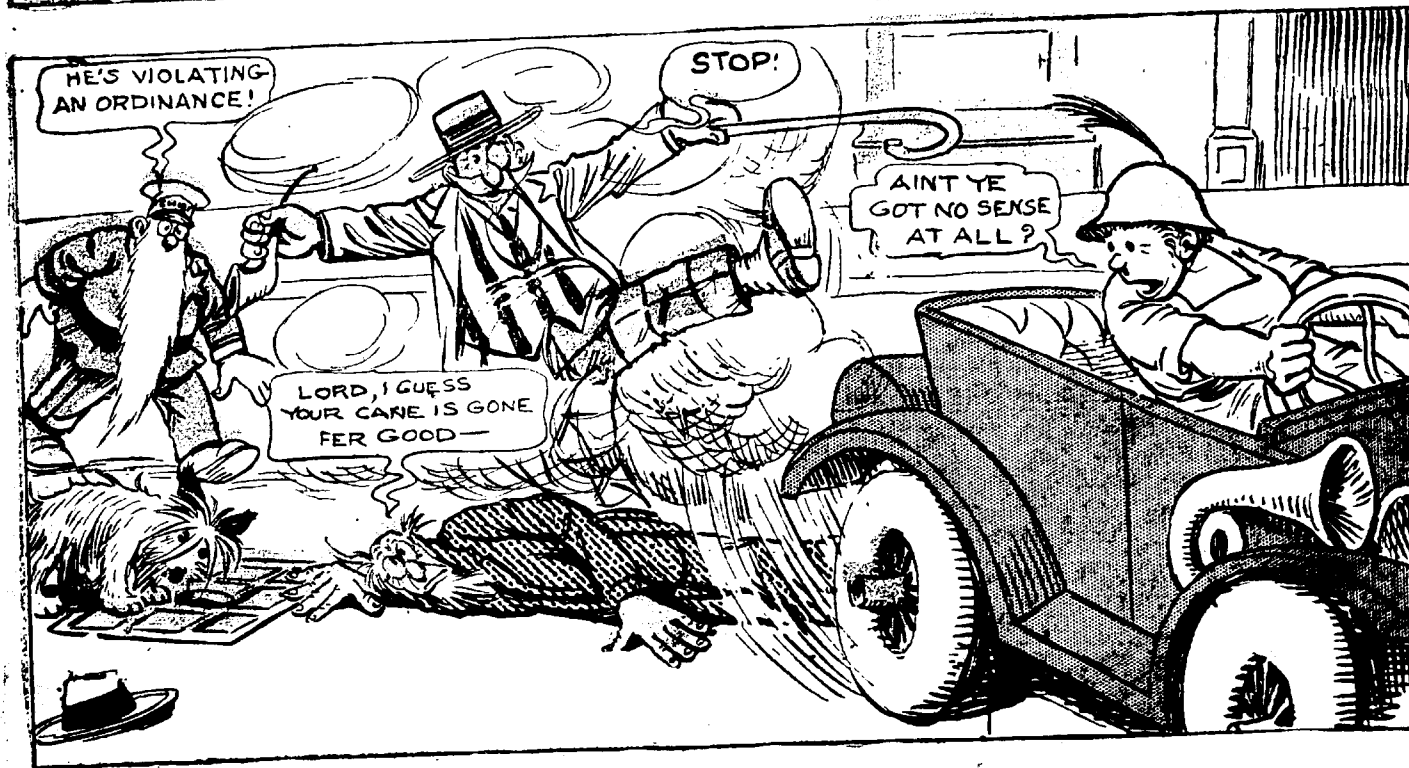

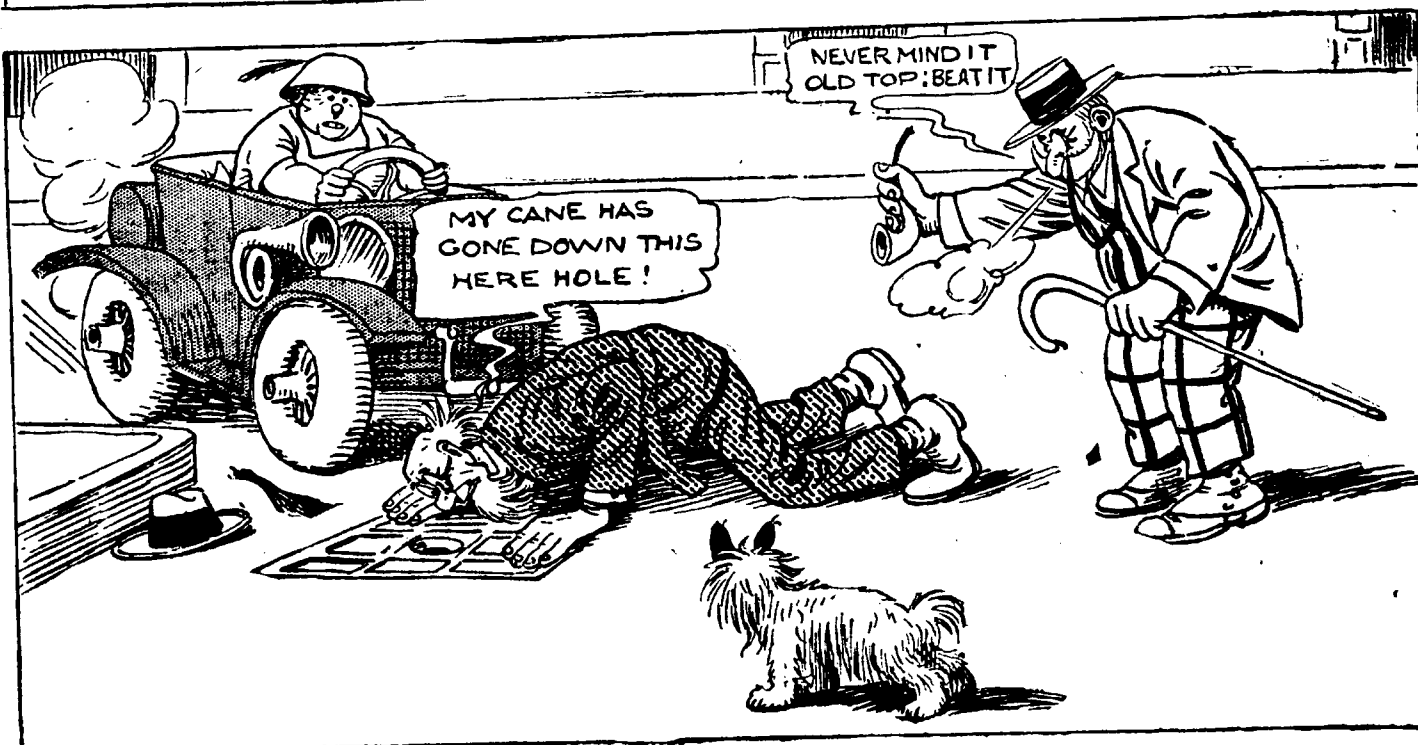

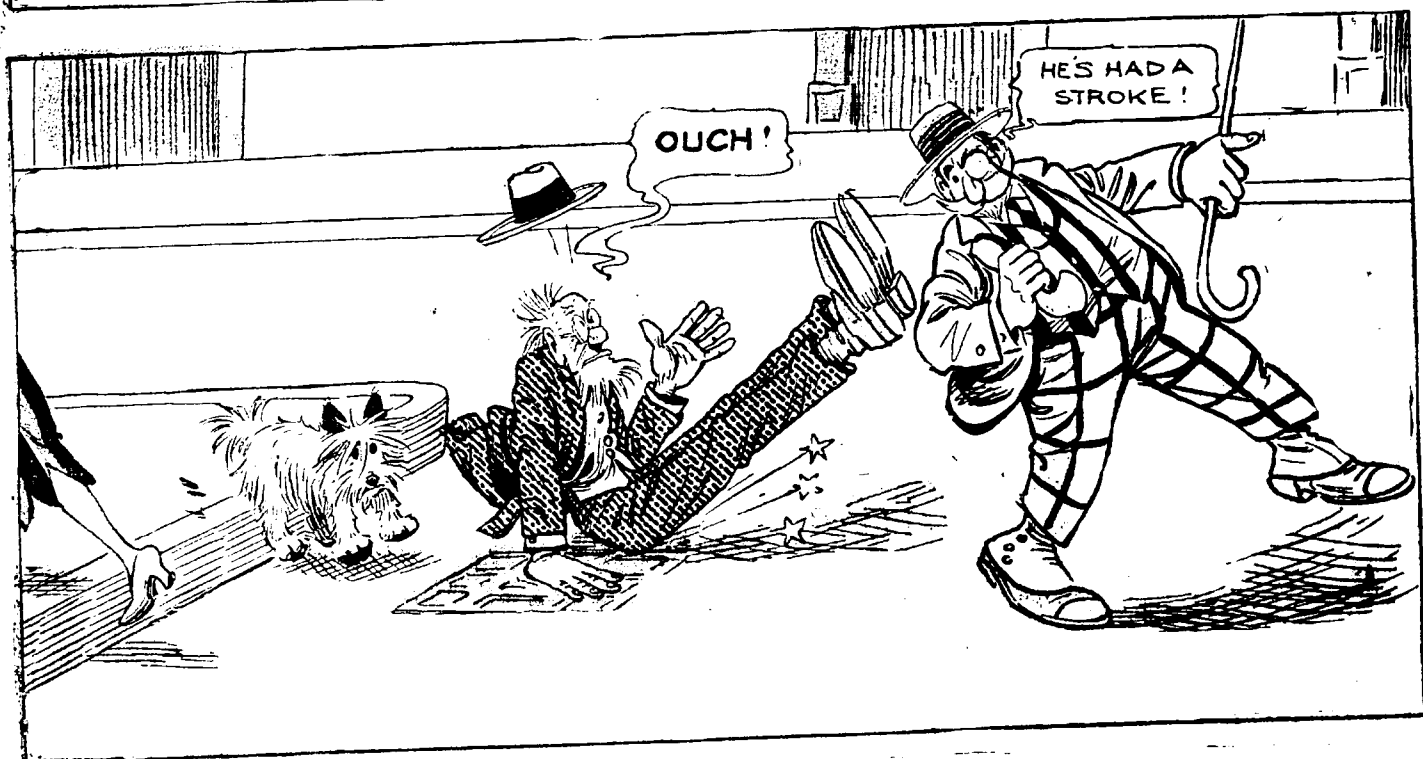

And there is no end of possibilities for displaying such bathing suits for the gulf stream strikes the coast there and it is always bathing time.

So why shouldn't those of Puritanical beliefs issue a hurry call for Anthony Comstock to come and give Atlantic City Beach the once over and allow him to place his seal of condemnation upon the shocking scenes on the beach? Eh, why not?

COMPANY ABANDONS PLAN FOR NIGHT CARS

Cigarmakers Vote Financial Aid to the Street Railway Men-- Sixth Day of Trouble is Quiet.

More union organizations in Fort Wayne are getting behind the street railway employees in their fight with the traction company for recognition.

At a special meeting of the Cigarmakers' union, called for 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, it was certain the carmen would be given not only assurances of support, but a substantial financial contribution to aid their cause.

Although there has been no order issued, it is understood the members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen are in a mutual agreement not to ride cars, several of the local lodges having taken up the matter at their meetings and the members, as individuals, have promised not to ride.

It is said the trainmen will issue orders to their members that those who persist in riding the cars manned by strike breakers will be thrown out of the organization. However, this move has not been made yet, according to some of the members.

On Monday Manager Oscar Wobrock will give benefit performances throughout the entire day at the Lyric theater. The cigarmakers' union have had printed and are distributing 10,000 badges on which is the following inscription: "We walk and smoke Fort Wayne made cigars."

Rumor of Settlement.
Both officials of the traction company and the union denied Saturday afternoon a rumor to the effect that a movement was on foot to take the question now in controversy relative to local arbitration of all grievances before the state utilities commission. J. C. Colgan, member of the executive committee of the Amalgamated Carriers' association, stated Saturday that in his opinion there would soon be a settlement of the differences existing between the men and the company.

No Cars Tonight.
Announcement was made Saturday afternoon that no cars would be operated Saturday night, as was contemplated earlier in the day. The notices containing the restraining order issued by the federal court, which were torn down on East Creighton avenue, near the Bowser plant, during the rioting there last Wednesday, were replaced Saturday.

No disturbance of any kind had been reported up to a late hour Saturday, notwithstanding the half holiday. There were not even the customary crowds along the tracks at several of the factories at the noon hour, as had been the case every day this week.

Attorneys Bryce and D. J. Colgan, of Chicago, representing the Amalgamated Carriers' organization, arrived in the city Saturday to assist and advise the local carmen.

People Still Walking.
The sixth day of the street car trouble found people walking and riding jitneys. Very few are riding the cars, although, according to officials of the company, the regular schedule is being maintained except at the rush hours when under normal conditions extra cars are always put into service. Members of the union, however, declare that the full quota of cars is not being operated. No attempt has been made to operate cars on any of the short lines.

According to Mr. Brennan ninety men have been imported to Fort Wayne from Logansport, Lafayette, Indianapolis and other cities and arrangements have been made for more men as soon as they are needed. Under normal conditions between 175 and 180 men are required to man the cars both day and night.

Taking Them Out.
Saturday morning found a smaller crowd than usual at the barns, hardly

At 10:30 Friday night the members of the New Haven Alert volunteer fire department turned over in bed and remarked to themselves that they were testing that new siren which whistles so often and at blamed unearthly hours. But the "test" continued for some ten minutes and one after the other the members of the Alert volunteers climbed into their nether garments and peered from the window.

That's how the little house of Mrs. Myrtle Trautner, in the northeast corner of the village, happens to be a heap of ashes today. The department did not begin to arrive until half an hour after the siren emitted its first screech.

No Petty Thief; Real Goods Says Man Who Admits Holdup

Columbus, O., Oct. 2. "I ain't no petty thief—I'm the real goods." This was the statement today of Edward Loftus, alias Joe Ryan, who confessed at police headquarters that single-handed and alone he held up and robbed a train near Indianapolis on the night of Sept. 11.

The hold-up netted the bandit $2,500 in money and some jewelry. Loftus surrendered to Police Officer Shaw, whom he had known for years.

"Shaw always has been on the square," Loftus said. "I know they'd get me in time so I concluded to give myself up to him and let him get the reward."

Loftus said he once worked with Shaw in an electrical shop in Cincinnati and remembered Shaw as a motor officer on the Columbus police force. He declared railroad detectives had cornered him and were about to arrest him. He telephoned for Shaw to meet him at a certain street corner and was there to fill the appointment when the motor officer arrived.

While the political situation in the Balkans is continuing to absorb attention Bulgaria is disposing her troops with a view to eventualities. She is reported in advance toward the Greek border as well as in the direction of the Serbian frontier. Bucharest dispatches received in Italy says that Bulgarian artillery is being massed along the Dobruja front of the Rumanian frontier.

The situation on the eastern front is little changed, according to the latest official reports. Teutonic gains near Dvinsk and Volynia seem well set off by the Russian gains in the central sectors where they are admittedly on the offensive. Contradicting the recent British announcement of successes in Mesopotamia the Turks declare the British offensive resumed on Sept. 27 was a failure, a violent attack being beaten off.

A Paris dispatch says that advances received there indicate that the number of German and Austrian troops concentrated along the Serbian frontier, which has been variously estimated at from 200,000 to 600,000, has been much exaggerated, the actual number being only about 60,000.

Paris, Oct. 2.—There has been a heavy bombardment in the Artois district, according to the announcement made by the French war office this afternoon. Nevertheless the French forces have made perceptible progress in this district on the heights of La Folie.

It is reported from Athens that Bulgarian troops from Sofia are moving in the direction of the Serbian frontier and that other forces are being dispatched toward the Greek border.

This information was forwarded today by the Athens correspondent of the Havas News Agency, who asserts it was obtained from a reliable source. It is

DOC COOK WAS LOCKED UP AS A GERMAN SPY

San Francisco, Oct. 2.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who left San Francisco in June to climb Mount Everest, in the Himalayas, was arrested in Rangoon, Burma, as a German spy and his motion picture outfit was confiscated, according to Curtis W. Allen, an American timber buyer, who has returned from an eleven months' trip in the far east. Allen said that Dr. Cook was released later but permission to climb Everest was withheld.

The timber man who was born in Anacortes, Washington, said he himself was arrested as a spy seven times in eleven months, and at Rangoon was in the same jail with the explorer.

DR. LOHMAN WEDS HUNTINGTON GIRL

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 2.—Miss Bernice Bippus, daughter of Fred Bippus, one of Huntington's best known and wealthiest citizens, was married this afternoon to Dr. Maurice R. Lohman, only son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Lohman, of Fort Wayne. The wedding was an exceedingly quiet one and attended only by relatives.

The bride and groom left at once for Wallon Lake, Mich., where the groom's parents have a summer home, to spend their honeymoon. Dr. Lohman was graduated from the University of Michigan in the classical course and then took the course in medicine. He is associated with his uncle, Dr. Maurice Rosenthal, in his profession at Fort Wayne.

COMPANY ABANDONS PLAN FOR NIGHT CARS

the cars or the crews that manned them. Soon after the cars were taken out one on the East (Freight) line "went dead" and was returned to the barns, but the others continued their regular trips.

No Operation Necessary. Thompson, the imported carman who is at St. Joseph's hospital suffering from injuries received when he was caught by a crowd of rioters at the Bowser plant several days ago, is recovering, and according to reports from the hospital Saturday morning an operation will not be necessary.

Although the attendants admitted that the injured man was in fit physical condition for an interview, newspaper reporters were refused admission to his room without a permit from the company surgeon.

Crowd Was Orderly. The crowd that gathered about the barns at 5 o'clock Friday evening was as orderly as any that has gathered there since the men quit work last Sunday night. The several hundred people who lined the sidewalks could not refrain from jeering at the crews, but there was no other disturbance.

One conductor attempted to back into a switch without getting out of his car, and was given a good round cuffing by Officer Harris and ordered out into the street. The crowd could hardly control itself until he reached the pavement and once he set foot on the street cheered him on with wise saws and pertinent suggestions.

When he wanted the car to stop and laid his hand against it and yelled "Whoa," it threw the watchful waiters into convulsions of merriment and they "whooped" him into the barns. However, there was no real trouble and the officers on duty were able to cope with the situation very well. The carmen were there as usual, a score or more of them.

and they behaved very nicely, "sticking around" only and not even participating in the riots.

Did Not See Governor. James M. Barrett, president of the traction company, returned Friday evening from Indianapolis and immediately denied the rumor that he had been in consultation with the governor and members of the public utilities commission in reference to the street car situation in Fort Wayne. It was stated that Mr. Barrett's visit to Indianapolis had to do with the cases pending in the federal court and that during the entire day he was in consultation with Ferdinand Winters and other attorneys representing the United States Mortgage and Trust company, who secured the temporary restraining order against Joseph C. Colgan and others from interfering with the operation of the cars. The United States Mortgage and Trust company holds the bonds of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company.

Twenty-Seven Cars Out. Twenty-seven cars were taken out of the barns Saturday morning for service during the day. One of these was soon brought back on account of the burning out of a fuse. It is understood that the same service will be maintained as on Friday. There was a heavy fog early Saturday morning, which made the operation of cars more difficult.

Knitters Vote Aid. At a meeting of the Knitters' local union, No. 2, Friday evening, the members unanimously voted $100 to the carmen's union and $100 every meeting until the men are taken back to work. As the Knitters meet twice a month $200 a month will be given to the carmen as long as the strike continues. Every member of the union will be fined $25 for the first time he is caught riding on a street car before the present trouble is over. $50 for the second offense and expulsion for the third offense. The penalty also applies to the wives and children and if sweethearted by the unmarried men fail to abide by the order then they must find another "steady" or quit the union. Another motion was carried classing business men who ride the cars as "not friendly to the Knitters."

A resolution was adopted endorsing the part Mayor Hosey has taken in an effort to bring about the arbitration of the differences between the company and its former employees. Resolutions also were passed favoring a local board for the arbitration of all differences and against the state utilities commission acting in that capacity. The meeting was largely attended. A committee from the Knitters was scheduled to meet with the car men Saturday afternoon.

Officers' Signals Ignored. One of the imported motormen came very near being arrested Friday when twice he ignored the signals of Officer Lauer at Wayne and Calhoun streets. On two trips the motorman failed to heed the officer's signal to halt and when he came around the third time Lauer boarded the car and told him in language that could not be misunderstood, that another offense of the kind would result in his arrest for violation of the traffic rules.

Several Fort Wayne people were badges Saturday bearing the inscription: "We walk and smoke Fort Wayne made cigars." One of the trainmen entered a local restaurant Friday to get lunch. He looked all around for a union card and failing to find one asked the proprietor if he conducted a union restaurant. When told that he did not he walked out in search of a union establishment.

Car Strikes Wagon. Complaint was made Friday evening to the police by Clarence Heath, 1122 Birch street, employed by William Henderson, of East Columbia street, that while driving east on Lewis street, about 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, car No. 185 ran into the rear of the wagon at Hanna street, damaging the wheels and breaking the crossbar and shafts. He said the car did not stop.

A large piece of iron was found Friday on the tracks at the switch leading off to the Berghoff brewery, placed there, it is believed, for the purpose of wrecking a car. The front trucks of a car were thrown off, but no serious damage was done.

What the Car Men Say. The following statement was issued today by W. H. Didier, chairman of the press committee of the car men:

"In answer to a statement by James M. Barrett, president of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, that he and the company have a legal contract with the street car men we wish to make the following reply:

"Admit the contract was signed, but how and why it was signed is another question.

"It goes back as far as December 1910, when the car men had a com-

DAWKINS SHOOTING HELD JUSTIFIABLE

Coroner F. H. Kruse has filed his findings in the case of the killing of an unknown man by Frank Dawkins, a merchant in the village of Dawkins, twelve miles east of Fort Wayne, on the morning of September 24, holding that the killing was justifiable because Dawkins shot in defense of his property and life, when the man tried to burglarize the store.

KILLS PROHIBITION PLANK. Massachusetts Republicans Defeat It Overwhelmingly.

Boston, Oct. 2.—The Massachusetts republicans, in state convention here today voted down two proposed planks to the platform, one opposing loans to foreign belligerent powers, and the other favoring national prohibition. The anti-prohibition plank was defeated almost unanimously. The vote on the prohibition plank was 298 for and 1,942 against. The platform of 1912 against the committee on resolutions and containing several planks suggested by former progressive leaders was then adopted.

TURKEY WILL ALLOW ARMENIANS TO LEAVE

Consents to Emigration of All Who Become American Citizens.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Turkey has consented to the emigration of all Armenians who actually will become naturalized American citizens on their arrival in this country. Ambassador Morgenthau, at Constantinople, has arranged with the Turkish government for the free departure of all Armenians for whose intention to become naturalized Americans he can vouch.

An appeal will be made public by the board of commissioners for foreign missions for money to make possible the transportation and change of allegiance of such Armenians. It is understood that Turkey will permit the Armenians to come to the United States, although it will not allow them to take up residence in Europe. A large number of former Turkish citizens are now under arms in the strip of Armenian Turkey, near Van, now held by the Russians and the Turks fear that if other Armenians are allowed to go to adjacent territory, they will also enlist with Turkey's enemies. The only restriction that the United States makes upon the proposed encouragement of Armenian immigration is that the new comers fulfill the immigration requirements and enter the United States as are other foreigners, sincerely applying for American citizenship.

J. G. Spink as its representative among the official writers and requested that the base ball writers' association appoint additional scorers from among its members for Philadelphia and Boston. All the rules that governed the play during the 1914 series will be in force again this season. The national commission announced that the umpires would have the complete backing of that body in preserving order and enforcing the rules among the players. They are to be particularly cautioned against permitting any disorder or loud comment by players on the benches of the rival clubs.

It was further decided that in case of a tie game or a postponement due to inclement weather the teams will remain in the city where such game was to have been played until the game is complete and dates of further games on the schedule will be advanced to meet any such emergency arising.

The eligible players for the series as announced by the national commission follow: Philadelphia National league team—Alexander, Adams, Baneroff, Burns, Baumgartner, Becker, Byrne, Cravath, Chalmers, Dugger, Donahoe, Killifer, Luderus, Moran, Mayer, McQuinn, Nichols, Pascker, Rixey, Stock, Tincup, Whitely, Weiser.

Boston American league—Barry, Carrigan, Cady, Collins, Foster, Gregg, Gardner, Gainer, Hohlstedt, Hooper, Hendricks, Janverin, Leonard, Lewis, Mays, McNally, Ruth, Shore, Scott, Spinker, Thomas, Wood, Wagner.

Scale of Prices. These are prices of the seats announced by the presidents of each league to the national commission. Boston—box seats, $5 each; grand stand, reserved, $2 each; first base pavilion, reserved, $2 each; third base pavilion, admission $1; bleachers, 50 cents.

Philadelphia—box seats upper pavilion, first four rows, $5 each; upper and lower grand stands, reserved, $3 each; right field pavilion, reserved, $2 each; bleachers, $1 admission.

Chairman Hornum announced that the inter-club post season series at Chicago would be held under the supervision of President E. G. Barrows, of the international league, assisted by Adrian C. Anson as representative of the National commission. The American league umpires for this series appointed by President Johnson are Connolly and Dineen and for the National league President Tener named Quigley and Orth.

WRANGLE OVER RESERVATIONS.

F. Baker, president of the Philadelphia Nationals, said today that he was determined to take care of Philadelphia fans before providing accommodations for fans out of town spectators at the world's series base ball games to be played at Philadelphia. This was a reply to President Lamm's statement that unless the "Royal Rooters" of Boston were permitted to purchase reserved seats in a block in the bleachers for the Philadelphia games, he would not allow his Boston American league team to compete in the world's series.

Baker said he thought Boston was too big a base ball town to have a body of 400 organized rooters upset a series for which more than 40,000 every day rooters were anxious to witness. "I am convinced," said Baker, "that if it were left to a vote of the 400 'Royal Rooters' as to whether they should be cared for in Philadelphia to the exclusion of 400 men who have been waiting for 32 years to receive the Phillies in a world's series, I am sure the 'Royal

No Official Action. No official action has been taken as yet regarding seats in Philadelphia for the Boston "Royal Rooters" but it is understood that they will be given the 400 seats asked for from the allotment given the National commission by the Philadelphia club.

One of the matters discussed by the national committee was that the commission will request the owners of the clubs to send the teams or portions of the teams to take part in games at the Panama Pacific exposition.

Melville E. Webb, of the Boston Globe, and Joseph McCready, of the Sporting Writers' Association of Philadelphia, were selected by the commission to have charge of the distribution of press tickets.

PHILADELPHIA ELATED.

Pleased Over Early Start and Two First Games.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 2.—Philadelphia baseball fans were elated when the news was flashed here that the first two games of the world's series between the Phillies and the Red Sox would be played in this city. There was also satisfaction expressed that the first game is scheduled for Oct. 8, as the town was eager, despite the fact that it has had five such series in the last six seasons, to have the games start at an early date. The downtown office of the Philadelphia ball club was bombarded all morning with inquiries about the starting of the games.

Now that the date and place have been fixed a swarm of orders to printing companies, contractors and others will go out for execution. The work of installing more than a half hundred telegraph wires will be speeded up. The contractor who is erecting the extra bleacher seats and boxes has his work well under way.

announced. It is understood that the secretary will take the note with him to Washington and after discussing it with President Wilson will indicate whether or not it is satisfactory.

Basis for Negotiation. It was learned reliably that the note furnishes a basis for further negotiations and from this it was inferred that, while admitting the principle that merchantmen would not be torpedoed without warning, Germany is anxious to submit to arbitration the question of facts as to whether or not the Arabic was engaged in a hostile act at the time she was torpedoed and how much indemnity must be paid as a consequence, if the verdict is against the German commander.

Secretary of State Lansing stopped here today while en route to Washington from his vacation, to confer with Count von Bernstorff relative to the submarine negotiations and particularly the case of the Arabic.

Will Govern Next Step. It was the first conference between the representatives of the two governments for two weeks, during which time the German ambassador had been given an opportunity to communicate to his foreign office the evidence gathered by the United States tending to prove conclusively that the Arabic was torpedoed without warning and was not engaged in a hostile act, as Germany claims. The loss of American lives on board the Arabic under these circumstances brought the issue between the United States and Germany to a climax and upon word that the German ambassador was to communicate to Secretary Lan-

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONIC

If cross, feverish or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child, a good, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given. If your little one is out of sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look! Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

WETS WOEFULLY WALLOPED.

Receive Terrible Drubbing in South Whitley Election.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 2.—The wet and dry election in Cleveland township Thursday pretty effectively established the fact that the vast majority of the people in the town of South Whitley and Cleveland township feel that they can get along very well without the licensed saloon, for they returned a majority of 202 for the dry side. At the last election, the dry majority was only 10, and the jump to 202 was rather astonishing to both the wets and dries.

The election officers came to this city by automobile through the rain Friday morning and canvassed the vote in the office of County Auditor McLaughlin. South Whitley people say the result is received with favor, and it is probable that this will put an end to the looking of such elections, as it would be futile for the wets to attempt to carry the township. It is said that there is at the present time need for at least fifteen houses in South Whitley to accommodate people who would like to locate there if they could find a place in which to move.

FIGHT OVER HALF FOOT OF LAND

Portland, Ind., Oct. 2.—What is a strip of ground, six inches in width, across the right-of-way of a railroad company worth? This question is to be put to the circuit court here, since both interested parties have filed exceptions to the report of appraisers who made an award of $115 for the ground. The question arose when the Union Heat, Light and Power company and the Lake Erie & Western Railroad company could not agree on the amount of damages the former concern should pay to place a six-inch pipe beneath the railroad tracks. When the appraisers' report was made the heat, light and power company objected, claiming the amount was too large. The railroad company filed exceptions alleging the amount is too small and now the court must settle the dispute.

STORES TO CLOSE EARLY.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 2.—Wednesday night was the last that the union stores of this city will keep open until 9 o'clock on that day of the week. By the agreement which was made by the clerks and the proprietors, the stores close every night at six, with the exception of Wednesday and Saturday nights. On the former night the stores will close at nine o'clock during the months of April, May, June, July, August and September, and will remain open until ten o'clock on Saturday night. The agreement states that during the months of January, February, March, October, November and December the stores will only remain open until eight o'clock on Wednesday evenings.

How To Make the Quickest, Simplest Cough Remedy

Much Better than the Ready-Made Kind and You Save $2. Fully Guaranteed.

This home-made cough syrup is now used in more homes than any other cough remedy. Its promptness, ease and certainty in conquering distressing coughs, chest and throat colds, is really remarkable. You can actually feel it take hold. A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough—relieves even whooping cough, quinsy, croup, bronchial asthma and winter coughs.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you—at a cost of only 14 cents—a full pint of better cough syrup than you could buy for $2.50. Takes but a few minutes to prepare. Full directions with Pinex. Tastes good and never spoils.

You will be pleasantly surprised how quickly it loosens dry, hoarse or tight coughs, and heals the inflamed membranes in a painful cough. It also stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in quinine, which is so healing to the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, be sure and ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and don't accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

SECRETS OF SUCCESS! "WORK WINS," SAYS LORD READING.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Lord Reading, chief justice of England, co-negotiator of the British war loan, told the secret of his code of success in two words—"Work wins."

Here is his advice to young men on success:

Know what you want. Keep your mind always on it. Face facts, but remember there is always a bright side. Above all, keep the tightest control of yourself. Remember that work wins in the end. No success is won without it. No success is worth having unless honorably earned.

Exodus 9:27-35.

27 And Pharaoh sent, and called for Moses and Aaron, and said unto them, I have sinned this time; the Lord is righteous, and I and my people are wicked.

28 Intreat the Lord (for it is enough) that there be no more mighty thunderings and hail; and I will let you go, and ye shall stay no longer. 29 And Moses said unto him, As soon as I am gone out of the city, I will spread abroad my hands unto the Lord; and the thunder shall cease, neither shall there be any more hail; that thou mayest know how that the Lord is the Lord's.

30 But as for thee and thy servants, I know that ye will not yet fear the Lord God.

31 And the flax and the barley was smitten; for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was bolled.

32 But the wheat and the rice were not smitten; for they were not grown up.

33 And Moses went out of the city from Pharaoh, and spread abroad his hands unto the Lord, and the thunders and hail ceased, and the rain was not poured upon the earth.

34 And when Pharaoh saw that the rain and the hail and the thunders were ceased, he sinned yet more, and hardened his heart, he and his servants.

35 And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, neither would he let the children of Israel go; as the Lord had spoken by Moses.

Making Dyes in America.

Because it is the home of a great institution, employing hundreds of operatives and using vast quantities of the product, Fort Wayne is more than ordinarily interested in the discussions regarding the manufacture of dye-stuffs in America, and some important light is now being shed upon the subject by Dr. Thomas H. Norton, the federal investigator of the dye-stuff situation.

Briefly, Dr. Norton explains that American capital is ready to embark on an adequate scale in the manufacture of dye-stuffs, heretofore an almost exclusively German industry, if it can be assured of protection against the dumping of foreign dye-stuffs and other chemicals upon the American market after the war shall end and trade gets back to a normal basis. Dr. Norton declares his belief that immediate action by congress is essential to the founding of an American chemical industry; that American manufacturers are unwilling to hazard the large sums necessary to embark in the enterprise unless they are assured that the attitude of the government will be such as to protect them against the sort of competition inspired by grievous business necessity that will follow when commercial readjustment begins as the war conflict ends. As the situation now stands, the business would be profitable. What would probably happen when the European markets seek to unload would be quite another matter.

It should not be forgotten that the dye industry in the United States is now comparatively nil, and that before it can be developed to high efficiency there must be long and perhaps expensive experiments. It must start as essentially an "infant industry," and it will need careful nurturing. It is so important that America be wholly independent of the remainder of the world as a producer that there can scarcely be valid objection to a proper degree of encouragement manifested in moderate protection that will safeguard the dye-stuff undertaking in this country.

Contrary to the old claim that the corporation is inherently devoid of soul, some of the big ones have recently been manifesting consideration of a highly gratifying sort. One instance is that of the Standard Oil company, which has given its men at Hammond and Whiting an eight-hour day instead of ten as formerly, and without any reduction in wages. Moreover, the change makes room for 400 additional men at these two points. It is difficult to question the genuineness of a voluntary concession that costs so much real money as that to the concern which makes it.

The boom of Senator Frederick Van Nuys, of Anderson, for the democratic nomination for governor next year, appears to have been launched in very auspicious style at the party barbecue at Elwood, and it is commanding considerable attention over the state. Within a short time, the prediction is made, friends of District Attorney Frank S. Dailey will shie the Bluffton man's hat into the ring, and doubtless still other are to follow. The race for place on both democratic and republican tickets next year promises to be invested with all the interest the most ardent lover of a political scramble could desire if he were staging the show himself.

Following the decision of the federal court that it is an unlawful combination in restraint of legitimate trade, the motion picture trust has announced that it will give up and make readjustments to conform to the law, but waits that it "means millions of expense and a big loss." It has always been observed that gains illegitimately gotten are fully as hard to surrender as are the dollars which come in cleanly fashion, and the wary face of the film barons is merely another illustration of that fact.

It requires a rather vivid sort of imagination to consider the average policeman enacting the role of side to Cupid, but we're becoming accustomed to surprises these days. Anyhow, the police at Evansville extended their kindly offices in getting an orphan girl out of jail in order that she might be married to her waiting lover after over-zealous officers at St. Louis had sent her to the Indiana city by mistake. There is scarcely any avenue in which the policeman cannot make himself useful if he sets about to do it.

A Terre Haute man appears to be nursing a grievance against Italy and wants the United States to protest vigorously because he was arrested and forced to leave the Italian domain. Somehow it is difficult to work up any great degree of sympathy with the Terre Haute man's troubles. Why should he desire to remain there, anyway?

The street car trouble in Fort Wayne is now in its sixth day, and with the possible exception of the jitney drivers, we think a vote taken would show the unanimous opinion that it isn't in any sense an enjoyable sort of affair for either the car men, the company or the public. That being true, why not an adjustment of difficulties and a return of peace?

New Railroad in Alaska to Sound Knell of Horse and Dog Mail Carriers.

Winter Mail Trail From Chitina to Fairbanks, Alaska.

By F. M. Kerby.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Uncle Sam's new government railroad in Alaska is going to mean a lot more than mere cheap transportation of necessary supplies and quicker travel for citizens of the territory. All sorts of unexpected results are going to come from it. Among other things, it will revolutionize methods of carrying the United States mail, especially the winter delivery. At present, mail delivery in the territory is difficult, especially in winter. This is due to lack of roads rather than to eliminate conditions. In summer the mail goes in not only by steamer to all the ports on the southern coast, but also up the western coast, and in the interior, steamers on all the navigable waterways aid in the distribution. But in winter, all mail for the interior must go to the southern coast ports and from there to the interior over snow trails. Mail for Fairbanks (from which point it is distributed to other interior points) must go from Seattle to Cordova by steamer; from there it goes by the Copper River and Northwestern railroad for a distance of 133 miles to Chitina. At Chitina, the real journey starts. It is approximately 350 miles overland from Chitina to Fairbanks, and the mail goes by four-horse sled team, twice a week, weather permitting. The trip from Cordova to Fairbanks requires 7-12 days. The sled teams are changed at the road houses after each 20 miles of the journey, where the mail carrier can also procure a good meal at from $1.00 to $1.50. When the government railroad is completed, mail for the interior will probably all go up to Fairbanks by rail, cheapening, quickening and improving the service. It will be very many years, however, before the horse, dog and reindeer will be displaced by the iron horse in interior Alaska.

THE PRESIDENT'S HEART.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch).

It was to be expected of President Wilson that, when he should address the veterans of the civil war as he did Tuesday in Washington, on the occasion of the annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, that he should praise their war-time patriotism and courage, and indicate the enduring value of their achievements. This has been a general perfunctory oratorical service for many years.

But the president did much more than this. He disclosed new angles of thought and sentiment touching our great civil conflict and its results, and he suggestively pointed out to these gray-haired veterans that many inspiring things of which they had not dreamed when battles were engaging their lives and their valor, have developed from their service for the spiritual and physical benefit and enrichment of the nation. He made these aged patriots feel, as probably never before, how very much they have done for their country and how profoundly therefore reaches throughout the nation. His generous words in behalf of the south will evoke no spirit of hostile criticism anywhere.

The striking note of the address was that of deep appreciation and sympathy, and it was therefore no wonder, when the president of the United States, yesterday, watched these worn and weary men in blue, the feeble and decrepit remnants of the vast Union armies of 55 years ago, marching along Pennsylvania avenue with proud men but halting and hesitating steps, that the tears of affectionate compassion and regard should roll down his cheeks. Mr. Wilson has a great heart for the American people and especially for the old soldiers.

FINANCIAL PREPAREDNESS.

(Minneapolis Journal).

By the amazing good fortune of the new banking and currency law, the United States was prepared to meet the financial strain of the world war, though it torpedoes its shipping and hampers its export trade by restricting the economic business organization needed to meet foreign competition.

The problem of international exchange may be worked out in one way or another of the many under consideration. Credit may be put against the unprecedented excess of American exports by one form or another of bond transaction with our customers.

The details matter little to laymen, when worked out by the best financial wisdom and experience, organized into effective machinery with central direction under government supervision.

Five years ago this would have been impossible. When national credit had been undermined by unwise financial legislation 20 years ago the Cleveland administration had to use the imperfect and involuntary machinery of large private banking with foreign connection till the law-making power could be brought to its senses.

In the tremor of domestic finance caused by strained credit due to excessive speculation in 1907 the sound banks of the whole country had to form overnight a voluntary organization for uniform action.

Now the federal reserve law has put all the financial institutions of the country behind the district reserve banks. These under the leadership of the federal reserve board, furnish guidance and control for the finance of the whole country in a mission of civilization as delicate as it is urgent. The United States is ready in this way if an no other.

WHEN WILSON LED CABINET IN PRAYER

Incident in Recent Crisis is Related by Bishop Anderson.

Indianapolis, Oct. 2.—How President Wilson went down on his knees and led his cabinet in prayer at a recent meeting was told here by Bishop William F. Anderson, of Cincinnati, at a session of the Indiana Methodist Episcopal conference. A United States senator told the bishop of the incident, he said. The senator had heard it from one of the cabinet members who prayed with the president.

"When the president arrived at the cabinet meeting," said Bishop Anderson, "his face wore a solemn look. It was evident that serious affairs of the nation were on his mind. He said to the cabinet members: 'I don't know whether you men believe in prayer or not. I do. Let us pray and ask the help of God.'"

"And right there the president of the United States fell upon his knees and the members of the cabinet did the same and the president offered a prayer to God. While the war rages in Europe, we in this country should thank God that in this crisis of the world we have a chief executive who is a servant of God and who stands with his hand in the hand of God. Every minister in the land should, every time he offers a prayer, take Woodrow Wilson by the hand and lead him into the presence of God, and ask that he be given strength to continue to be the great apostle of peace among men."

There was a cheer of "Amen" from the ministers. Later a telegram expressing the confidence of the delegates in him was sent to the president.

Mrs. Edgington did not learn of the accident until she reached Staunton, 20 miles away. She then fainted away.

WILSON SAYS U. S. CAN MAKE DYES.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 2.—America need have no fear of a dye famine, according to Thomas Edison, who says the United States can make all the principal dyes. I have developed a benzol-producing plant and that is the starting point of all dyes," he said in his laboratory here. "The making of dyes in this country will be successfully carried on if congress will pass a law to prevent dumping into this country at prices lower than they are sold in Germany."

WHEN WILSON LED CABINET IN PRAYER

Incident in Recent Crisis is Related by Bishop Anderson.

Indianapolis, Oct. 2.—How President Wilson went down on his knees and led his cabinet in prayer at a recent meeting was told here by Bishop William F. Anderson, of Cincinnati, at a session of the Indiana Methodist Episcopal conference. A United States senator told the bishop of the incident, he said. The senator had heard it from one of the cabinet members who prayed with the president.

"When the president arrived at the cabinet meeting," said Bishop Anderson, "his face wore a solemn look. It was evident that serious affairs of the nation were on his mind. He said to the cabinet members: 'I don't know whether you men believe in prayer or not. I do. Let us pray and ask the help of God.'"

"And right there the president of the United States fell upon his knees and the members of the cabinet did the same and the president offered a prayer to God. While the war rages in Europe, we in this country should thank God that in this crisis of the world we have a chief executive who is a servant of God and who stands with his hand in the hand of God. Every minister in the land should, every time he offers a prayer, take Woodrow Wilson by the hand and lead him into the presence of God, and ask that he be given strength to continue to be the great apostle of peace among men."

There was a cheer of "Amen" from the ministers. Later a telegram expressing the confidence of the delegates in him was sent to the president.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sawyer, of Indianapolis, who have been visiting relatives in the city, are spending the week-end at Lake James with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Rodabaugh and Mrs. Willis (Colfax) Jones, of Colorado Springs, who is at the Rodabaugh cottage for a month.

Mrs. Edward Perrey and Mrs. Frank McCauley gave a theater party at the Temple theater on Thursday afternoon in honor of Miss Marie Miller, who is to wed Dr. Culp, of Davenport, Ia., on October 12. After the theater the guests were entertained at the Arentz store. There were fourteen in the company and the guests were such young women as have been hostesses for pre-nuptial parties given to honor Miss Miller.

Miss Katherine Conner, of 1611 Boone street, gave a pretty party on Friday afternoon after school, in celebration of her ninth birthday anniversary. A birthday cake, pink and white candies, ice cream and a plenty of other good things helped along the good time enjoyed in playing games. The children were Thelma Long, Helen and Josephine Dodez, Charlotte Doswell, Virian Cranz, Florence Johnson, Helen Pierce, Helen Garwood, Mildred Ador, Bonita Conner and Wayne Short.

A birthday surprise of the week was one tendered Miss Blanche Van Buskirk, because of a birthday anniversary. Miss Bonnie Van Buskirk and Miss Hattie Intimate friends were invited and they showered Miss Felts with handkerchiefs. Beautiful roses in yellow and white were used for decorating, for a gift for Miss Felts and as favors at supper time. The guests spent a happy time and made the honor guest feel that there is nothing to be prouder of than one's friends. There were present Misses Lois Brunstrator, Dolly Bulink, Adah and Gladys Johnston, Elsie Hoopingartner, Florence Keller, Lavina Straues, Ermailla Caugher, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Elmer Jockel was given a delightful surprise at her home on Plaquemine on Thursday afternoon by the members of the Idle Hour club and other friends. The occasion was Mrs. Jockel's natal anniversary. Mrs. Jockel was presented with gifts and preparations had been made for a bountiful supper that was served by Mrs. L. Jockel and Mrs. E. Kennedy. There were present Mesdames Rhoades, Stewart, Eme, Boyle, Olinger, Schlotter, Hausen, Phon, Pappert, Bottorf, Guntler, Gelmar, Keller, Luthan, Curtis, Marsh, Hentzler, Seiler, Degitz, Hardendorf, McLaughlin, Wallbrick, Delegrange, L. Jockel E. Kennedy and Miss McLaughlin.

A happy surprise was bestowed on Mrs. Fred Ludemann, of Columbia avenue, for two reasons, on Friday. One was that it was her birthday anniversary and the other was the fact of the day being the fifth anniversary of her marriage. The guests spent a merry time, enjoyed a bountiful supper at 5 o'clock and enjoyed music, visiting and other pleasure in the evening. Those who took part in this good time were Mesdames W. Gallmeier, C. Kinley, Julia Hollenbacher, H. Smith, O. Simz, C. Nuhrowl, A. Haskall and daughter Lenae, and Mrs. K. Lovin. Mrs. Ludemann was showered with good wishes for many happy returns of both anniversaries.

LATEST FASHION FREAK IS FRIPPERY BORROWED FROM ANTE-BELLUM DAYS.

New York, Sept. 30.—Women are going to wear pantalots! Already they have been seen along Broadway and Fifth avenue, for this frumpy borrowed from Dame Fashion from ante-bellum days is catching on fast. But here's a secret. They're really only imitation pantalots. Simply little lace effects that are fastened to the bottoms of the new dresses or in some cases attached to the stockings between ankle and knee. The craze for fur has reached them, too, for some of the smartest pantalot effects are lacy affairs edged with fur.

league work. After the business matters presented by Mrs. Faure were disposed of, Mrs. Fred McCulloch, chairman of the civic department, took charge of the program. Lee J. Nind gave a live talk on "Women's Clubs and Civic Betterment." Members of the college club, the Y. W. C. A., in whose building the league meetings are held, and the franchise league were hostesses. Music was furnished by Mrs. Eliza Hanna Elliott, soprano; Miss Jeannette Sunshine, pianist, and Mrs. Emil Verweire Williams, accompanist.

The most important changes in league work are the creating of a new department of work, that of music, and the appointment of several new committees, one on finance, one on music, one on membership and a house committee.

Another new plan is to have certain clubs assigned to act as hosts at every league meeting and to provide for entertainment. Assignments were given out at this meeting.

The Woman's league is also to give an entertainment during the season, probably a big ball in place of the charity ball given in recent years for the benefit of Hope hospital, as that organization has announced that it will not manage such social event this winter.

No definite plans are yet formulated concerning the Woman's league form of entertainment, but the object in the dim distance is a club building, therefore all available money will be deposited towards such a fund.

The various departments and committees with their respective chairmen and members are: Civic department, Mrs. Fred McCulloch; art and music departments, Miss LaVon Speery and Mrs. Clark Fairbanks; social hygiene department, Dr. Carrie Banning; home economics department, Mrs. Lee Nind; educational department, Miss Flora Wilber; industrial department, Mrs. W. E. Davis; philanthropic department, Mrs. Mary G. Keel. The various committees are: Finance committee, Mrs. Austin Stults, chairman, and Mrs. Ferd Erbsman, Mrs. B. H. Hudson, Miss Alice Knight and Miss Ruth Evans; house committee, Mrs. J. J. Ritter, chairman, and Mrs. John Moring, Mrs. Carver Wood, Miss Pixley and Miss Cole; music committee, Mrs. Carver Wood, chairman, and Mrs. S. L. Morris, jr., Miss Doud, Miss Hanna, Miss Vail, Miss Helen Jacobs and Miss Mabel Hiser; membership committee, Mrs. E. H. Moeller, Mrs. J. G. Schwartz, Mrs. Clark Fairbank, Miss Wilber.

Scene from "Don't Lie to Your Wife"—Majestic Wednesday.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Wednesday matinee and night, "Don't Lie to Your Wife." Saturday matinee and night, Joseph Stanley in "All Over Town." Coming soon, Walker Whiteside, Scheumann-Heink, Lyman Howe pictures, Frances Starr, "The Only Girl," "Twin Beds."

"DON'T LIE TO YOUR WIFE"

COMING NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Does a wife like her husband to lie to her? Does this same wife overlook a lie when it is backed up with funny complications, during which the husband's love for her is always manifest? Does your wife fancy you going out with chorus girls, perchance she happens to be a suffragette? These are a few of the questions whose solutions supply much of the comedy in Campbell B. Cassid's song farce, entitled "Don't Lie to Your Wife," which will be seen at the Majestic matinee and night, Wednesday.

Amos Doppeldas, a New Yorker, who, like many husbands of today, is under the domination of a wife, who has suffragette weaknesses. Her "vote for women" enthusiasm brings her to Atlantic City, and opportunity for her husband to make a night of it with convivial friends. They meet three chorus girls, are arrested for speeding, and are eventually landed at the husband's flat after many exciting experiences. Later the wife and her friends show up very unexpectedly, while the party is at its height, and the complications, are many, but the man proves equal to the occasion and finally fixes it so that everything turns out admirably "for later happiness."

JOSEPH SANTLEY IN "ALL OVER TOWN" ON SATURDAY.

Joseph Santley, now firmly established as one of the most popular musical comedy stars in America, comes to the Majestic theatre Saturday, October 9th, for matinee and evening performances. In "All Over Town," the latest musical entertainment to engage his varied talents. This piece, described as a "musical fantasy" in the announcements coming from the management, ran throughout the entire summer at the Garrick theatre in Chicago, the nesting place for the most important of the musical attractions, visiting the middle west metropolises.

Emulating the versatile George M. Cohan, Mr. Santley appears in this newest venture in the triple capacity of star, author and producer. The book of "All Over Town" is his own composition. He is said to have blended romance and fantasy in equal proportions in the writing of it. The story which threads its way through the eight diversified scenes is presumed to be the warp and woof of a dream which a blase young man has when he falls asleep in a box during the performance of Gounod's "Faust." Mr. Santley appears as the figure which this young man dreams himself to be. At first he is shown for a few brief moments as an old man who makes a compact with a devil and who is restored to his youth upon certain conditions. These conditions furnish much of the fun of the piece, inasmuch as they concern the requirement that the central figure shall make ardent love to and compromise the extremely unattractive mortal wife of the visitor from below.

It may be said in passing that there are more youthful charmers who attract the youthful star; that he is provided with abundant opportunities for the display of the graceful dancing and pleasant singing which have won him much of his present distinction; that the humorous personification of evil is played by the numerous company includes Miss Beatrice Allen, Miss Ruth Randall, Miss Sylvia Jason, Miss Jane Mac-

Arthur, Miss Lillian Lee, Frederick Sootley, Johnny Boyle, Saranoff, Arthur Hohl and Miss Marie Callahan. The new season's young ladies always associated with the pieces in which Mr. Santley appears will provide a pleasant background for the proceedings which transpire in the eight scenes.

AT THE TEMPLE.

A WHIRLWIND COMEDY.

"The Third Party" is the Whooping Laugh for Next Week at Temple.

Each successive farce comedy in which the Temple Theater Players are seen establishes itself as funnier than its predecessor. This was true with "Hello Bill," "The Girl in the Taxi" and is true according to the members of the company in even greater measure with the whirl wind of laughs, "The Third Party," in which the Temple Players will open a week's run Monday night. Frank Gallagher, a new member of the company will make his debut in this farce in one of the principal roles. Mr. Gallagher formerly was leading man for the Robert Sherman stock company and has been associated with other big stock organizations for several seasons, having been drafted into the work from the legitimate stage.

"The Third Party" is a fanciful farce built around the fact that in a certain London restaurant, frequented by the frivolous, it is a rule that couples shall be chaperoned by a male companion furnished by the restaurant. Mr. Cazaza is the official chaperon of the Royal restaurant, but his place is taken one night by a member of parliament rejoicing in the name Pottinger brings a pretty dancer to the place. Mrs. Pottinger turns up of course, and the pseudo chaperon proves his worth by adopting the dancer as his wife. The party then adjourns to the Pottinger country estate where the fiancée of the fake chaperon appears and the sweet heart of the actress shows up. It is the biggest bundle of absurd situations ever gathered together in one evening's entertainment.

The company is now presenting "Elevating a Husband." This clever comedy drama has registered most emphatically with Fort Wayne amusement lovers, who have enjoyed it, for the action is rapid, the moral an obvious one and the comedy rich.

MANY APPLICANTS.

Fifty-six took the civil service examination Saturday, conducted in the federal court room of the postoffice building to fill vacancies in the carrier and clerk forces at the Fort Wayne postoffice.

sorts of things that Miss Gordon does just a bit better than she does anything else. As a matter of fact it was written expressly for her, as was her original sketch, "Tips on Tap," also from the pen of Mr. Woolf. Miss Gordon is considerably more than a mere beauty. She is an actress of splendid ability, as is evidenced by the fact that for several seasons she played the leading feminine roles for Otis Skinner.

The Alexander Kids are to be with us again. These clever children, whose natural talents have been developed to the extreme, are universal favorites in Fort Wayne, and this year they are en tour with a brand new assemblage of songs, dances and costume changes. Garnished with comedy trimmings, including a bit of straight fun, burlesque and a few minutes at the piano, Santley and Norton will present their singing specialty on this coming bill. The Gladiators, it is not given to know their real names, are a team of men of superhuman strength and grace, whose performances compels admiration, both because of their superb muscular development and because of their splendid agility. Sleight of hand, bright patter, good music and some clever balancing and juggling combine to make the offering of J. Warren Keane and Grace White a treat. Prevost and Brown will devote several minutes to artistic foolishness and the Meykara Sisters will do a clever novelty.

The current program includes Julia Blane and company in the sketch of the south, "Mammy Lou." Mlle Vera Salina and Cleveland Browner in a beautiful dancing act; Ed Correll and Charles

AT THE PRESS

Comes to the Empress Next Week in "The Champagne Girls."

Patrons of burlesque will be provided with a most attractive offering at the Empress theater next week when a competent cast will present, "The Champagne Girls." This is a new production with Bert Saunders and Lew Golden, two of the best known stars of the burlesque stage as head liner comedians. These two men have headed their own separate shows for years and to have both of them in one production assures theater goers that the offering will be worth while seeing. There will be the usual big chorus and the fun will fly fast and thick. As an added attraction, Lois Daere, a lady with an engaging personality and a beautiful wardrobe will come to the Empress to give her selection of songs written especially for the burlesque stage. She is not only talented musically but goes through her work with a vim and interest that is very apparent and secures results.

Other stars with this company who are given a liberal hand whenever they appear include Al Warren, George Leon, Edith Graham, Ethel Hall and Gussie White.

This week's bill will come to an end tonight with the closing performance of the offering, "The Hurdy Gurdy Girls."

which has scored a tremendous hit. Billy Gross and Robby Vail have won a crown for themselves in Fort Wayne as comedians of the best class.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

Marguerite Fisher will be seen at the Jefferson today in the Mutual Master Picture "Infatuation," a stirring photoplay depicting the struggles endured by a woman for the man she loved. Miss Fisher as Phyllis Ladd is the pampered, but beautiful daughter of Robert Ladd, multimillionaire railroad man, who, since the death of her mother, has been the idol of her father. Phyllis, for months, has sought the ideal man of her dreams, but Carthage, the city in which she resides, has no man, so far as Phyllis could find, who measured up to her ideals.

The social season at Washington was at its height when Phyllis received an invitation to visit her aunt, Mrs. Fenham, who occupied an enviable position in capital society. Social duties and the attentions showered on her by the titled fortune hunters and others piled on Phyllis in time, and, immediately after receiving a proposal from Carthage to forget him and incidentally to continue the search for her ideal.

Attending a matinee one afternoon, Phyllis met the man of her dreams in Cyril Adair, the leading man of the stock company. The following day she invited him to the Ladd home for tea. There she confessed her love for him. To tell more might spoil a perfectly good story, and the remainder should be seen in film action.

Neal of the Navy episode 4 and a comedy reel winds up today's bill.

Beautiful Eleanor Gordon, whose return to the vaudeville stage has been heralded as one of the most brilliant coups of the astute gentlemen who raid every line of amusement endeavor to secure talent for Keith shows, is one of the group of famous stars on the coming bill at the New Palace. Miss Gordon's present vehicle is another Edgar Allan Woolf sketch, entitled, "The Discovery." It is a comedy of mystery, one of the

BEATRICE ALLEN

RUTH RANDALL

INVENTOR OF NEW WIRELESS RECEIVES
THREAT OF DEATH.

R. J. McLean (left) and D. W. Lapp.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 2.—Randolph James McLean, electrical engineer, and his business partner, Dorsey W. Lapp, of this city, have secured a contract whereby the British war department has agreed to purchase outright a wireless telegraph invented by McLean, for $3,250,000.

A final demonstration was arranged for before a board of British army engineers at Montreal. As evidence of the good faith of the purchasing government, it has placed itself under $500,000 bond to close the deal at once if the inventor is able to prove his claims. The bond now reposes in a Seattle bank.

Although McLean and Lapp have kept their transactions with Great Britain closely guarded, they received a threatening letter last month, informing them that unless they ceased their negotiations McLean's invention would never be tested.

The letter, signed by "A Friend, and Yet an Enemy," threatened them both with death.

They are under agreement not to disclose the nature of the invention until it is either finally accepted or rejected. It is said, however, that the apparatus is not only an improvement on the present Marconi system, but entirely different in many respects.

They assert they believe it will greatly add to the advantages of the allies over the German armies, and possibly may be the means of shortening the war many months.

McLean tried his apparatus in Canada five years ago, at the home of his parents in Woodstock, N. B., and found it capable, he says, of doing everything he had hoped.

A somewhat indifferent financier, he made no effort to dispose of the invention until he met Lapp here a few months ago. Lapp furnished money for a model and succeeded in interesting the British war office.

The contract was signed July 18 by British representatives here, and arrangements were made whereby the model was sent to the war office at London.

Apparently war authorities there were well satisfied, as they at once opened negotiations for a demonstration by the inventor.

The whole apparatus, it is said, can be carried by two men, can be set up and taken down with little effort and in a short time, a fact which makes it particularly desirable in army field work. McLean is 29 years old, and Lapp is 22.

Dr. J. W. Thompson has moved to Gaunt Bldg.

JOHNSON, PINCHOT OR
MURDOCK MOST LIKELY

Progressives Are Certain to
Have Man in Race for President.

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, Oct. 2.—At a meeting of 33 of the more prominent progressive party leaders from the middle west and east, at the Manhattan hotel, in New York, where Victor Murdock, national chairman of the party, was the principal speaker, it was decided that the progressive party should go on organizing and prepare to name a presidential candidate. This points to Hiram Johnson or Gifford Pinchot, or possibly Victor Murdock, as the progressive nominee.

Murdock takes the ground that the nomination of a man like John W. Weeks by the republican party would offer the progressives a chance of a lifetime, and that apparently the republicans are likely to nominate Weeks or some candidate equally lacking in popular appeal.

Owing to strong northeast winds the cotton boll weevil has spread into several new states and counties not previously infested. The pest has travelled over 100 miles. Georgia now has the weevil. Eight counties in Florida have been added to those already weevil-plagued, and twenty additional counties in Alabama have been invaded. All this happened between the 15th and 31st of August. The insect which is the early stage of this cotton pest, rising into the air, was carried on the high winds much greater distances than it usually is able to fly. There has been a revival also, the agricultural department regrets to announce, of the weevil in Texas, where it was supposed to have died out. The experts recommend that the farmers vary their crops, growing less cotton and more of other crops.

Why the Turks massacre the Armenians is explained in an interesting letter written to a friend privately by one of the consuls in Asiatic Turkey. He tells of going into the public square of the city where he is located and which was one of the scenes of massacre and hearing a Turkish extorior of the Moslem faith addressing a crowd of Moslem Kurds. He was telling them in their native dialect that during his visit to Constantinople, Hadji William (Emperor William of Germany) had become converted to the faith of the prophet and on his return to Germany had proselytized his entire people. The Germans had become Moslems and in doing so had incurred the enmity of all Christians. The ferocity of the Christians in their attacks on the holy Germans was then illustrated to the crowd by the extorior, who exhibited photographs of cathedrals destroyed by German artillery fire. The effect on the audience was marked, and the prejudice to the Christians found its vent in the massacre of Armenians, who are the Christian neighbors of the Moslems.

Democratic politics has been enlivened by the fact that James Hamilton Lewis, U. S. senator from Illinois, has started a boom for himself for the vice presidential nomination. At the white house there is said to be a flavor of annoyance mingling with the amusement, but the administration has nothing to say on the subject for publication.

The government public health service has taken note of the fact that flies carried in Pullman cars in interstate commerce are a menace to health as well as the comfort of passengers. As a result of the bureau's educational campaign in many sections of the country, now a fly swatter is a part of the regular Pullman equipment.

The bureau will welcome co-operation of the public, as well as the railroad managers, in eliminating flies from the railroad cars, and anyone noting the presence of flies in dining cars or sleepers is invited to write to the surgeon general of the public health service, treasury department, Washington, D. C., giving specifically the time and place, the number or name of the car, the railroad and all particulars.

Louis D. Brandeis, who was chiefly responsible for the creation of the federal trade commission, is not at all pleased with what the commissioners are doing; to wit: junketing about the country eating dinners furnished by chambers of commerce and listening to the gab of large corporation gentlemen who wish to evade the provisions of the Sherman law. Brandeis hopes that the presence of George Rublee and the fact that Raymond B. Stevens is counsel for the commission, will eventually lead to some different and more useful forms of activity.

BURT NEW FILES DEMURRER.

Answers Complaint Against Commission's Ruling in Logansport Case.

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 2.—Burt New, legal adviser for the Indiana public service commission, has filed in the Cass circuit court a demurrer to the complaint of M. Winfield, recently filed here against the commission in regard to its action in raising the rates of the Logansport Home Telephone company. The demurrer alleges the complaint is insufficient for the reasons that it does not appear that the plaintiff has any right or authority to maintain the action; that no facts are averred tending to show that the provisions of the act creating a public service commission are in any way in contravention of the constitution of the state of Indiana or the United States; that it does not show that the order of the commission was in violation of the Act of 1913; that it does not show that the order is unlawful, or has not the right or authority to change or fix the rates.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional treatment. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; unless cases of deafness can be cured by constitutional treatment. We will give you $100.00 for any case of deafness (caused by return) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

THIS MAMMOTH LIVED BEFORE ADAM.

The La Brea Imperial Mammoth, as it stands in the Los Angeles Museum of Natural History. Alongside, to show its size, stands the tallest traffic officer.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 2.—Imagine a creature standing 15 feet high, measuring 30 feet in length and weighing eight tons, challenging a pigmy traffic-crossing officer to the right of way on a crowded city thoroughfare.

The advent of a "blue" moon could scarcely have caused more excitement than the recent appearance on the busy streets here of the mammoth here pictured.

This elephant roamed the region now called Los Angeles about 200,000 years ago! It is the largest specimen of an elephant known to exist in the world. The mearthing and reconstruction of it is a unique event in the study of prehistoric animals.

The bones were found in the famous La Brea pits, located about seven miles from Los Angeles.

One tooth of this imperial mammoth weighs 20 pounds. Its tusks are 11-12 feet long. Its measurement from the tip of the tusk to the pelvic bone is 25 feet. The tail length gives it 30 feet.

It lived from 150,000 to 200,000 years ago and belongs to the Pleistocene period.

BUSINESS IMPROVES SAYS MONTHLY LETTER

Still Few Dull Sports, But
They Are Growing
Smaller.

General domestic business is improving steadily and surely and the improvement is being felt pretty well over the country, declares the regular monthly letter on business conditions just issued by the Old National bank. The letter says there are dull spots but that these dull spots are growing smaller.

"Taking the known unfilled orders in all lines as a basis, it is safe to conclude that business will continue its steady improvement through the remaining weeks of the year, at least," the letter predicts.

The following reference is made to dye stuffs in which Fort Wayne is particularly interested: "We are rapidly devising means for supplying ourselves with those articles which we have been accustomed to import and the importation of which has been shut off because of the war. In dye stuffs, fertilizers and the various chemicals the latest government reports show that we will soon be able to take care of ourselves and have these articles established on a manufacturing basis which will enable us to compete with the world after the close of the war."

How to Heal Skin-Diseases

A Baltimore doctor suggests this simple, but reliable and inexpensive home treatment for people suffering with eczema, ring worm, rashes and similar itching, burning skin troubles.

At any reliable druggist's get a jar of Resinol ointment and a cake of Resinol soap. These are not at all expensive. With the Resinol soap and warm water bathe the affected parts thoroughly, until they are free from crusts and the skin is softened. Dry very gently, spread on a thin layer of the Resinol ointment, and cover with a light bandage—if necessary to protect the clothing. This should be done twice a day. Usually the distressing itching and burning stop with the first treatment, and the skin soon becomes clear and healthy again. Sample free. Dept. S-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

WOMEN! HERE IS A MONEY SAVER

Use Gasoline to Dry Clean
Family's Clothes and
Save $5.

Dry cleaning at home is just as simple as laundering. Any woman can clean five dollars' worth in fifteen minutes at little cost by getting from the drug store two ounces of solvite and put this in two gallons of gasoline, where it quickly dissolves. Then immerse articles to be cleaned; rub a little and in a few moments the gasoline evaporates and the articles look bright and fresh as new.

You can dry clean silk waists, dresses, coats, ribbons, kid gloves, satin shoes, evening slippers, shawls, bolos, yokes, furs, coats, suits, neckties, lawns, daintily and chiffon dresses, draperies, fine lace, lace curtains, woolen garments, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined by soap and water as dry cleaning doesn't fade, shrink or wrinkle, making pressing unnecessary.

Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline and you can obtain two ounces of solvite at the drug store, which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a washboard or large dishpan completes your dry cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

Anny Ballard, a colored lady of Paulding, is often seen on the streets of that village carrying a gay little market basket in which reposes a very important document, a relic of a bygone barbaric time, this document being a bill of sale from her former owner in slavery to her husband, Preston Ballard, who was freed before the war by his owner, a widow Howard, who set all her slaves free and helped them reach Ohio. After purchasing the freedom of his wife, in 1865, Preston Ballard brought her with him to Paulding county and settled in Washington township, where they prospered until 1902, when they disposed of their farm and became residents of Paulding.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lucas, among our prosperous north of the river folks, were visitors at Fort Wayne Friday at which place they spent the day with friends. Benjamin Moore, an old-time citizen of Paulding, died very suddenly one day this week. While sitting in a restaurant talking to a group of his associates in an enjoyable manner he arose to go and had taken but a step or two when he fell to the floor. Doctors were summoned, but on their arrival they found life extinct.

Good Citizenship is Being Taught by Means of School Gardens in Ft. Wayne

In these days of office efficiency, wheels of journalism, and intensive farming, there has been one institution of good citizenship that has been allowed to fall by the wayside. The whispering of sweet sentiments across a thousand miles of air waves, the rise to glory of Francis X. Bushman, the introduction of open field work in football, and the substitution of the modern term "jitter" for the lowly outworn and dilapidated "nickel"—all these may be forward leaps in the evolution of the human race—but.

That "but" means a lot of things. It means that some of the old standards, the gauges by which the men and women of several decades ago were judged, have been allowed to pass within the coming of the newer standards.

Early Proofs of Standing.
There was a time before man became elevated in politics, new thought and electricity, when there were certain absolute and indisputable proofs of his standing among his fellowmen, both within and without his house. The number of geraniums in his windows, freedom from dust on the shelf on the corner what-not, the framed copy of his honorable discharge from the army of the union, all these were tokens of citizenship within the house that were prized and cherished by the owner.

And then, any family of true distinction owned a hair wreath. You remember it, don't you, hung in the darkened parlor, the cherished and gossamer handiwork of some maiden aunt long departed. It usually hung between a moping "Evangeline" and "Mother's Darling" who bestowed an unending smile on the horse hair sofa across the way.

But these certificates of good standing in the community were only to be looked upon by guests within one's portals. The badge that proclaimed him loudly to every passerby was his back garden. And wasn't that little old back garden a card of admittance to select circles or an affidavit signed and sworn to by the neighbors condemning him to the uttermost regions of scorn? There was no half way mark in a man's garden—or rather a woman's garden, for man usually took care of it. Either it stamped its owner as a good citizen or a bad fellow among fellows, it left no half way course.

Has Also Passed.
But, like the hair wreath and the go-ranium, the back garden has passed. In the colleges they have courses in scientific farming and the county is blessed with an agricultural agent. The railroads issue pamphlets on corn land, and the government advises fertilizing agencies that are spread on by the acre. But what's become of the man who bored all his fellow townsmen to extinction when he stood in front of the post office with a yard stick each evening and marked the height of his tomato plants on the door? The scientific farmer who wears a garb may have evolved from something or other, but the backyard gardener seems to be lost beyond recall.

The School Garden.
In Fort Wayne there is a movement afoot to bring back the backyard garden. In the public schools the children of the city are taught to raise flowers and vegetables without the aid of the department of agriculture or the harvest trust. They are gardening in the old way, and what's more, they are enjoying it. Turnips and beets and carrots, and cabbage and tomatoes and cucumbers are there in profusion, while snapdragons and English daisies and a score of the other flowers of the old fashioned gardens are grouped in trim little beds around the edges.

The accompanying photographs were made one day not long ago at the Lakeside school garden. The garden is a square tract of some sixty feet, and is fenced with wire netting. It is located directly behind the school and beside the little temporary building used as a primary annex.

The children planted the seeds themselves last spring, and have been watching their "garden truck" grow ever since. Before school was over there was lettuce galore in the garden, and the other early vegetables were up and pickable.

Miss Braddock in Charge.
Miss Rhoda Braddock has been appointed official school gardener, and has charge of the work in all the public schools. At the Lakeside school the earth has a great deal of sand in its composition, and while the other gardens throughout the city were clay marshes during the wet summer, the Lakeside garden drained well and was in the best possible condition.

This fall when they returned to school the youngsters found their cat-patches in the garden much more interesting than when they left, and they began work on them with renewed enthusiasm and vim. As the result no weed dare lift its head and the fellow who steps into a flower bed does so at the risk of his life.

In the photographs the youngsters are seen at work in their vegetable patches. In the upper left-hand photograph a class of the Lakeside boys and girls are going to it with shovel, rake and hoe, while the center picture with a ragged edge is a basket of fruit and flowers planted and raised by hand by the Lakesiders. In the upper right corner Miss Braddock and one of her young garden pupils are lugging a basket of freshly picked, cut and pulled garden truck in from the center of operations.

In the lower left hand corner two of the best girl gardeners in the city are playing shovel and hoe in a carrot patch, and Miss Braddock and a group of her best young gardeners illuminate the lower right hand corner.

Proven a Success.
The school gardens were put in Fort Wayne as an experiment. They have proven themselves a success. They have brought back that love of gardening that was nearly gone in most Americans and they have brought it to the hearts of youngsters.

Will the garden again become an agency of good citizenship? Will it again be a barometer of the standing of men in the community? Will these child gardeners hold throughout their lives the interest in gardening that is born in them, but that for a generation has been allowed to die out all over the nation?

Here's hoping. For the garden—the old fashioned garden without a pergola and a garage, would be welcomed back as an institution in the American community.

There are few of the old ones left, and they are dying with the men and women who perpetuate them. So with a new generation of gardeners one may hope for the return of the old garden in its fine old state.

The Real Reason.
But the primal reason for school gardening is to promote good citizenship. It may be a far cry from turnips to civic spirit, but never-the-less, the two are linked inseparably.

Does the garden produce good citizens, you ask, and why. Think it over, that old fashioned garden. Think of the hollyhock along the back fence and the high headed sun-flowers grown thick beside the fence that acts as a scolding line between you and the neighbor who has chickens or cats or children or whatever your pet subject for explosive outbursts may be. Think of the daisies by the pump and the bachelor's buttons down in the corner where the wheelbarrow is tipped against the woodshed.

And think of the masses of carrots that are enjoyed by everyone but Aunt Maggie, who retires to the seclusion of the attic when they are mentioned. And

CAN SEND SEVEN
LEFTHAND HITTERS INBrown Holmes Sees Great Slugging Bee in World Series.

(By Brown Holmes, Special Sport Writer who spent several weeks with the world series contenders of the American and National leagues to get the "inside" dope).

One of the things that gives the Boston Red Sox an edge on the Philadelphia Nationals in world series play is that the Phils will have to depend on right-hand pitching and the Red Sox can put a great left-handed ball club on the field.

The best way to combat right-hand pitching is to send left-hand batters against it. The Phils have two south-paws, Rixey and Baumgartner, but neither is worthy of world series work, so it will be up to Alexander, Mayer, Demaree, Chalmers and McQuillen, the right-handers.

Against these normal chuckers the Red Sox have seven left-hand batters, making the team unusually well fitted for attack without weakening the club in any sense for defensive play.

Dick Hoblitzel and Larry Gardner, of the infield, hit left-handed, and Manager Carrigan could use a left-handed batter, sending Joe Thomas behind the bat and either Leonard, Ruth or Collins to the box. Leonard and Ruth, by the way, are two of the best hitting pitchers on the circuit.

The ability of the Sox to go into a game with seven of their nine players hitting from the left-hand side of the plate means for Grover Alexander, the main box hope of the Phils, the greatest test of his career.

There has not been a time this season when Alexander has had to face seven left-handers in one lineup and it is not often seven left-handers can be massed together with as much hitting power as Hooper, Speaker, Henriksen, Hobbs, Gardner, Thomas and Leonard or Ruth give the Sox.

This arrangement would not weaken the defensive play of the Sox because six of the off-side hitters have been doing big work for the Sox all season. This regular work in this shift would bring only extra man in Henriksen, and the Sox would not suffer there for the little Swade is a corking good fielder.

Henriksen is not in the game every day as a regular because he is a valuable man to have on the bench, where he can be put into the game when needed most. His biggest duty this season has been as a pinch hitter.

Even the great Alexander would start at a handicap against such an array of left-hand batters. The other Philly right-handers are not nearly so good as Grover, so their task would be even greater.

When the Braves got into the world series last season Manager Stallings was able to shift his club against left and right-hand pitching, using a different set of outfielders against the different brands of hurling, but even he was unable to get seven left-hand batters into the game. He had three right-hand batters on the infield, Evers, Maranville and Deal, and with Gowdy and Whaling hitting right-handed, he was without a catcher batting left-handed.

Five left-hand batters was the most Stallings could send into a fray. Manager Carrigan, of the Red Sox, can go two better. John McGraw used to shift his players, too, against the different kinds of pitching, but he was never able to send seven left-hand batters into a world series game.

The Red Sox, then, have something no other club ever had in a world series, an array of left-hand hitters who would give any right-hand pitcher trouble.

HOW THE RED SOX EXPECT TO WIN WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

(By Brown Holmes).

The Boston Red Sox use a system of helping their base runners that is one of the finest bits of inside baseball ever pulled.

The play is one that has helped the Sox lead the American league nearly all season and one they will use in their efforts to tuck away the world series.

When a Sox runner is on first base and a steal is planned, the batter stands as far back as possible in the batter's box. That forces the opposing catcher back away from the plate and lengthens the distance the ball has to travel from the catcher to second base.

The batter's box is six feet in length, and it is three feet from the center of the plate to the back end of the box. The batter then, by standing away back forces the catcher to throw three feet farther than if the batter stood even with the middle of the plate.

Three feet does not sound like a great deal, but it means ball games in these days of split-second baseball.

There are more close plays at second base than any other base except first, and in many the runner or baseman gets the umpire's decision by a fraction of a second. In these fractional second plays the decision goes to the runner under the Red Sox system.

Dick Hoblitzel, Sox first baseman, is especially good at driving catchers back from the plate as he has trained himself to hit from that position. Hobbs takes a big swing and holds his bat at arm's length. Opposing catchers make sure to get back beyond the reach of his war club. Hobbs is in a good place to make this inside play count as he bats after Tris Speaker and Speaker, one of the best of hitters, is on the bases a lot.

WHAT WON'T FOLKS
DO FOR PUBLICITY

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Directing the play of his team by telephone was the innovation tried out today by Coach Fred J. Murphy, of Northwestern university. Lake Forest college was Northwestern's opponent in the first game of the football season. Murphy, barred from the coaching lines by new western conference rules, instructed by telephone on the top of a grandstand and with a pair of field glasses planned to direct the operation of his players on the field below. The telephone was connected with the Northwestern bench on the side lines where Assistant Coach McDevitt was to receive orders and make changes in the lineup as directed. "From the stands I can look down on the players and discover a lot of things which I could not see on the ground," Murphy said.

Mrs. Dario Resta Driving Her Own Car.

to be the wife of a man who earns his living by driving a monster of a racing car at a speed of 100 miles an hour in automobile races, and who may lose his life any minute—how would you like that for a domestic life?

That's the of fear that Mrs. Dario Resta, wife of the famous Italian driver who has won fame in this country, must suffer.

Mrs. Resta's own brother, young Spencer Wilk, was killed in a race at Elgin, Ill., two years ago. Yet a few months later the sister eloped with Dario Resta.

"I just pray that fate will be kind to Dario," she says, "and, of course, I can do nothing but trust in it."

NIX ON ALL THIS
"ONE MAN TEAM" STUFF

(Jack Murphy).

Sporting writers the country over pick Boston to win the world series. Their contention is that Philadelphia is represented by one player, namely Alexander, and that there is a whole team full of them there things working out of the burg of beans.

But has it been Alexander alone who pulled the Phil crew to the top of the National heap? Hasn't it been some heady management to say nothing of a lot of steady, although not sensational play, throughout all nine of the positions? It wasn't Alexander alone and unaided who put the Phils into the world series, and it will not be him alone who will give the Sox a healthy fight for the series.

But whether the Sox are easy winners or not, they are not going in to beat one man but a pretty good team, with one sensation and a gang of steady pluggers.

JIMMY WAS MORE IMPORTANT THAN MERE GOVERNOR.

When Jimmy Clabby was arriving in San Francisco on his way to Australia the last time, "Diamond Jim" Farness went to the ferry building to meet him. Farness, on his arrival at the ferry, found the main entrance cut off by a cordon of police, who refused to let him pass.

"What's the matter, sergeant?" Farness asked the officer in charge. "Why can't I get through?"

"Because," said the sergeant, "the governor of Pennsylvania is on this boat. We can't let anybody through until he's met the reception committee."

"But," protested Farness, "Jimmy Clabby is on the boat, too. I've come to meet him."

"Oh," said the sergeant in surprise. "Why didn't you say so? Clear the track there and let Mr. Farness through—Jimmy Clabby's coming!"

Every team in the "big nine" with the exception of the University of Chicago had a game scheduled. Chicago will start its season a week later, meeting Northwestern. The games were preliminary to the real opening of the western inter-collegiate next Saturday, when "big nine" teams will oppose each other in first games bearing on the championship. Football games in the west today were Lake Forest vs. Northwestern at Evanston; Simpson vs. Ames at Ames; DePaul vs. Indiana at Hammond; Alma vs. Notre Dame at South Bend; Grinnell college vs. Iowa at Iowa City; Drake vs. Nebraska at Lincoln; Wesleyan vs. Ohio state at Columbus; Washburn vs. Purdue at Lafayette; Haskell Indians vs. Illinois at Urbana; South Dakota vs. Minnesota at Minneapolis; Lawrence vs. Wisconsin at Madison.

Captain Miles, of the navy football team, has started the season with a smile. Whether the smile will last through the big game with army remains to be seen.

Miles won the captaincy of Uncle Sam's navy academy team through his great work in the backfield last season. He got a good start as a leader by calling out the middle candidates several weeks earlier than usual.

GREATEST WAR HAME

Fourteen Big U. S. Fighting Ships Groom for Coming Maneuvres.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 2.—Fourteen of the United States' greatest fighting ships are today at anchor in Hampton Roads, coaling and provisioning preparatory to participation in the greatest war game ever attempted by the navy. Among the ships are the New Orleans, New Hampshire, Louisiana, New Jersey, Rhode Island, New York, Texas, Utah, Florida, Michigan, South Carolina and Celtic. The battleship Wyoming and two colliers are up Chesapeake Bay engaged in experimental practice. The Wyoming is trying her big guns off Tangiers sound. The war game will begin at midnight, October 5 and will continue fifteen days. The fleet now in the Roads is expected to sail Sunday or Monday.

Each ship will sail under sealed orders, the same as in time of actual warfare.

The fleet will be divided into two parts. One will be known as the invaders and the other as the defenders. The invaders will attempt to elude the defenders so as to gain entrance into an attacking point.

The battleship Wyoming will be flagship of the invading forces.

CLERK RUN DOWN ON STREET.

Emmett O'Neal, of 1326 West Washington street, suffered a fractured leg when he was run down while riding his bicycle by an automobile on Baker street last Thursday. He also sustained some other injuries. Mr. O'Neal is a clerk in the Pennsylvania freight office.

FURIOUS SPEED IN NEW DASH OF ALLIES

Paris, Oct. 2.—From the accounts given by wounded soldiers and others who have returned from the front the story of the French charge which marked the critical point in the new offensive movement is being gradually pieced together. One point on which there is a general agreement is the great speed with which the movement was executed. A colonial infantryman who was wounded in the fighting between Souain and Snippes, in the Champagne, says: "Our captain said to us at the moment of the charge: 'You'll have to run hard, for we are in the first wave of men; and we did run. When we came to the first trench we leaped over it with a stab at the occupants. You could hear nothing but the hoarse breathing of your neighbors and the roar of the guns. Bullets whistled about everybody's ears from one side, evidently from machine guns.

"Our captain shouted: 'Stop at that redoubt.' We were just in time. Three machine guns were pumping away at us and several others were being brought out of a tunnel. We bayoneted them back and front.

"You've got to be quick in a charge like that. A second lost means death."

Lieut. C. — of the colonial infantry, who was wounded in the Artois district, protests at stories that Germans surrendered without resisting.

"It is only at the last moment, when they realize that their fire cannot stop us, that they ground their arms and throw up their hands," the lieutenant said. "Even then most of them don't give in, but fight on with trench knives and revolvers.

"It was in one of these encounters that I was wounded. I was fighting with two Germans. I killed one of them who had sliced off my arm with his knife. A sergeant behind me killed the other."

STORM HORROR GROWS WORSE

Dead, Reported Dead and Missing Now Reach a
Total of 549.

WHILE LOSS GOES
TO $12,000,000

Destruction in Southland is Complete at Many Points.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 2.—A number of known dead, reported dead, persons missing in Louisiana and Mississippi as a result of Wednesday's tropical storm was put at 549 in a total compiled here today from reports that came in from many points on the Gulf coast and in the interior. Property damage was estimated at $12,000,000.

It was considered certain early today that the total dead in the storm would number at least 350. The known death list already stands at 181, with 208 reported dead. In addition there are 117 known missing.

While undoubtedly there has been some duplication in tabulation of reports of bodies found, it was said there were indications that the dead would not be fewer than 350.

Destruction Complete.

Property damage throughout the storm swept territory has been enormous and in many places the destruction complete. Relief parties returning today from the Delta section said that the rich plantations in that section had been wiped out, crops ruined, orange trees destroyed, buildings demolished and washed out to sea and that the country for miles was under water four to fifteen feet deep. The levees in many places have been destroyed, adding new menace to the inhabitants and rendering more difficult the work of rehabilitation. River pilots expressed the opinion that it would be impossible to construct the levees in many places.

Still Marooned on Roofs.

Many people today still were reported marooned on the tops of undamaged levees, where they took refuge when the full fury of the storm broke.

While no official estimate has been obtainable of the storm damage in this state and along the Mississippi coast persons familiar with the territory believe it will approach $12,000,000. This estimate is considered conservative.

Relief work is progressing rapidly, due in great part to the great recovery made here in large cities from the effects of the hurricane. Vessels left yesterday from practically every point along the coast to visit isolated villages, settlements and companies which were in the path of the hurricane.

TOLEDO TIME HIT
BY $30,000 FIRE

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 2.—Fire early today damaged the Toledo Times building and contents to the extent of $30,000. The fire originated in the engraving plant on the third floor and spread to the linotype and stereotype rooms on the fourth floor.

The roof collapsed and ruined much of the machinery in these departments. The business office on the main floor and basement and press room were flooded. The Times will be printed in another newspaper office for the present.

MRS. VAYHINGER IS
W. C. T. U. PRESIDENT

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 2.—The Indiana Women's Christian Temperance Union elected officers here yesterday. Mrs. Culla J. Vayhinger, of Upland, was named as president. Evansville extended an invitation to the women to hold next year's convention in that city. The meeting place will be decided at the mid-winter gathering. Other officers elected were: Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley, Liberty, vice-president; Miss Mary E. Woodward, Fountain City, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Rose Pearce, Sharpville, recording secretary; Miss Clara Sears, Indianapolis, treasurer; Miss Christine Tichel, Evansville, Y. P. R. secretary; Mrs. Ida Mix, Kokomo, L. T. L. secretary.

Trustees chosen for three years are: Mrs. Vayhinger, state president; Mrs. Elizabeth Stanley, Liberty; and Miss Mary Woodward, Fountain City.

CREDIT LOAN LISTS
WILL SOON BE CLOSED

Underwriters See Subscription Complete in a Few Days.

New York, Oct. 2.—Underwriters of the $500,000,000 Anglo-French bond issue, soon to be offered the public, were of the opinion today that the entire amount would be subscribed to within a few days. The lists will be closed in all probability early next week, possibly Monday. The sixty banks, trust companies and financial institutions which comprise the underwriting syndicate in New York city were cheered by the support given them from Jewish clients, a source from which they had not expected subscriptions to such an extent as have been realized during the three days that have elapsed since the details of the underwriting were published. The definite announcement by members of the Anglo-French commission that Russia would not be a participant in the funds derived is believed to have entered to a large extent in the decision of Jews to subscribe. Figures to the total subscribed placed the sum at $305,000,000 as of Thursday night. The remaining $195,000,000, it was thought, would be obtained without great difficulty. Many western cities and towns are yet to be heard from and in those already heard from it was said support had been stronger than at first anticipated. It is the plan of the underwriters, it is understood, to give all comers an opportunity to share in the participation. In the possible event of an oversubscription it was said the applicants for relatively small allotments would be considered first. Payments on the bonds will be made in three installments, 25 per cent each on Oct. 15 and Nov. 15 and the remaining 50 per cent on Dec. 15.

TOURIST PENITENT AND MUCH SUBDUED

Man Who Drove the Three Strike Busters from Car is Given Fine.

Tom Mitchell, one-legged hobo, who made a truncheon of his stout cane and drove a crew of three strike breakers from their street car at the end of the Broadway line Friday morning, was arraigned in the city court Saturday morning on a plain charge of drunkenness, to which he pleaded guilty. Warrior Mitchell was penitent and much subdued as he appeared in court. He had nothing to say and seemed to be nursing his head and his feelings with much tenderness. He looked the relief he felt when he was let off with a fine of $1 and costs and later acknowledged the leniency shown him. He has taken on the heavy contract of keeping sober until after he has cleared the city limits when his eleven-day term in jail expires.

Jitney Driver Fined for Assault.

The case of Frank E. Odden, a jitney driver residing at 116 Hoffman street, and charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Ethel Fisher, wife of Lloyd Fisher, 1414 Winter street, was submitted to Judge Kerr in the city court Saturday morning without further testimony, and Odden was fined $10 and costs, which he paid. Mrs. Fisher testified that she was brought home from Chubbuck by Odden the night of September 4 and that he took her against her will out to the Four Mile house, on the Lincoln highway, east of the city, made insulting proposals and laid hands on her. She had discussed with Odden some personal matters of a very private nature. Odden denied he had touched the woman in any manner that could be construed as an assault, but the court decided that he was technically guilty and imposed a fine.

The Jones Boys They Come to Town.

Frank and William Jones, young men who are related as cousins and reside several miles south of the city, were arraigned on drunk charges, were proved guilty and fined $1 and costs. The two were arrested by Chief of Police Lanz on Columbia street, after he had seen them a few minutes earlier drive past headquarters trying to chase their mug loose from its tail. One of them had traded horses in the city and was trying the mettle and speed of his new steed. Both declared they had never before been drunk and they were let off easy. Their fines were paid.

Other City Court Cases.

Tom Shaffer, an old-timer, who made his first reappearance for many months Saturday morning, was continued until Tuesday to become perfectly sober and went to jail to put in the time.

Cliff Morag, arrested on Calhoun street Friday by Detective Sergeant W. E. Pappert and found to be armed with a blackjack, was arraigned on a loitering charge and fined $5 and costs, going to jail. William Fairwell, Morag's companion, was turned loose.

Charles "Wing" Frazier, a colored man, arrested Friday afternoon as he was about to leave town, was arraigned on a charge of associating with prostitutes, on an affidavit filed some days ago, when the police raided a colored den on Holman street, and pleaded guilty. Judge Kerr fined him $15 and costs and added twenty-five days in jail, which will hold him for quite a spell. He made his escape from the house the night it was raided.

John Ittall, better known as Ed Etchey, was continued to Oct. 4 on a loitering charge. By that time an officer will arrive from Jeffersonville reformatory to take Etchey back as a parole violator. He was arrested early in the morning of September 17 following burglaries at the Loos grocery, on South Calhoun street, and at a barber shop on Woodland avenue, and a hold-up on West Creighton avenue, in all of which he is believed to have been concerned. James King, who was found drunk in a box car in the Wabash yards at the same time Etchey was taken from another car, was turned loose.

John Barry, who has been drunk for a year and caddling on the streets to get money to keep so, was continued until Wednesday under $100 bond.

BUFFALOES' BAR IS SOON TO BE CLOSED

At a meeting of the Buffalo lodge Friday evening the members unanimously voted to close the bar room and to permanently abolish this feature of the order, this action being taken in view of the threatened suit by the W. C. T. U. against all clubs and lodges maintaining bars. The bar was ordered closed a week ago by the president and his action was ratified by the members Friday evening. Inasmuch as all the clubs and lodges show a disposition to close their bars voluntarily it is not believed that legal action on the part of the W. C. T. U. will be necessary.

WHY "NUTS" ARE AMONG THE GREATEST BALL PLAYERS

Single-track Mind a Peculiar Equipment Of Some Of the Best Of Diamond Stars—"Rube" Waddell, Now Dead, Set An Example That Has Found Many Imitators In the Big Leagues—Eccentricity a Big Drawing Card

John McGraw, Clark Griffith and other managers have a saying that they like their ball players a little "queer."

It is a peculiar fact that in a business which pays tremendous salaries some of the biggest stars of baseball are "nuts."

There were "Rube" Waddell and "Bugs" Raymond, two of the greatest pitchers who ever swung a ball across a plate. They were "nuts" of the most pronounced type.

A "nut" when it comes to athletics, at least in baseball, is a gentleman who esteems himself highly.

It is this sort of ball player who makes the best player.

The player who thinks he can beat the other fellow at anything, who never is out in his own mind no matter what the umpire may say, who thinks he is better than any pitcher and consequently can hit anything that ever was tossed across a plate, is withal a better player than one whose intelligence may tell him that he cannot do or is not all these things.

THE LATEST "NUT."

Benny Kauff, who is flashing across the Federal league cutcheon this season, and who is said to be the best young ball player that has been developed since Ty Cobb broke in, is said to be a "nut."

Benny loads himself down with some $3,000 worth of diamonds everytime he dons his street clothes.

He is a fighter of the Zimmerman order, wholly without temperament but with plenty of temper, and not at all given to introspection.

He has what novelists call, a single-track mind. These single-track mind ball players are the best.

J. Franklin Baker was a conspicuous example of the ball player with the single track mind.

If he hadn't been he never could have made a home run in a world's series—four of them in fact.

When Baker faced "Rube" Marquard in that famous series he concentrated entirely upon the matter at hand which was to hit the baseball.

He was not thwarted in his design by the multitudinous extraneous detail of a world's series—the fact that 30,000 fans were yelling at him and wondering if he could sustain the record he had made as a slugger.

It is those players who are constantly wondering what the other fellows are thinking of them that fail miserably in the "big leagues."

A man may burn up a minor league and yet when he reaches the major leagues his imagination runs riot, he is unable to concentrate—and he fails.

"Nuts" as a rule are unimaginative players. They have single-track minds and they can concentrate. Combined with a vaulting egotism which is the thirty-third degree of pure conceit, the average baseball "nut" has precisely the correct state of mind to do things under stress—when the imaginative fellow, less sure of himself and too much aware of his responsibility cracks wide open and goes down in baseball history as another "blooper."

THE COLLEGIAN.

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Browns, favors a ball team of ex-collegiate players. He maintains they are mentally more active and consequently able to play more and better baseball than the man

BRANCH RICKEY IN A HAPPY MOOD

agination that ran riot. They were impervious to the pit-falls built by this one quality that has taken many men out of the big leagues who mechanically were able to play big league baseball could they have done it under stress.

Lajoie is of the phlegmatic type. His confidence in himself is unlimited.

There never was a pitcher that Lajoie secretly did not believe he could hit safely anytime he wished.

Cobb is of the more dynamic type, gifted with an imagination, but with an aggression which completely offsets any deleterious effect common to mental introspection.

Cobb must have imagination else he could not devise and execute the base running plays he continually plays on catchers. He is naturally smart and congenitally aggressive. His aggression is greater than his imagination for what his brain devises his body fights for with the most vicious vitality extant on the diamond.

UNIMAGINATIVE PLAYERS.

Jackson, Zimmerman and Kauff are unimaginative fellows with precisely the right state of mind to do things on the baseball field, for they are bothered only by one thing at a time, minds perfectly single tracked!

Such players are more apt to do things in the pinch that the smarter ball player, given to moods that are influenced by immaterial detail, cannot do.

For example, when Cobb steps to the plate he goes there to get a hit because Cobb can get a hit when Cobb wants to, or so he thinks. The imaginative player goes to the plate to get a hit because it will help his team to win and vindicate him in the eye of certain carping critics, etc. Perceive the distinction in the difference! Cobb is concerned only with getting a hit—concentration—as against the other fellow who is concerned with getting a hit because it means, etc.;—imagination. Concentration against imagination. The single-track mind against the mind trained to operate a dozen tracks.

Baseballically the victory always will be on the side of the single-track mind, though usually they are as John McGraw says, "a little queer."

what the newspapers are saying of him, caring less what they think of him and concentrating entirely on the matter at hand which is to hit the ball, field it and run the bases.

It is a fact that only one great star before the public today is a college man and whatever damaging imagination his mind training gave him he offsets by the most beautiful concentration ever seen on a baseball field.

That man is Edward Trowbridge Collins, a graduate of the University of Columbia, and accounted one of the swiftest thinkers in baseball. A NOTABLE EXCEPTION.

Lacking physical ruggedness to stand the gruelling strain of a championship race, one after another, Collins substitutes for this a remarkable concentration. He can put more life into a single play than any man on any infield in baseball today.

But Lajoie, Jackson, Zimmerman, Bresnahan, Kauff and dozens of other first-water players came into the league relatively illiterate.

They were unhampered by any im-

whose mind had not been trained to think.

Clarke Griffith, "Foxy Grit" as he is known to baseball fans of a nation, widely disagrees with Rickey and declares that for the very reason college men have minds trained to think they cannot fail to be more imaginative and hence more susceptible to the extraneous detail of the game.

For that reason he counts them of less value than the single-track mind that comes off the sand-lots, reads scarcely well enough to know

RICH OR POOR EDDTORYIAL

Night after night our most respected citizens of Bingville has set around in Hen Weathersby's store and wishd they was rich beyond the fondest dreams of averice. Of course if wishing would make a person rich everybody in Bingville would be a millionaire—our back subscriptions would all be paid up and we would boost the price of the Bugle from $2 per annum to about $10 per annum.

It don't do no good for people to set around a stove in the winter or in the shade in the summer and wishd they was rich, and we shall endeavor to prove by this editorial that if they was rich they wouldn't be no happier than they are now.

Without incriminating ourself, we will admit that money comes in turrible convenient at times, and that a person can't pay debts without it, but after all money aint the only thing in this world, and them as has more of it than they knows what to do with aint no better off than them as has none.

Take Cy Hoskins, for instants, who is the most wealthiest citizen of Bingville—Cy has money in the Bank at the Co Seat, he owns 3 or 4 farms and some things he must be happy? Answer—No!

In order to accumulate all these riches Cy has had to scrimp and scratch and save and deny hisself almost the bare necessities of life—he has had to trod over the poor and the widder and the orfans, he has had to foreclose mortgages, and as a result the habit of saving has made him sitch a tight-wad and so doggoned stingy that he's just perfectly miserable all the time for fear some person will get one cent's worth the best of him in a business deal.

Then take Hank Dewberry, for instants—Hank aint got one red cent to rub agin another nor'n half the time. He has to wear other people's shoes and clothes which is give to him and don't fit him, he has to beg the very tobacco he smokes and chews, but is Hank miserable? Anser, No! Hank is perfectly happy and full of joy all the day long—he never knows what a day will bring forth and he don't care—he don't know where his next meal's coming from, but it don't worry him a mite.

If Cy Hoskins could get as much happiness outen life as Hank Dewberry, we kalkilate Cy would be willing to pay as much as 10 cts for it.

LAND'S END

Bill Henshaw purchased a pair of gum boots at the Co. seat last week, and the first time he wore em he stepped on a nail which run through one boot into his foot, and now the boots aint waterproof and Bill says he don't care nothing about running a nail into his foot, but he does hate like 60 to spoil a new pair of boots.

Rufe Tarbell has been keeping company of late with Mary Bender and roomer says they will eventually be hitched, although the courtship may last for to these many years to come.

Homer Wilkins has purchased a new buggy at the Co. Seat, and since then all the girls of Land's End has been making eyes at Homer and we kalkilate he will be the most popular gent in these parts.

Miss Polly Seavey had her 52d birthday last Tuesday, but Miss Polly didn't celebrate it. She stopped celebrating her birthday about 30 years ago, and now she wouldn't say nothing about it at all, if it wasn't for the fibbers who keeps track of when she was born and reminds her every time she has a birthday.

LUCIFER.

DomeStic Trouble

Bill Hepburn, our artistic blacksmith, went to give hisself his regular weekly shave last Sunday only to discover that his wife Mehitabel had been using his razor to pare her corns with, and the edge was all nicked up.

Bill got turrible mad and stormed around and asked Mehitabel if she didn't have any more sense than to use his razor for a corn cutter. Mehitabel grabbed up a broom and hit Bill a whack over the head with same, and Bill fled from the house with his face all over lather and took refuge in his blacksmith shop, where he remained most of the day until Mehitabel's temper cooled off.

Bill Hepburn is a turrible strong man physically and aint afear'd of nobody in this world except his wife, who makes him stand around jest as she's a mind to whether Bill's in licker or not.

Eph has New Postage Cards

Eph Higgins, our enterprising P. M., desires us to a nounce to the general public that he has jest received from the U. S. Government at Warshington a whole grist of fresh postage cards for the use of his p. o. patrons.

Eph further states that in spite of the fact that most everything nowadays is advancing in price inclooding living expenses, clothes, et cetera too numerous to menthion, he will nevertheless continue to sell these postage cards to the public at the same old rate as heretofore or in other words at the rate of one cent each.

Eph says he aint the person to take advantage of the public and boost the price of a postage card to two or three cts. jest because everything is going up. If you desire postage cards to write on to your friends or enny-buddy else give Eph a call—large variety of postage cards to select from.

Huskin Bee!

Give by Cy Hoskins in his Barn! —Lem Quigley got a Kiss and an Awful Slap! —Cy got his Corn all Huskt!—More Work Than Pleashure

Cyrus Hoskins, one of our most respected and well-to-do citizens held his annual huskin bee in his barn last Tuesday eve'g. Cy has held a huskin bee in his barn every year for to these many years—that's the way Cy gets his corn husked for nothink as you might say, being as he's tighter with money than the hark to a tree and would rather do this than to pay anything for hiring his corn huskin did.

The festivities begin promptly at 6 p. m. and was attended by young and old alike, not only from Bingville, but from the surrounding country. Everybody fell to and nearly worked the skin off their fingers huskin Cy's corn for him, while Cy walked about among them smiling and urging them to work harder.

Considerable excitement was caused when Lem Quigley happened to find a red ear of corn, and follering out the custom hereabouts which entitles the finder of a red ear of corn to kiss enny girl present he pleases, Lem he up and chased after Sally Hoskins, and Sally run and screamed, but Lem he overtook her and kissed her right on the corn bin, to which she had clim for safety.

Sally blushed like everything and Lem stood there smilin and looking purty well satisfied with results until his wife who was present walked up and hit him a slap in the face that like of broke his jaw, to say nothing of nearly knockin his head off his shoul-ders.

Them as was present said they never saw Letitia Quigley any madder in all their born days. After she had slapped Lem, she grabbed holt of his arm and marched him right off home, and when they arrived there, there is no tellin what else she done to Lem. As Letitia passed out of the barn she turned around long enough to call Sally Hoskins a cat.

This little calamity naturally cast sort of a damper on the evening's proceedings. Several more ears of red corn was found, but them as found them, judging by what had happened to Lem, didn't appear to have the courage of their convictions, and as a result, no more promiscuous kessin was did.

About 9 p. m. Cy stopped the huskin bee long enough to pass around cider, apples and doughnuts, and everybody present et fit to bust. Cy only allowed twenty minits for lunch, and then he put all his guests back to huskin again and finished up the job by midnight. Then the barn floor was cleared for a dance.

Pete Hines, the one-eyed fiddler from Sorrow Holler, furnished the musick on his fiddle, but them as was present had worked so hard at huskin corn that they was too doggoned tired to dance much, and as a result the huskin bee broke about 1 a. m. and everybody went home consious of a evening profitably spent for Cy.

Our Wife Is Sick

We hope our subscribers will hear with deep regret that our own personal eddytorial wife is a purty sick woman as we go to press.

Last Thursday she done a lot of scrubbin around the house & slept around in the wet so to speak and as a result she ketched a cold in her head & just then she has been feeling very miserable. We git outen all pashients with our wife and have told her time & agin that she don't pear to use common sents cleanin and scrubbin so much until a person could eat a meal offen our kitchen floor its that clean, especially when she's liable to ketch her death of cold.

It aint only bad for her, but its also bad for us, being as sinst she's had that cold she sneezes all night long almost and as a result we're neerly wore out and used up fer lack of sleep. How can a husband git enny rest at nites, we ask, when his wife is layin alongside of him sneezin & whoopin every minit or so? Anser—he can't. Onet we got up in disgust about 3 p. m. and went down stairs and slept on the floor with a tag carpet over ourself, but we didn't sleep much being as the floor was so hard, and when we got up in the mornin we was so dingedlamin still that we could scarcely walk, and not only that but now he have a cold in our head and at this writing have also begun to sneeze.

Well, there's one consolation ennyhow—we may feel bad with sitch a cold and it will interfere with our eddytorial duties, but there's one thing shure, if our wife's cold gits better before ours does then she'll be the one who'll be kept awake at nites and thus we'll be revenged on her so to speak.

Jason Tucker chief of the Bingville fire brigade says that there aint been enough fires in Bingville during the past year to keep the brigade in practice, and unless there is a fire soon, he will be considerable discouraged and disgusted. Jase says what's the use havin a fire department unless you have fires to cope with. There's a good deal of truth in that.

Looks like rain as we go to press, but some times it don't rain even when it looks like it.

Amos Hillyer, our talented longer and legal light, insured Wils Miller's house last week against fire, being as Ame is also a insurance agent. Wils now says he was a fool to get his house insured, but Ame just nacherly talked and wheedled him into it. Ame is a pretty good insurance agent.

Lafe Whittaker went to tap a barl of cider last week to see if it had worked enough. When he loosened the bung it flew out with a defening report and just missed Lafe's head by two inches. Lafe said he heard it whistle as it went by. The bung hit the ceiling of the cellar with such force that it loosed a board, and Lafe kalkitates that it had of hit him in the head, he would now be suffering from conclusion of the brain.

INSURE YOUR LIFE AGAINST FATILITY!

I desire to announce to the people of Bingville and vicinity and elsewhere that I am still in the Life Insurance business, being the agent of several large Companies which insure people's lives through me. Did you ever stop to think how foolish it is to go on living in uncertainty without having your life insured? Did you ever stop to think how much benefit insurance money would be to your wife if you have one, or to your relatives, if you have not?

Statistics show that people whose lives is insured live long. That's why several well-known persons of Bingville who had life insurance with me for many years have recently dropped their policies, being as they said they couldn't see how life insurance would do them any good if they was to go on living always havin to pay premiums on them. There is something in this. In addition to all forms of life insurance, I am also the leading and only lawyer in Bingville, notary public, justice of the peace, and other things too numerous to menthion.

Yours For Life Insurance,
